SAY ALL IS STRAIGHT,

Members of the State Board Talk About the Records.

HOW THE EXTENSION WAS MADE

Secretary Coglan Acted on Directions Given to Him.

PROVISIONS OF THE CIVIL CODE

What the Sacramento Officials Say About Dalton's Charges.

It has been insinuated in various quarters that the records of the State Board of Equalization were not altogether straight in the matter of the extension of time granted to the Alameda County Board and for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the matter a Tribune representative made a trip to Sacramento yesterday. The State Board was in session in the Capitol building, but Secretary Coglan readily consented to an inspection of his books and all matters bearing on the subject. The volume containing the proceedings of the Board is very bulky, and a careful inspection of it failed to reveal any erasures or missing pages.

The first entry which relates indirectly to Alameda county is that bearing date of June 29th 1895, and which reads as follows. "Board met in San Francisco at call of chairman. All the members present except Mr Arnold. Applications having been received from several counties for extension of time to assessors under Section 3705 Political Code, the following order was made and certified to the Auditors of the respective counties."

Then follows a recital granting an extension of time in which to complete the assessments of Butte, Fresno, Kern, Mendocino, San Francisco, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Sonoma and Stanislaus counties.

Following comes this entry: "On motion of Mr. Colgan, seconded by Mr. Cheseborough, it was ordered that in case of future applications for extension, the clerk is authorized to issue the order as an act of the Board."

"The members of the Board," explained the Secretary, "were going to visit other counties to examine the assessment rolls and it was not known when they would all be together again to have a meeting of the Board. It was not because the members wanted to go on a vacation trip that the order was made. Any one can readily see that it would have worked a great hardship on various counties if no one had authority to grant extensions while the members of the Board were scattered in various parts of the State. Alameda county was only one of twelve counties granted an extension of time under this act of the Board. It has not been an unusual proceeding and the minutes of the Board for years back will show that just such steps have been taken by the Board under like circumstances. Here for instance, is an entry in the minutes of April 9th, 1891, stating that 'the Board ordered that all applications from assessors for extension of time be granted owing to the lateness of the season. Eight counties were granted an extension of time under that order, which necessarily carried with it an extension of time to every Board of Supervisors that might come under its provisions.

AUTHORITY TO EXTEND TIME.

"I have seen it stated," continued Mr. Coglan, "that the Board has no authority to make such an order, but Section 3705 of the Act governing this body recites that 'the State Board of Equalization may by an order entered upon its minutes and certified to the County Auditor of any county, extend for not exceeding twenty days the time fixed in this title for the performance of any act by the County Assessor, County Auditor or County Boards of Equalization.' Isn't that explicit enough?"

In addition to what has already been quoted the State Board is governed by the following legal provisions:

The State Board of Equalization must meet at the State Capitol on the 3rd Monday in July and continue in session from day to day, Sundays excepted, until the first Monday in August. At such meeting the Board must assess the franchise roadway, roadbed, rail and rolling stock of all railroads operating in more than one county, etc.

It must also hold regular meetings at the State Capitol on the second Monday of each month and such special meetings as the chairman may direct. The Board of individual members must whenever deemed necessary visit the several counties of the State for the purpose of inspecting the property. It must meet at the State Capitol on the first Monday in August and remain in session from day to day, Sundays excepted, until the first Monday in September and at such meeting to equalize the valuation of the taxable property of the several counties in the State for the purpose of taxation.

The members of the State Board when asked concerning the criticisms that had been passed upon their actions, said they thought it unnecessary to make any reply.

"We are sitting as judges in the matter of equalization," said Chairman Morehouse, "and it would be unbecoming in us to engage in a wrangle with those who it may be necessary to call before us in regard to the various assessments."

"Our actions have been fair and above board," said Mr. Beamer, "and the Board courts the fullest investigation of its proceedings."

WHAT THE STATE BOARD SAYS

In regard to the Alameda County assessment extension the members of the Board were perfectly willing to tell what they knew about it.

Said Mr Morehouse: "On Monday the 8th of July I was in Oakland with Mr. Cheseborough. While in front of the court house Supervisor Church approached and in the conversation which ensued in regard to assessment matters he remarked, 'We will want that time' referring to an extension of time to the Board of Equalization, which we were discussing at that moment. I replied 'Write to our secretary then; send up your application.' Mr. Church said 'I will do it right away,' and walked off. I went on to Santa Cruz, and thinking that Mr Church would make his application and that perhaps our secretary would not fully understand it, I telegraphed to him as follows: 'Alameda county wants time. Let them have it.'

"It appears however, that Secretary Coglan had not received word from the Alameda county people and not knowing how much time they wanted, ordered an extension of five days."

The entry on the minutes of the secretary's books in reference to this matter reads as follows:

"Wednesday, July 10th, 1895.—On receipt of telegram from the chairman the clerk issued the following order: It is hereby ordered that the time of the County Board of Equalization of Alameda County to equalize the property in the county for 1895 be extended to and including July 20th, 1895. Order certified to auditor this day.

"CHAS. M. COGLAN,
"Clerk."

Mr Colgan another member of the Board told his part in the proceedings as follows. "Friday, July 12th, Mr. Cheseborough and Mr Beamer were in Oakland. Mr. Cheseborough telephoned to me saying there was some comment on the action of the Board in granting the Alameda County Board of Supervisors an extension of time, it being stated that they had not asked for it. This surprised me a little, and I suggested that he ascertain the true status of affairs and notify the Board of Supervisors that we as a Board of Equalization did not desire to force any extension of time on Alameda or any other county, and that if desired the order granting an extension would be cancelled immediately. I also received a telephonic communication from Mr. Beamer on the subject, and then I understand both gentlemen went before the Board of Supervisors."

Mr. Cheseborough, who was present during the conversation with Supervisor Church, and also appeared before the Board of Supervisors, tells of his part in the proceedings as follows:

"Mr Morehouse and I were coming out of the Assessor's office in Oakland on the day he mentions when we were met by a gentleman whom I afterwards learned was Supervisor Church. The latter told Mr Morehouse that the Supervisors as a Board of Equalization would probably want an extension of time, and Mr. Morehouse, turning to me asked me to notify the clerk of the Board, Mr. Coglan, who was then in San Francisco. I delivered the message to the Secretary, and nothing more occurred in the matter until this day that Mr. Colgan has told you about.

"At the time Supervisor Church spoke to Mr Morehouse I did not know his name, but I told Mr. Beamer on the day I telephoned to Mr. Colgan that I would know him again if I saw him. We went into the meeting room of the Board of Supervisors and Mr. Beamer spoke to Supervisor Church, the gentleman I pointed out to him. The Board was in session at the time, but Mr Beamer was permitted to make a statement. He informed the Board that it was not bound by the assessment, and that as far as the State Board was concerned it did not desire to be placed in the position of thrusting time on them, and, furthermore, that the order granting an extension could be rescinded then and there. Supervisor Church replied that of course the time was wanted, and he offered a resolution asking the State Board for an extension of ten days, and that it be telegraphed to the Secretary of the Board here immediately. The motion was put while we were standing there, and, so far as I know, was carried unanimously."

The telegram referred to reads as follows:

Oakland, Cal., July 12, 3:30 P. M.
Chas. M. Coglan, State Board Equalization:

I have been this day instructed to wire the State Board Equalization and request on behalf of the Board of Equalization of the County of Alameda an extension of ten days' time from and after July 15th, in which to equalize the assessment of Alameda county.
(Signed) HIRAM BAILEY,
Chairman.

FRANK C. JORDAN, Clerk.

Secretary Coglan says he received this telegram at Sacramento about 4 P. M. of the day it was sent. He immediately entered the order, made a copy of it and certified it to the auditor. The minutes on the subject reads as follows:

Friday, July 12th, 1895.—On application of the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County the time was further extended as per following order: "It is hereby ordered that the time of the County Board of Equalization of Alameda County to equalize the property in the county for 1895 be extended to and including Thursday, July 25, 1895.
CHAS. M. COGLAN,
Clerk.

THE EXTENSION RATIFIED.

It has been contended that the extensions granted by the secretary would not be valid on the ground that the Board had not concurred, but it appears that his acts were ratified at a meeting of the Board on Monday, July 15th, 1895, when the Board met, with Messrs. Arnold, Beamer, Cheseborough, Colgan and Chairman Morehouse present. The entries made by the Secretary at various times were read and approved as the act of the Board.

MR. BEAMER'S PLAIN TALK.

Mr. Beamer tells of his experience before the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, sitting as Equalizers, as follows: "I addressed myself to the Board and said, 'Now, gentlemen, I don't want any further misunderstanding about this matter. The State Board prefers that local boards complete their work within the time prescribed by law. If this Board desires an extension of time the State Board will no doubt grant it, but we want it distinctly understood it will be at your express request. You will either ask for it now and right here or forever hold your peace.' So far as I remember there was not a dissenting voice against the resolution calling for an extension, and Mr. Cheseborough and I, after having communicated with Mr. Colgan over the wire, felt that in addressing the Supervisors as I did that I expressed the sentiments of a majority of the State Board."

The Board are apparently satisfied as to the legality of their proceedings in the matter and have no doubt that they will be sustained in case Assessor Dalton makes a contest.

PLENTY OF GOOD MEN.

Senator Squire of Washington on the Presidential Outlook.

He Is Working Vigorously to Get San Francisco the Convention.

Special Correspondence to the Tribune.

NEW YORK July 31.—Senator Squire of Washington is in the city. He was asked in an interview if he had heard any intimation from the West about presidential candidates and who the West would favor.

He said: "You know as much about that as I do. I could probably talk about western favorites, but it would be idle chatter.

"We have five or six men to lay whose names are on the tip of everyones tongue as a possibility.

"There is General Harrison. We all know he drove the stage well one time. The question is, do we want him for a driver again?

"Then comes Thomas B. Reed. He will hold the second place in point of power, in the speakership, in the gift of the government. To be the unanimous choice of his colleagues in Congress for the speakership is a great thing. He is perhaps the best parliamentarian in the United States.

"Then there is Morton. He is not a speech maker or a pyrotechnic statesman. He is sure, solid and safe.

"I have been in the Senate with Allison six years and I have studied him carefully. He is a student, accurate, judicious, able and approachable.

"McKinley I admire. He is perhaps a more sympathetic man than any of the other candidates.

"Chauncey Depew, is brilliant and well poised. He has an accurate and judicial mind and is popular.

"In fact, there is not a man prominently named but about whom something nice can be said. The only trouble is we have the embarassment of riches.

"We have excellent timber and yet, as in war times, when a rail splitter comes to the front, a man as yet unknown may be chosen and may prove equal to our monumental president. The West, I do not think, has made a choice.

"There is one thing I want you to put me down as being heartily in favor of and that is the holding of the national convention in San Francisco.

"I want the East through her representatives to come out and see our country.

"The East stays within itself and never gets away from its extreme localisms.

"Someone has said that had Columbus discovered the Pacific Coast there would never have been any New England.

"The West is like a young giant just awakened and stretching out his arms to feel his strength.

"The West wants to enter into better fellowship with the East and this is a chance to accomplish that end.

"If the convention was held there, the railroads could arrange to sell tickets so that in returning tourists could pass through Washington and Oregon. It would be an admirable way of bringing the East and the West together."

TO TRY FLAX GROWING.

Government Experiments to be Made in the Sound District.

If Good Fiber Can Be Produced the Industry Will Be Profitable.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Extended investigations of much importance to the commercial interests of the country having in view the determination of the possibility of growing flax here successfully for fibre have been decided upon by the agricultural department.

The work will be begun at once and will cover this season and doubtless will extend to next year.

The experiments will be conducted at East Ferndale, Wash.

Agricultural officials believe that this region is best adapted to flax growing in view of its damp, moist climate, and the best flax raised in this country, practically all of which is for oil purposes and none for use as fibre, is said to be raised in the vicinity of Puget Sound.

The investigations will involve expenditures aggregating at least $9,000 and will be in charge of Dr. A. W. Tronton, the agent of the department there, who will be assisted by an expert Belgian, who has been in this country some time.

The experiments are regarded as of great importance and will be watched with much interest by manufacturers.

The work will be begun at once, and the flax, after being grown and treated, will be sent to factories.

The manufacture of the fibre probably will be done voluntarily by establishments anxious as to the possibility of having flax evolved into fibre, instead of importing it from abroad.

Young Lawyers to Meet.

The third regular meeting of the Alameda County Law Association will be held this evening in Dept. I. of the Superior Court. Frank Leavitt, a bright young star in the legal firmament, will address the meeting on "The Objects of the Association," and Mr. Holland will talk on "The Conveying of Real Property."

TWO JURORS ARE PASSED

A Good Morning's Work Done in the Durrant Case.

He Rides in the Black Maria Now Instead of a Buggy.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Theodore Durrant was this morning taken from the county jail in the regular prison van instead of driving in the sheriff's buggy, as on the previous day's trial.

This prevented pedestrians from following and avoided the general notice which the sheriff has considered bad for the prisoner.

The new venue of jurors was on hand for examination.

The majority sought to be excused on one pretext or another.

After a hard morning's work, however, two additional jurors were secured and sworn to try the case.

Nathan Crocker, a broker, and M. R. Dempster, a commission merchant, were the two additional jurors.

This was the best morning's work so far.

The four jurors thus far obtained are considered by the prosecution much above the average in criminal cases.

The prosecution does not believe the deposition of Charles H. Clarke, the traveling salesman now in Boston, will aid Durrant much.

Shrould he return to testify he will be arrested, it is said, at the instance of former employers here for frauds.

The police are considering the advisability of trying to extradite Clark, and bring him back here so that he can be cross-examined.

When Durrant was being taken from the court room a well dressed and handsome woman called out "My darling" and tried to kiss him.

The prisoner is the object of much hero worship.

MEN MANGLED.

Frightful Explosion in a Steel Plant in Ohio.

LORRAINE, O., July 31.—At the Johnson Steel Plant this morning gas accumulated in forging to an impact of cinders, which united with a hot air blast from a blower and caused an explosion that shook the entire plant.

HURST FOR GOVERNOR.

Maryland Democrats Endorse the Administration of Cleveland.

Senator Gorman's Friends Appear to Have Controlling Votes.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BALTIMORE, July 31.—Long before the opening of the Democratic State convention today the hall was crowded.

Judge Fisher, the choice of the independents for governor, seemed to be gaining strength and may be a compromise candidate. His friends claims he will have 40 votes at the outset. The total vote is 117.

The platform will endorse the National and State administration and declare for gold.

Hattersly W. Talbot, chairman of the State Central Committee, named Bernard Cater of Baltimore temporary chairman.

The mention of Senator Gorman's name by some one in the crowd was greeted with mingled hisses and cheers.

In addressing the convention Mr. Carter asked Maryland to set the example to all the other Democratic states by rolling up a larger Democratic majority than ever before.

The temporary officers were made permanent.

The resolutions adopted approved of the Democratic platform of 1892, and of the able and patriotic administration of President Cleveland.

They declare against free silver and approve the Wilson tariff bill, which is characterized as the best the country has known in 25 years.

The administration of Governor Brown is highly complimented.

The resolutions demand a fair reassessment.

When nominations for governor were called for, Mr. Grason presented the name of ex-Judge William A. Fisher of Baltimore.

His reference to Maryland's representatives not representing the wishes of their constitutents in Congress was greeted by loud cries of "Gorman! Gorman!"

Barnard Carter presented the name of John E. Hurst, a Baltimore millionaire, who, he said, was unpledged or uninfluenced. Hurst is regared as a Gorman candiate and a scene of wild confusion ensued which was only quieted by a threat to clear the galleries.

Mr. Biedler nominated State Senator Thomas G. Hayes, champion of re-assessment.

The result of the first ballot was: Hurst, 86, Fisher, 31, giving nomination to John E. Hurst.

Hayes received four votes which agreed to change for Hurst when it was seen he would be the nominee.

Hurst's nomination was made unanimous.

Charles S. Calothers was nominated for attorney-general and Marion Dekalb Smith for comptroller. The convention then adjourned.

BADLY BUNGED UP.

It Will Be a Long Time 'Ere Schaeffer Can Play Again.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—As an after effect of the accident Saturday to Jake Schaeffer, in which the wizard fractured his right arm, comes the news that two big billiard tournaments, the plans of which have been under way for some time, have been declared off.

Whether this means that the world's greatest experts are to be seen in competition this winter or not will depend largely upon Schaeffer's condition when his arm has thoroughly mended.

The promoters of the proposed tournaments do not care to go ahead with arrangements unless it is certain that the Wizard can be at the contest.

Schaeffer was in a cheerful frame of mind at his home last evening and in fair physical condition, considering that he has been through a siege of the most excruciating pain.

Not only did the fall off the cable car fracture and splinter a bone in his forearm, but tore all of the tendons in his wrist out of place and as well as to remove the splinters of bone.

The attending physicians do not hold out much hope that he will come out of the trouble as good for billiard playing as he was before, but Jake himself is supremely hopeful.

LOTS OF BIG GAME THERE.

It Is Believed the Settlers Will Attack the Hostiles.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A special to the Record from its correspondent with the troops now on the way to the scene of the Wyoming Indian troubles, says:

The Indians are reported camped on Fall river and the settlers assert that just as soon as the troops get near the settlement they will attack the Indians and rely upon the troops for assistance. The settlers have scouts out in the mountains.

One returned a short time ago and claims that there is a camp of about 200 Indians in a valley about twenty miles from Marysville, but it is hard to get reliable information.

One of the settlers who has returned relates that he saw five Indians, and another arriving about an hour later, claims that all the Indians on the Fort Hall agency are camped on Fall river.

Most of the settlers rely for their subsistence and revenue on hunting the big game.

They slaughter a large quantity of game and the hunting parties they conduct through Jackson's Hole slaughter more game in one year than the Indians do in five, but the settlers are under cover of a new law which was passed February 22, 1895, which was to prevent the slaughtering of game except during the months of September, October and November, and then only the male animals, except such as were actually needed for the hunters' subsistence.

The settlers were anxious to keep the Indians out of the country as every animal that they killed meant a source of so much revenue less to the white men, and they intended to put a stop to the Indians visiting the country.

"The settlers last year declared if the Indians hunted for big game this season they would organize and wipe them out.

The settlers look on the big game as their private property and in fact during my stay in the Jackson's Hole country I was fed on fresh-killed elk meat.

If the Indians were voters of the State of Wyoming their right to kill game would never be questioned.

There are a few good citizens ranching in Jackson's Hole country, but the majority of the settlers are men who have left their country for the country's good.

The Jackson's Hole country is recognized as a place of refuge for outlaws of every description from Wyoming, Idaho and the adjacent country.

TO DEFEND THE GATE.

Improved Armament Is to Be Placed at San Francisco.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The reports received at the office of the Chief Engineers indicate that satisfactory progress is being made in the fortifications and preparations for defense of the harbor at San Francisco.

Among the works which are expected to be completed during the year is the constructions of emplacements for the two 12-inch guns on new disappearing carriages. This work will cost when completed about $72,000.

The mortar battery, which was begun in 1893, has been completed and four of the 12-inch gun lifts have been made ready for service and put in place.

The emplacement for one of the three new 10-inch guns on disappearing carriages has also been finished and it is expected that the second of them will be completed during the year.

While naturally averse to discussing the secrets of fortification improvements the engineers about army headquarters express gratification at the progress of the work in the vicinity of San Francisco.

TO MAKE TIRES.

A Big Steel Industry to Be Located at Chicago.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A local paper today has the following:

Another great steel company will soon be located in Chicago, and this city will become the center of the largest output of locomotive and car wheel tires in the country.

Well founded reports are to the effect that a deal is on foot whereby the Chicago Tire and Spring Company's plant at Melrose will pass into the hands of the Latrobe Steel Tire and Iron Company.

This is only the first move toward a consolidation of all the steel tire interests in the United States which will bring Chicago some of the largest steel interests in the East and eventually give employment to an immense number of people.

There are in the country only five companies which manufacture locomotive and car wheel tires and the plan is to merge them into one big concern.

COSTLY AND CUMBERSOME

A New System Needed for Examining Mineral Lands.

At the Present Rate It Will Cost About Three Million Dollars.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The work thus far done under the law passed by the last Congress for the examination and classification of mineral lands in the grant of the Northern Pacific in Montana and Idaho has shown that the method is far from satisfactory and that some other plan will have to be adopted.

The law contemplated that the examinations were to be finished in two years, but it has been figured out that in the small district of Montana, that of Bozeman, that if three commissioners should each mount a horse every morning and ride directly through the lands to be examined at the rate of twenty miles a day it would take them three years merely to ride across the land and they would then be able to see only a little strip on either side of them, leaving a strip unseen on each side nearly a half mile wide.

They could not make the examination with any accuracy whatever and their work would be far from complete.

It has also been shown that the examinations thus far made have cost the government 25 cents an acre.

There are 12,000,000 acres to examine, and the total cost is thus figured at $3,000,000, though this is said to be a low estimate, because the process is much slower where disputes arise and where testimony has to be taken.

Besides the examinations thus far made are in the agricultural regions where there is little question of the quality of the lands.

It is also said that the machinery and methods of procedure is cumbersome and unsatisfactory.

Commissioner Lamoreaux says the method being adopted with lands of other roads seems to be a much better one.

In a mineral country the land office before patenting lands to the railroad companies advertise the intention of such patenting, withholding for sixty days all lands within six miles of a known mineral claim and inviting protests to passing to patent lands which are supposed to be mineral.

If a protest is made the land covered is withheld until an examination is made.

Considerable controversy arose between the department and the Southern Pacific railroad before this regulation was made.

The Southern Pacific controls and owns nearly all the grants in the West which are valuable for minerals, this being the case of the old grants to the California and Oregon and Oregon and California companies.

The people along these roads represented to the department that the Southern Pacific was making efforts to rush its lands to patent, thus closing out all possibility of further effort to secure the mineral lands by prospectors.

The patents which were about to issue were withheld until the regulations were made, not, however, without a protest from the Southern Pacific Company, which insisted that ample opportunity had been given prospectors to locate mineral claims if they desired.

The department issued the order and the settlers and prospectors along the line of road are now given an opportunity to make an examination of the lands and have their attention called to the fact that certain mineral claims have heretofore been located and for sixty days they may prospect within six miles of the claim and any land that is thought by the prospectors to be mineral is exempted when the patent passes for adjoining lands.

The protests have resulted in holding up lands which if once passed to patent might be found to be very valuable in possession of the company and if mineral was discovered after patent was issued it would not affect the title of the company.

IT IS WELL WELCOMED.

Vandercook's New Road Will Build Up the County.

It Will Open Up to Oakland a Very Prosperous District.

The Tribune of yesterday published as an extract from the San Jose Mercury the following paragraph:

Wh[illegible] the electric line between Oakland and Haywards was projected there was a general shaking of heads among the [illegible] and the know-it-alls. It would never pay. But not only has it proved a profitable investment but it has wonderfully built up the section through which it passes and it has been the means of taking to Oakland hundreds of thousands of dollars in trade that never before had gone to that city.

Th[illegible] of this statement [illegible] and no attempt is made [illegible] who at the [illegible] line in question [illegible] and disaster. What has [illegible] Haywards line [illegible] justification be said of the [illegible] and the other line [illegible] these feel [illegible] the [illegible] thriving communities which they [illegible] in the world.

[illegible] not reach all parts of Alameda county [illegible] until similar lines [illegible] rich country surrounding [illegible] Oakland will [illegible] enjoy the [illegible] of this part of the State.

[illegible] has [illegible] been [illegible] within [illegible] business [illegible] of Oakland [illegible] trade [illegible] Coral Hollow county.

This is [illegible] which is now [illegible] Vandercook has [illegible] his [illegible] connect with the Vandercook [illegible] Oakland system [illegible] from the corner of Eighth street and Broadway [illegible] seventh street [illegible] The amount [illegible] be built [illegible] greatest [illegible] the latest [illegible] within eight months [illegible] common [illegible] farthest within six months [illegible] been asked [illegible] of this city is [illegible] enough to put the line through [illegible] assistance.

The line will run through a country which is [illegible] railway service [illegible] frank [illegible] with thriving and populous communities [illegible] from [illegible] the present terminus of the [illegible] system on Fruit Vale avenue [illegible] in the vicinity of Mills College [illegible] the limits of San Leandro where it takes a turn around Lake Chabot into Castro valley thence through [illegible] into Dublin and the Livermore valley. The line will follow the main county road from Dublin to Livermore and a spur track will be built to Pleasanton.

People who have occasion to travel in this direction [illegible] know that they accomplish the journey only with a great deal of difficulty. They will therefore see the great advantages to be derived by the building of this line because they will be afforded an opportunity of reaching any spot along a rich and prosperous section of country.

Not alone [illegible] the property owners willing to grant right of way through their lands but the press in San Leandro Haywards and Livermore published articles showing that the new road meant to the thriving towns for which they spoke both wealth and population.

AN ENCOURAGING VIEW.

A well known merchant of this city said today: "Oakland ought to have twice as many manufactories as she has and she would have them if she could only get coal that did not come either from the other side of the United States or the other side of the globe. As I understand it the Vandercook line is aiming to reach the Corral Hollow coal country and if it is that means that coal will be laid down here just as low as coal is placed at factories in the East. With cheap coal comes factories with factories come employes with employes come homes and with homes and an increased population come commercial progress and the eventual advancement of Oakland to the dignity of a metropolis. Every merchant that I know welcome the Vandercook road."

L. I. Vandercook the projector of this great enterprise is a young man yet he has already done a great deal for this city. He has built and is still struggling to build lines into all the centers of population in East Oakland and his enterprise is appreciated by the people whom he has placed within a few minutes ride of the heart of this city.

VOL. XXXX. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 31, 1895. NO. 28.

SAY ALL IS STRAIGHT,

Members of the State Board Talk About the Records.

HOW THE EXTENSION WAS MADE

Secretary Coglan Acted on Directions Given to Him.

What the Sacramento Officials Say About Dalton's Chargos.

It has been insinuated in various quarters that the records of the State Board of Equalization were not altogether straight in the matter of the extension of time granted to the Alameda County Board and for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the matter a Tribune representative made a trip to Sacramento yesterday. The State Board was in session in the Capitol building but Secretary Coglan readily consented to an inspection of his books and all matters bearing on the subject. The volume containing the proceedings of the Board is very bulky, and a careful inspection of it failed to reveal any erasures or missing pages.

The first entry which relates indirectly to Alameda County is that bearing date of June 29th 1895, and which reads as follows: 'Board met in San Francisco at call of chairman. All the members present except Mr. Arnold. Applications having been received from several counties for extension of time to assessors under Section 3705 Political Code, the following order was made and certified to the Auditors of the respective counties.'

Then follows a recital granting an extension of time in which to complete the assessments of Butte, Fresno, Kern, Mendocino, San Francisco, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Sonoma and Stanislaus counties.

Following comes this entry: 'On motion of Mr. Colgan, seconded by Mr. Cheseborough, it was ordered that in case of future applications for extension, the clerk is authorized to issue the order as an act of the Board.'

"The members of the Board," explained the Secretary, "were going to visit other counties to examine the assessment rolls and it was not known when they would all be together again to have a meeting of the Board. It was not because the members wanted to go on a vacation trip that the order was made. Any one can readily see that it would have worked a great hardship on various counties if no one had authority to grant extensions while the members of the Board were scattered in various parts of the State. Alameda county was only one of twelve counties granted an extension of time under this act of the Board. It has not been an unusual proceeding and the minutes of the Board for years back will show that just such steps have been taken by the Board under like circumstances. Here for instance, is an entry in the minutes of April 9th, 1891, stating that 'the Board ordered that all applications from assessors for extension of time be granted owing to the lateness of the season. Eight counties were granted an extension of time under that order, which necessarily carried with it an extension of time to every Board of Supervisors that might come under its provisions.

AUTHORITY TO EXTEND TIME.

"I have seen it stated," continued Mr. Coglan, "that the Board has no authority to make such an order, but Section 3703 of the Act governing this body recites that 'the State Board of Equalization may by an order entered upon its minutes and certified to the County Auditor of any county, extend for not exceeding twenty days the time fixed in this title for the performance of any act by the County Assessor, County Auditor or County Boards of Equalization.' Isn't that explicit enough?"

In addition to what has already been quoted the State Board is governed by the following legal provisions:

The State Board of Equalization must meet at the State Capitol on the 3rd Monday in July and continue in session from day to day, Sundays excepted, until the first Monday in August. At such meeting the Board must assess the franchise, roadway, roadbed, rail and rolling stock of all railroads operating in more than one county, etc.

It must also hold regular meetings at the State Capitol on the second Monday of each month and such special meetings as the chairman may direct. The Board of individual members must whenever deemed necessary visit the several counties of the State for the purpose of inspecting the property. It must meet at the State Capitol on the first Monday in August and remain in session from day to day, Sundays excepted, until the first Monday in September and at such meeting to equalize the valuation of the taxable property of the several counties in the State for the purpose of taxation.

The members of the State Board when asked concerning the criticisms that had been passed upon their actions, said they thought it unnecessary to make any reply.

"We are sitting as judges in the matter of equalization," said Chairman Morehouse, "and it would be unbecoming in us to engage in a wrangle with those who it may be necessary to call before us in regard to the various assessments."

"Our actions have been fair and above board," said Mr. Beamer, "and the Board courts the fullest investigation of its proceedings."

WHAT THE STATE BOARD SAYS.

In regard to the Alameda County assessment extension the members of the Board were pretedly willing to tell what they knew about it.

Said Mr. Morehouse: "On Monday the 4th of July I was in Oakland with Mr. Cheseborough. While in front of the court house, Supervisor Church approached and in the conversation which ensued in regard to assessment matters he remarked: 'We will want that time,' referring to an extension of time to the Board of Equalization, which we were discussing at that moment. I replied: 'Write to our secretary, then send up your application.' Mr. Church said: 'I will do it right away,' and walked off. I went on to Santa Cruz and thinking that Mr. Church would make his application and that perhaps our secretary would not fully understand it, I telegraphed to him as follows: 'Alameda county wants time. Let them have it.'

'It appears, however, that Secretary Coglan had not received word from the Alameda county people and not knowing how much time they wanted, ordered an extension of five days.'

The entry on the minutes of the secretary's books in reference to this matter reads as follows:

'Wednesday, July 10th 1895.—On receipt of telegram from the chairman the clerk issued the following order: It is hereby ordered that the time of the County Board of Equalization of Alameda County to equalize the property in the county for 1895 be extended to and including July 29th, 1895. Order certified to auditor this day.

"CHAS. M. COGLAN,
"Clerk."

Mr. Colgan, another member of the Board, told his part in the proceedings as follows: "Friday, July 12th, Mr. Cheseborough and Mr. Beamer were in Oakland. Mr. Cheseborough telephoned to me saying there was some comment on the action of the Board in granting the Alameda County Board of Supervisors an extension of time, it being stated that they had not asked for it. This surprised me a little, and I suggested that he ascertain the true status of affairs and notify the Board of Supervisors that we as a Board of Equalization did not desire to force any extension of time on Alameda or any other county and that if desired the order granting an extension would be cancelled immediately. I also received a telephonic communication from Mr. Beamer on the subject, and then I understand both gentlemen went before the Board of Supervisors."

Mr. Cheseborough, who was present during the conversation with Supervisor Church, and also appeared before the Board of Supervisors, tells of his part in the proceedings as follows:

"Mr. Morehouse and I were coming out of the Assessor's office in Oakland on the day he mentions when we were met by a gentleman whom I afterwards learned was Supervisor Church. The latter told Mr. Morehouse that the Supervisors as a Board of Equalization would probably want an extension of time, and Mr. Morehouse, turning to me asked me to notify the clerk of the Board, Mr. Coglan, who was then in San Francisco. I delivered the message to the Secretary, and nothing more occurred in the matter until this day that Mr. Colgan has told you about.

"At the time Supervisor Church spoke to Mr. Morehouse I did not know his name, but I told Mr. Beamer on the day I telephoned to Mr. Colgan that I would know him again if I saw him. We went into the meeting room of the Board of Supervisors and Mr. Beamer spoke to Supervisor Church, the gentleman I pointed out to him. The Board was in session at the time, but Mr. Beamer was permitted to make a statement. He informed the Board that it was not bound by the assessment and that as far as the State Board was concerned it did not desire to be placed in the position of thrusting time on them, and, furthermore, that the order granting an extension could be rescinded then and there. Supervisor Church replied that of course the time was wanted, and he offered a resolution asking the State Board for an extension of ten days, and that it be telegraphed to the Secretary of the Board here immediately. The motion was put while we were standing there, and, so far as I know, was carried unanimously."

The telegram returned to reads as follows:

Oakland, Cal., July 12 3.30 P M.
Chas M. Coglan, State Board Equalization.

I have been this day instructed to wire the State Board Equalization and request on behalf of the Board of Equalization of the County of Alameda an extension of ten days' time from and after July 15th, in which to equalize the assessment of Alameda county.
(Signed) HIRAM BAILEY,
Chairman.

FRANK C. JORDAN, Clerk.

Secretary Coglan says he 'received this telegram at Sacramento about 4 P. M. of the day it was sent. He immediately entered the order made a copy of it and certified it to the auditor. The minutes on the subject reads as follows:

Friday, July 12th, 1895.—On application of the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County the time was further extended as per following order: "It is hereby ordered that the time of the County Board of Equalization of Alameda County to equalize the property in the county for 1895 be extended to and including Thursday, July 25, 1895.
CHAS. M. COGLAN,
Clerk.

THE EXTENSION RATIFIED.

It has been contended that the extensions granted by the secretary would not be valid on the ground that the Board had not concurred, but it appears that his acts were ratified at a meeting of the Board on Monday, July 15th, 1895, when the Board met, with Messrs. Arnold, Beamer, Cheseborough, Colgan and Chairman Morehouse present. The entries made by the Secretary at various times were read and approved as the act of the Board.

MR. BEAMER'S PLAIN TALK.

Mr. Beamer tells of his experience before the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, sitting as Equalizers, as follows: "I addressed myself to the Board and said, "Now gentlemen, I don't want any further misunderstanding about this matter. The State Board prefers that local boards complete their work within the time prescribed by law. If this Board desires an extension of time the State Board will no doubt grant it, but we want it distinctly understood it will be at your express request. You will either ask for it now and right here or forever hold your peace.' So far as I remember there was not a dissenting voice against the resolution calling for an extension, and Mr. Cheseborough and I, after having communicated with Mr. Colgan over the wire, felt that in addressing the Supervisors as I did that I expressed the sentiments of a majority of the State Board."

The Board are apparently satisfied as to the legality of their proceedings in the matter and have no doubt that they will be sustained in case Assessor Dalton makes a contest.

PLENTY OF GOOD MEN.

Senator Squire of Washington on the Presidential Outlook.

He Is Working Vigorously to Get San Francisco the Convention.

Special Correspondence to the Tribune.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Senator Squire of Washington is in the city. He was asked in an interview if he had heard any intimation from the West about presidential candidates and whom the West would favor.

He said: "You know as much about that as I do. I could probably talk about western favorites, but it would be idle chatter.

"We have five or six men today whose names are on the tip of everyones tongue as a possibility.

"There is General Harrison. We all know he drove the stage well one time. The question is, do we want him for a driver again?

"Then comes Thomas B. Reed. He will hold the second place in point of power, in the speakership, in the gift of the government. To be the unanimous choice of his colleagues in Congress for the speakership is a great thing. He is perhaps the best parliamentarian in the United States.

"Then there is Morton. He is not a speech maker or a pyrotechnic statesman. He is sure, solid and safe.

"I have been in the Senate with Allison six years and I have studied him carefully. He is a student, accurate, judicious, able and approachable.

"McKinley I admire. He is perhaps a more sympathetic man than any of the other candidates.

"Chauncey Depew, is brilliant and well poised. He has an accurate and judicial mind and is popular.

"In fact, there is not a man prominently named but about whom something nice can be said. The only trouble is we have the embarassment of riches.

"We have excellent timber and yet, as in war times, when a real splitter comes to the front, a man as yet unknown may be chosen and may prove equal to our monumental president. The West, I do not think, has made a choice.

"There is one thing I want you to put me down as being heartily in favor of and that is the holding of the national convention in San Francisco.

"I want the East through her representatives to come out and see our country.

"The East stays within itself and never gets away from its extreme localisms.

"Someone has said that had Columbus discovered the Pacific Coast there would never have been any New England.

"The West is like a young giant just awakened and stretching out his arms to feel his strength.

"The West wants to enter into better fellowship with the East and this is a chance to accomplish that end.

"If the convention was held there, the railroads could arrange to sell tickets so that in returning tourists could pass through Washington and Oregon. It would be an admirable way of bringing the East and the West together."

TO TRY FLAX GROWING.

Government Experiments to be Made in the Sound District.

If Good Fiber Can Be Produced the Industry Will Be Profitable.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Extended investigations of much importance to the commercial interests of the country having in view the determination of the possibility of growing flax here successfully for fibre have been decided upon by the agricultural department.

The work will be begun at once and will cover this season and doubtless will extend to next year.

The experiments will be conducted at East Ferndale, Wash.

Agricultural officials believe that this region is best adapted to flax growing in view of its damp, moist climate, and the best flax raised in this country, practically all of which is for oil purposes and none for use as fibre, is said to be raised in the vicinity of Puget Sound.

The investigations will involve expenditures aggregating at least $900,000 and will be in charge of Dr. A. W. Tronton, the agent of the department there, who will be assisted by an expert Belgian, who has been in this country some time.

The experiments are regarded as of great importance and will be watched with much interest by manufacturers.

The work will be begun at once, and the flax, after being grown and treated, will be sent to factories.

The manufacture of the fibre probably will be done voluntarily by establishments anxious as to the possibility of having flax evolved into fibre, instead of importing it from abroad.

TWO JURORS ARE PASSED

A Good Morning's Work Done in the Durrant Case.

He Rides in the Black Maria Now Instead of a Buggy.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Theodore Durrant was this morning taken from the county jail in the regular prison van instead of driving in the sheriff's buggy, as on the previous day's trial.

This prevented pedestrians from following and avoided the general notice which the sheriff has considered bad for the prisoner.

The new venire of jurors was on hand for examination.

The majority sought to be excused on one pretext or another.

After a hard morning's work, however, two additional jurors were secured and sworn to try the case.

Nathan Crocker, a broker, and M. R. Dempster, a commission merchant, were the two additional jurors.

This was the best morning's work so far.

The four jurors thus far obtained are considered by the prosecution much above the average in criminal cases.

The prosecution does not believe the deposition of Charles H. Clarke, the traveling salesman now in Boston, will aid Durrant much.

Should he return to testify he will be arrested, it is said, at the instance of former employers here for frauds.

The police are considering the advisability of trying to extradite Clark, and bring him back here so that he can be cross-examined.

When Durrant was being taken from the court room a well dressed and handsome woman called out "My darling" and tried to kiss him.

The prisoner is the object of much hero worship.

HURST FOR GOVERNOR.

Maryland Democrats Endorse the Administration of Cleveland.

Senator Gorman's Friends Appear to Have Controlling Votes.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BALTIMORE, July 31.—Long before the opening of the Democratic State convention today the hall was crowded.

Judge Fisher, the choice of the Independents for governor, seemed to be gaining strength and may be a compromise candidate. His friends claims he will have 40 votes at the outset. The total vote is 317.

The platform will endorse the National and State administration and declare for gold.

Hattersly W. Talbot, chairman of the State Central Committee, named Bernard Cater of Baltimore temporary chairman.

The mention of Senator Gorman's name by some one in the crowd was greeted with mingled hisses and cheers.

In addressing the convention Mr. Carter asked Maryland to set the example to all the other Democratic states by rolling up a larger Democratic majority than ever before.

The temporary officers were made permanent.

The resolutions adopted approved of the Democratic platform of 1892, and of the able and patriotic administration of President Cleveland.

They declare against free silver and approve the Wilson tariff bill, which is characterized as the best the country has known in 25 years.

The administration of Governor Brown is highly complimented.

The resolutions demand a fair reassessment.

When nominations for governor were called for, Mr. Grason presented the name of ex-Judge William A. Fisher of Baltimore.

His reference to Maryland's representatives not representing the wishes of their constitutents in Congress was greeted by loud cries of "Gorman! Gorman!"

Barnard Carter presented the name of John E. Hurst, a Baltimore millionaire, who, he said, was unpledged or influenced. Hurst is regard as a Gorman candiate and a scene of wild confusion ensued which was only quieted by a threat to clear the galleries.

Mr. Biedler nominated State Senator Thomas G. Hayes, champion of re-assessment.

The result of the first ballot was: Hurst, 86, Fisher, 31, giving nomination to John E. Hurst.

Hayes received four votes which agreed to change for Hurst when it was seen he would be the nominee.

Hurst's nomination was made unanimous.

Charles S. Carothers was nominated for attorney-general and Marion DeKalb Smith for comptroller. The convention then adjourned.

BADLY BUNGED UP.

It Will Be a Long Time 'Ere Schaeffer Can Play Again.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—As an after effect of the accident Saturday to Jake Schaeffer, in which the wizard fractured his right arm, comes the news that two big billiard tournaments, the plans of which have been under way for some time, have been declared off.

Whether this means that the world's greatest experts are to be seen in competition this winter or not will depend largely upon Schaeffer's condition when his arm has thoroughly mended.

The promoters of the proposed tournaments do not care to go ahead with arrangements unless it is certain that the Wizard can be at the contest.

Schaeffer was in a cheerful frame of mind at his home last evening and in fair physical condition, considering that he has been through a siege of the most excruciating pain.

Not only did the fall off the cable car fracture and splinter a bone in his forearm, but tore all of the tendons in his wrist out of place and as well as to remove the splinters of bone.

The attending physicians do not hold out much hope that he will come out of the trouble as good for billiard playing as he was before, but Jake himself is supremely hopeful.

INDIAN RIGHTS TRAMPLED ON.

The Whites Want to Have a Monopoly of the Hunting.

LOTS OF BIG GAME THERE.

It Is Believed the Settlers Will Attack the Hostiles.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A special to the Record from its correspondent with the troops now on the way to the scene of the Wyoming Indian troubles, says:

The Indians are reported camped on Fall river and the settlers assert that just as soon as the troops get near the settlement they will attack the Indians and rely upon the troops for assistance. The settlers have scouts out in the mountains.

One returned a short time ago and claims that there is a camp of about 200 Indians in a valley about twenty miles from Marysville, but it is hard to get reliable information.

One of the settlers who has returned relates that he saw five Indians, and another arrived about an hour later, claims that all the Indians on the Fort Hall agency are camped on Fall river.

Most of the settlers rely for their subsistence and revenue on hunting the big game.

They slaughter a large quantity of game and the hunting parties they conduct through Jackson's Hole slaughter more game in one year than the Indians do in five, but the settlers are under cover of a new law which was passed February 23, 1895, which was to prevent the slaughtering of game except during the months of September, October and November, and then only the male animals, except such as were actually needed for the hunters' subsistence.

The settlers were anxious to keep the Indians out of the country as every animal that they killed meant a source of so much revenue less to the white men, and they intended to put a stop to the Indians visiting the country.

"If settlers last year declared if the Indians hunted for big game this season they would organize and wipe them out.

The settlers look on the big game as their private property and in fact during my stay in the Jackson's Hole country I was fed on fresh-killed elk meat.

If the Indians were voters of the State of Wyoming their right to kill game would never be questioned.

There are a few good citizens residing in Jackson's Hole country, but the majority of the settlers are men who have left their country for the country's good.

The Jackson's Hole country is recognized as a place of refuge for outlaws of every description from Wyoming, Idaho and the adjacent country.

TO DEFEND THE GATE.

Improved Armament is to Be Placed at San Francisco.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The reports received at the office of the Chief Engineers indicate that satisfactory progress is being made in the fortifications and preparations for defense of the harbor of San Francisco.

Among the works which are expected to be completed during the year is the construction of emplacements for the two 12-inch guns on disappearing carriages. This work will cost when completed about $72,000.

The mortar battery, which was begun in 1893, has been completed and four of the 12-inch guns of this have been made ready for service and put in place.

The emplacement for one of the three new 10-inch guns on disappearing carriages has also been finished and it is expected that the second of them will be completed during the year.

While naturally averse to discussing the secrets of fortification improvements the engineers about army headquarters express gratification at the progress of the work in the vicinity of San Francisco.

TO MAKE TIRES.

A Big Steel Industry to Be Located at Chicago.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A local paper today has the following:

Another great steel company will soon be located in Chicago, and this city will become the center of the largest output of locomotive and car wheel tires in the country.

Well founded reports are to the effect that a deal is on foot whereby the Chicago Tire and Spring Company's plant at Melrose will pass into the hands of the Latrobe Steel Tire and Iron Company.

This is only the first move toward a consolidation of all the steel tire interests in the United States which will bring Chicago some of the largest steel interests in the East and eventually give employment to an immense number of people.

There are in the country only five companies which manufacture locomotive and car wheel tires and the plan is to merge them into one big concern.

MUST GET A REISSUE.

The Coming Bond Election Should Result in Success.

If It Does Not the City's Progress Will Be Temporarily Crippled.

An election will be held in this city a month from today and on its successful outcome depends to a considerable extent the future welfare of Oakland. The election is called for the purpose of issuing $140,000 in bonds, 120 of which are to be of the value of $1,000 each, and 40 of the value of $500 each. They will bear interest at the rate of four per cent per annum, payable annually. These bonds will be of the character known as "Serials" and one-fortieth will be paid annually. This will result in so light an increase in the tax rate that it will not be felt by the property owner. For instance the sum of $3,500, together with interest is all that is required to be paid the first year.

These bonds will be redeemed at the rate of one-fortieth each year as the State law, under which the bonds are to be issued, provides only for serials running, forty years.

The proceeds of these bonds, which if voted, will be sold between September 25th and October 1st, of this year, will be devoted to the payment of $140,000 in bonds, maturing October 1st, and which were issued by the city September 29th, 1892. The original amount was $167,000, of which $27,00 was redeemed in 180. The law providing for the redemption of this issue of 1892 was not as definite as the present law, and councils since 1892 have omitted to levy a tax each year for their redemption. The present law in its provision for redemption is definite and imperitive and cannot be avoided.

In the first annual report of Auditor Snow and in every report since the attention of the Mayor and Council of the city has been called to the early date when these bonds would mature, but the amount to be raised in any one year was so large that the provision was never made, every Council believing that just before these bonds matured there would be a release as is now proposed.

In the report of the Auditor for 1894 the following is found. "No provision has been made for the payment of $140,000 outstanding, redemption bonds of 1882 maturing by limitation October 1st, 1895. An election was held in September 29th, 1894, when the question of the issue of refunding bonds was submitted and defeated. The question may be resubmitted during the present fiscal year. If again defeated the whole sum of $140,000 will have to be provided for in the tax levy of 1895-96."

AUDITOR SNOW SPEAKS.

Auditor Snow who is enthusiastically in favor of the bond issue explains what the defeat of the measure means in the following words:

"If a tax sufficient to raise $140,000 be levied this year this would increase the rate of taxation from $1.12 which has been the rate for two years, to nearly $1.50 on the $100 valuation. It is not likely that the present city government would in the face of hard times ask so large a tax levy, but it would endeavor to provide for the $140,000 by eliminating from their annual estimate of expenses every improvement and as this would not suffice, reductions would also become necessary in the equipment of the departments.

"In the event of the defeat of this bond election another serious inconvenience would arise. The outstanding bonds mature October 1st and must then be paid or the City of Oakland will be blacked under the laws of many Eastern states. Banks and insurance corporations under this law will be restrained from purchasing any bonds issued by the City of Oakland. This would result in a high rate of interest on any bonds issued hereafter. This might be avoided, but only by the borrowing of $140,000 by the city. Anticipating the income from taxes which will be paid into the treasury in November, for the re-payment of this borrowed money. Our city charter, however, does not provide for the making of temporary loans which are common with Eastern cities."

The first year's interest on the $140,000 at four per cent will be $5,000. After that it is reduced each year. The levy the first year for this purpose would be less than one and a half mills on the dollar valuation, which, added to the tax of the individual tax payer, would never be discovered during the forty years.

Whatever opposition to the bonds there might have been was supposed to be confined to the Populists or those who wear the "No Bones" badge on the lapel of their coats. This party is largely composed of the working men, men who are looking work on public improvements. If public improvements cannot be made this year these men will be left without city work. This is now plainly seen by the laboring class and the present city government so far as it is represented by Populists earnestly advocates the issue of the bonds. Under the circumstances it is unreasonable to suppose that a vote will be polled against the measure sufficient to result in its defeat, but on the contrary the outlook is bright for the adoption of the measure.

RED HOT RESOLUTIONS.

A Citizens' Meeting Has Something to Say About the Local Water War.

There was an unusually large gathering at the City Hall Park last evening. The occasion of it being the announcement that the water company war would be under discussion. The following resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the City of Oakland for nearly a quarter of a century has unwillingly submitted to outrageous exactions and extortions of a local monopoly known as the Contra Costa Water Company, which has supplied its inhabitants with a quality of water that has upon more than one occasion been denounced as unhealthy, unwholesome and unfit generally for human consumption, and which has given forth dead fish, and has been actually black from animalism and organic matter, and

Whereas, because of being the city's only source of public water supply its management has been insolent and tyrannical in dealing with the public not only in private matters but in political affairs, it having upon the event of every municipal election dispensed large sums as a corruption fund, that its supremacy over the City Council and the people might be maintained, and

Whereas, The said Contra Costa Water Company annually sends to the municipal authorities and inflated valuation upon which its income is to be fixed and another valuation ridiculously low to the assessor upon which taxes are to be paid to the people for the privilege it enjoys in running its pipes over the bridges and through the streets of the public for which it gives no license or other monies to the public coffers as would an auctioneer or other similar business man, enjoying no special advantages except the right to support his family the best way he can, and

Whereas, Some two years ago, Mr. William J. Dingee and his associates engaged in a lawful and legitimate opposition, bringing as they did, pure, fresh and wholesome water from the artesian wells at Alvarado, and for which in the dullest period the country has ever known, the wages of good times were paid promptly and the hours of work were kept fair, and

Whereas, The presence of the said pure water of the Dingee or Oakland Water Company in the city has caused a reduction of the prices to the consumers of Oakland to within reason, where we no longer hear the cry which was once truthful, to wit: "We pay more for water than for bread!" and

Whereas, The said Oakland Water Company is now daily and nightly being hounded, harassed and hampered by the willful waste of its water by destroying its pipes, mains and admitting salt water, and by running pumps on adjacent land to the reservation of the Oakland Water Company at Alvarado, thus sending wastefully to the sea millions of gallons of pure water daily, which does no one in the world any good, and its calculation only can be to destroy the company which has been a boon and a blessing to the people of Oakland, both the poor and the rich, and which opposition company its managers declare is here to fight and to stay, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, a representative gathering of the laboring and business element of Oakland, in meeting assembled, do hereby offer to the Oakland Water Company our good will and best wishes. We commend it to the general public as a "fair institution," liberal in its charges and superb in the quality of the water it furnishes. We commend the gallant fight President Dingee is making for the people's rights and hope that as a business proposition it will come up to all of his expectations and yield him a fair profit on his investment; and be it further

Resolved, That we denounce in unmeasured terms the waste now in progress at Alavarado under the immediate direction of Superintendent Pierce and Foreman Pendal of the Contra Costa Water Company, who are endeavoring to lessen the source of the supply of the Oakland Water Company by pumping into the bay the water from wells on adjacent land. This method of contesting with opposition surpasses in indecency anything ever heard of in this line for not being able to give the pure artesian water to the people itself it would seek to deny another the right to bestow that blessing upon them and not only this but its purpose of forcing its opponents to terms or out of existence is so apparent that anyone who runs may read, the object of course being, to restore a profit to an over bonded and then over watered stock institution, and with these corrupt conditions does not even give us pure water; and be it further

Resolved, That we believe the authorities should take some hand in the proceedings to legally prevent a continuance of the high handed outrage now in progress at Alavarado; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing be transmitted to the Enquirer, The Times, and The Tribune, said papers being mentioned in the alphabetical order, with the earnest and respectful request that publication be given to it in their columns and be it further

Resolved, That Industry, Echoes, West Oakland Press, East Oakland Mail, and the Saturday Press be likewise requested.

GETTING A CROSS FIRE.

Frank O'Neal of the Opinion That He Is Being Done Up.

He Wants a Mortgage Foreclosed, but the Road Is Blocked.

Frank O'Neal holds a mortgage upon twenty-two lots in the Linden Homestead tract which was given as security for the payment of a note made to him in the sum of $3,500 in July, 1890, by ex-Attorney-General W. H. H. Hart. O'Neal brought suit against Hart to foreclose the mortgage in October of last year. He included Mary E. Burdick and a number of unknown parties as defendants. He claimed that no interest had been paid upon the note for two years. The case has dragged along in the Superior Court and O'Neal has stood between a crossfile of complaints and answers involving Mrs. Burdick, who gave a mortgage on the same property to Hart to cover a note of $500 made by her prior to the time of Hart's mortgage to O'Neal. The latter is getting tired of waiting and he has made an application to have Mrs. Burdick make an answer to Hart's cross complaint. Her demurrer has been overruled.

In affidavits made today O'Neal recites the history of the case and asks for an order compelling immediate action.

He says the property covered by the mortgage is depreciating in value daily and he is fearful that much more delay will render it unproductive, in comparison with the amount of the mortgage which he holds upon the land.

FELL FROM A WINDOW.

Serious Accident to a Pupil at the Durant School.

Harry Cahill Drops Thirty Feet and Breaks His Leg.

Harry Cahill, a ten-year-old boy living at 1862 West street, fell from a second story window at the Durant school shortly after noon and sustained a fracture of the right leg.

The accident happened in a very peculiar manner. Harry had been frolicking with a companion in the school room and was being chased by the boy. To escape him the lad jumped upon the sill of the window, which was open. His foot became entangled in a curtain cord and while endeavoring to extricate himself the boy lost his balance and fell backwards.

He gave a cry as he fell, and his companion rushed horror-stricken for help.

The boy struck the ground, a distance of 30 feet from the window, and laid there helpless, moaning with pain and fear.

Assistance was at hand immediately and the unfortunate school boy was lifted tenderly out of the hot sun to await the coming of the police ambulance. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where an examination revealed that he had sustained no more serious injuries than the fracturing of his right leg.

MERCHANTS IN SESSION.

A Number of Matters That Call for Attention Handled.

At their chambers in the Central bank the directors of the Merchant's Exchange held their regular meeting. Considering the number of people who are out of town at the present time, there was a good attendance.

The license taxing peddlers was the principal topic of discussion. A committee consisting of George W. Arper, C. B. Daniels, C. W. Kinsey, Walter Meese, Herman Gard and George L. Fish was appointed to interview the city merchants not present for the purpose of obtaining their co-operation and assistance in their endeavors to get the City Council to pass the ordinance. They purpose to have a large delegation of merchants at the Council meeting on Monday night next to work for the taxing of the San Francisco vendors of fruit and vegetables.

The Fourth of July funds, decorations, etc., were turned over to the exchange and they accepted the custody.

A communication from the Manufacturers' and Producers' Exchange of San Francisco enclosing a letter from the California Cotton Mills was read. It asked the opinion of the Oakland Exchange on the matter enclosed from the cotton mills. The letter read: "Your favor of yesterday at hand in due course of mail. In answer to your inquiry: 'What do the mills net per pound for cotton or completed jute bags?' I would say that prices vary. On fine or closely-woven goods from 5 to 6 cents is, we should say, a fair price at present. For the lighter and well-finished class of fabrics 4½ cents, say, for the more common or heavy class, such as hop cloth or coffee bagging.

"Take a thirteen-ounce grain sack; the price of this at present is 4¼ or 4½ cents and it weighs never less than thirteen ounces. To make this one pound of jute is required.

"Again, in reply to the second question would, say that there is no mill at present in operation that we know of in this State other than San Quentin, making grain bags.

"May mention that any of us would most willingly call at your office at any time you might wish to be informed on any other points in connection with this question of prison vs. free labor.

"Trusting the above is satisfactory, we are yours truly,

AGAIN IN COMMISSION.

Taylor & Co's Hearse Is Released From the Sheriff's Custody.

There was a merry war yesterday afternoon over a hearse in the possession of Taylor & Co., undertakers, which was claimed by Turnbull & Co., of New York.

The hearse was taken into the custody of the sheriff on a writ of replevin and was held in his care until this morning when a settlement in full was effected by Taylor & Co with Attorney Fred Button who represented the claimants. There was due upon the vehicle and its patent adjustible drapery $210. This amount was paid over to the attorney this morning and the hearse was returned to the owners.

Attorney Button, however, claims that he was misrepresented in the manner in which he acted. He has written the following communication:

Editor Tribune: Sir: In justice to myself, please allow me space to correct a false statement, as reported in a morning paper, made by James Taylor, an undertaker, to the effect that I had attempted by legal proceedings to interfere with a funeral conducted by him. In point of fact, at the only time I met Mr. Taylor, which was shortly after noon yesterday, no funeral was in progress, no hearse was present, no mention was made of suit, attachment, or bondsmen, as I simply presented his note for payment, and served a written demand. When the papers were subsequently filed, I expressly instructed the sheriff not to make service of the papers until the hearse had returned from the cemetery, and he followed my instructions.

PAYING THE PENALTY.

A Variety of Criminal Affairs Before Judge Wood.

All Have Excuses, But the Facts Are Brought Out in Evidence.

The case of Charles Holmes proved to be a first-class minstrel show in the Police Court this morning. Judge Wood was forced into the position of interlocutor, while Mr. Holmes and "Pony" Moore, two colored men, officiated as end men.

Holmes was arrested for driving a horse unfit for work. The case was partially tried yesterday, but owing to the absence of Dr. Pierce it was postponed until today. "Pony" Moore took the stand to assist the defendant in his efforts for freedom.

"Did'en I get hay fo' dat hass ebery day?" asked the defendant.

"Dat's what you dun," said Mr. Moore.

"Enough fo' de horse to eat?" asked the court.

"More en he could eat, sah. More en," replied the witness. "D'e morning dat hoss was arrested he"—

"The horse wasn't arrested," suggested Mr. Melvin. "It was the driver."

"Yes, sah, dat's right. Well, de morning dat he was 'rested dat hoss was a better hoss dan dey hab in dat fish engin' house. He was"——

"Why don't you put him on the track?" asked Mr. Melvin.

"Too poah, too poah," said Mr. Moore. "I'd like to, but ain't got de money."

"Haven't you been working that horse every day?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

"What at, I like to know?" asked Mr. Moore.

"Answer my question," said Mr. Melvin.

"I jes like to know what I work him at?" said Moore.

"Answer my question and answer it directly," said Mr. Melvin. "We want no joking here."

Mr. Moore explained that he meant to tell the "truf" and nothing more, and that to the best of his knowledge the horse was worked only every other day.

Holmes asked the witness if he didn't wuk dat hoss easy in his wuk?" a question an ordinary mind might have found slightly ambiguous, but to Mr. Moore it seemed perfectly plain and he unhesitatingly answered "Yas."

Anson Barstow said that Mr. Moore had frequently been to his place of business for hay and Dr. Pierce testified that the horse could do light work.

The court thought there existed a doubt as to defendant's guilt and he was released.

HAND AND ALLMAN.

The troubles between B. Frank Hand and his landlord, John Allman, do not seem to be at an end. Yesterday Allman swore to a second complaint, charging his tenant with maliciously damaging the stable on the premises rented to him. Hand pleaded not guilty today and his trial was set for August 5th.

HE IS LARGE-HEARTED.

Appeldorn's Chowder House Gets a Big Patronage.

The Oakland Chowder House, 858 Washington street, immediately north of Seventh street is one of the greatest successes in the business world of this city. It has been open only a few months, but it is thronged day and night, hundreds of people resorting there for both their daily meals and refreshments. The Oakland Chowder House is the result of a novel idea of Charley Appeldorn who in his way, is a philanthropist of no mean order. About two years ago, when the city was filled with unemployed people, Mr. Appeldorn was running a house at the corner of First and Franklin streets. He knew that many people were suffering for the necessaries of life and issued 100,000 meal tickets free. Within four months, 60,000 of these were presented at his place and that number of meals were given for them. Today, Mr. Appeldorn is feeding more people than any restaurant in Oakland. He is feeding them at the lowest rates, too, because the meals are the concomitants of any drink ordered over the bar. Mr. Appeldorn sells every kind of good, wholesome California wines for five cents a glass, a bottle of steam beer for ten cents. This beer is as sharp as a razor and Appeldorn's is the only place where bottled steam beer may be had. The place is kept open from 5 A. M. to midnight and during these hours every body is welcome.

ACCORDEON PLEATING.

A New Industry Introduced Into Oakland.

Miss Alice Gray has opened an accordion pleating establishment at 505 8th street, where she is prepared to do every description of work in her unique line. She is a competent artiste, and her store is the only one of its kind in this city. She does work for the leading stores of Oakland that heretofore sent their orders to the city, and thus the flight of many useful dollars from Oakland is restrained. Miss Gray's prices are reasonable as may be judged from the following partial price list which she has issued:

Ladies' skirts, $2.

Children's skirts, $1.

WAITING FOR THE ROLLS.

Assessor Dalton Resting Before the Big Legal Battle.

County Assessor Dalton is resting on his oars. He took lunch today with County Clerk Jordan and discussed the matter of when the assessment rolls would be turned over to Auditor Myron Whidden upon whom will fall the duty of extending the tax figures.

Until Auditor Whidden gets possession of the books, Dalton will be unable to make a move. The County Clerk has the changes on the rolls ordered by the County Board of Equalization nearly completed. He expects to be able to turn over the books today.

Dalton was questioned regarding the condition. He said: "There is nothing new to say. We are simply awaiting developments. Nothing can be done until the rolls leave Jordan's possession."

A claim of the San Francisco Savings Union for $4,579.93 against the estate of the late Van Leer Eastland was allowed today by the executors, J. G. Eastland and John A. Britton. ALLEN TO BE PAROLED.

He Is to Be Pardoned If He Can Convict Holmes.

The Police Officials Attach Little Faith to His Story.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Arrangements were completed today for taking the testimony of John C. Allen, the Little Rock, Arkansas, convict, who is expected to convict H. H. Holmes of murder.

Attorney William Capps of Fort Worth, Texas, who represents the heirs of the Williams girls and discovered Allen's alleged connection with Holmes, will leave for Little Rock tonight with a promise of immunity for the convict, providing his story convicts Holmes.

Allen will be released on parole.

Chief of Police Badenoch is not particularly enthusiastic over the Little Rock end of the investigation.

"Allen may be able to convict Holmes," said the chief, "but I do not regard it as certain."

Attorney Capps declared his statements regarding the convict have been exaggerated.

"I am not certain this man can convict Holmes," he said. "I am hopeful, however, and will go to Little Rock to investigate."

Chief Badenoch, Inspector Fitzpatrick, and Attorney Capp today subjected Pat Quinlan and wife to severe examination. After two hours with the prisoners the officials announced nothing new had developed.

It was evident, however, that the consultation resulted in a change of programme, for Attorney Capps said he might defer the Little Rock trip several days.

It is believed Quinlan has given important information regarding the Arkansas convict but its nature was carefully suppressed.

Charles Appeldor has created quite a disturbance in the restful minds of his competitors by chalking on the sidewalk "sherry and egg, 5c," and the sherry and eggs are so good that the Petaluma ranch has been unable to supply the demand. MUST SETTLE THE BILL.

The Judsons Win the Fight With the Giant Powder Company.

Judge Ellsworth's Decision Is Sustained on the Appeal.

The Judsons have finally won their big suit against the Giant Powder Company growing out of the great explosion of dynamite at Fleming's Point on the 9th of July, 1892. This was the biggest disaster of its kind which ever occurred in the county or among the long string of powder works reaching along the shores of the bay from the Point to Pinole. There were several hundred tons of dynamite besides other explosives descharged in that blow up. Many buildings were wrecked and the plants of the Judson and the Giant works were blown to atoms. The loss of life was heavy and great damage was done to property for miles around.

Numerous claims for damages were filed against the Giant Company after the explosion. The Judson Company went further than any, however, and brought suit in the Superior Court to recover $80,000 damages. The case was decided by Judge Ellsworth in January of last year in favor of the Judsons and a judgment to the amount of $40,-161 75 was given them.

The Giant Company carried the case on appeal to the Supreme Court, which returned a remittitur today affirming the judgment of the lower court in the amount named.

The suit was originally brought by J. L. N. Shepard and Egbert Judson. The latter died during the progress of the case and his executors, Charles C. and Henry C. Judson, were substituted.

The complaint in the suit charged that the Giant Company had been negligent in the manner in which dynamite had been stored in insecure buildings. It was also claimed that the magazines of the Giant Company had been built so closely together that they were hazardous in the event of accidents.

In reciting the amount of damage which was inflicted to their property by reason of the explosion, the Judson Company enumerated among other things destroyed their acid, sulphur and nitrate works, together with 100,000 pounds of dynamite. Their plant was practically wiped out. The decision laid the liability for the damage done upon the Giant Company.

COSTLY AND CUMBERSOME

A New System Needed for Examining Mineral Lands.

At the Present Rate It Will Cost About Three Million Dollars.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The work thus far done under the law passed by the last Congress for the examination and classification of mineral lands in the grant of the Northern Pacific in Montana and Idaho has shown that the method is far from satisfactory and that some other plan will have to be adopted.

The law contemplated that the examinations were to be finished in two years, but it has been figured out that in the small district of Montana, that of Bozeman, that if three commissioners should each mount a horse every morning and ride directly through the lands to be examined at the rate of twenty miles a day it would take them three years merely to ride across the land and they would then be able to see only a little strip on either side of them, leaving a strip unseen on each side nearly a half mile wide.

They could not make the examination with any accuracy whatever and their work would be far from complete.

It has also been shown that the examinations thus far made have cost the government 25 cents an acre.

There are 12,000,000 acres to examine, and the total cost is thus figured at $3,000,000 though this is said to be a low estimate, because the process is much slower where disputes arise and where testimony has to be taken.

Besides the examinations thus far made are in the agricultural regions where there is little question of the quality of the lands.

It is also said that the machinery and methods of procedure is cumbersome and unsatisfactory.

Commissioner Lamoreaux says the method being adopted with lands of other roads seems to be a much better one.

In a mineral county the land office before patenting lands to the railroad companies advertise the intention of such patenting, withholding for sixty days all lands within six miles of a known mineral claim and inviting protests to passing to patent lands which are supposed to be mineral.

If a protest is made the land covered is withheld until an examination is made.

Considerable controversy arose between the department and the Southern Pacific railroad before this regulation was made.

The Southern Pacific controls and owns nearly all the grants in the West which are valuable for minerals, this being the case of the old grants to the California and Oregon and Oregon and California companies.

The people along these roads represented to the department that the Southern Pacific was making efforts to rush its lands to patent thus closing out all possibility of further effort to secure the mineral lands by prospectors.

The patents which were about to issue were withheld until the regulations were made, not, however, without a protest from the Southern Pacific Company, which insisted that ample opportunity had been given prospectors to locate mineral claims if they desired.

The department issued the order and the settlers and prospectors along the line of road are now given an opportunity to make an examination of the lands and have their attention called to the fact that certain mineral claims have heretofore been located and for sixty days they may prospect within six miles of the claim and any land that is thought by the prospectors to be mineral is exempted when the patent passes for adjoining lands.

The protests have resulted in holding up lands which if once passed to patent might be found to be very valuable in possession of the company and if mineral was discovered after patent was issued it would not affect the title of the company.

The Best Kind of Steed.

Everybody cannot afford to keep a horse because the care the animal requires, the expense of providing it with feed and veterinary attendance is quite a heavy tax upon the average income. But every person can afford to have a bicycle, especially at the rates at which a wheel may be had at the Central Cyclery in Central Bank building, opposite the Macdonough theater on Fourteenth street. B. C. Lund, the manager, has done more than any other man in the business to bring about this change. He has sold hundreds of bicycles of the Cleveland, Ben Hur and Tribune patterns at the lowest rates. He is ready to sell anything and do any kind of work required on the bicycle.

WEDNESDAY.....JULY 31, 1895

The news that Japan is preparing for war with Russia does not come from the right quarter. It purports to come from the fishing ground of the President through Secretary Lamont by way of Philadelphia. Why the Press of that city should have the news in advance is itself a fishy circumstance. No doubt Japan is strengthening all her military and naval resources After having fought many battles it is natural that all the reserves should be strengthened The war spirit may be very much inflamed without making any open issue with Russia. At present the latter is simply demanding that Japan shall strictly observe treaty stipulations, with power enough in reserve to enforce them

Hawaii wants to unload its Japanese because they are incapable of becoming citizens. It is not in evidence that they have any strong desire to become citizens of that republic. But the question of right has already been raised Dr Godfre, who is a supporter of the present government testified that the Japanese have been more hurtful to the whites in the Islands than the Chinese "They import everything from Japan, and with the double advantage of cheap goods and knowledge of our ways they manage to supplant the white traders.' The Japanese introduced in Hawaii as laborers do what the Chinese have done under similar circumstances They will seek every avenue of trade as soon as possible. When the business is overdone they will look for chances somewhere else It is maintained by sugar planters that there are no more Japanese than would be needed in Hawaii, provided they would work on these plantations Hawaii is constantly searching for foreign laborers especially Portuguese, to take the place of Chinese and Japanese.

A Little Wholesome Criticism.

The High school of Oakland is housed in one of the best educational buildings in the State. It has a capacity for 800 pupils, probably not less than 700 will be in attendance during the term that has just opened. The structure has a plain solid exterior, going well with the plain and solid education that is to be given inside Now the whole spirit of the public school is or should be, directly away from caste. Of late there has been observed such a strong tendency to overdress on the part of a large number of girls attending the High school as to provoke not a little quiet criticism. The school is not a dress circle, nor a place to wear fine clothes and for the display of jewelry.

The dress of every girl attending school ought to be so plain as to attract no attention It is not a place to cultivate social pride and a love of fine clothes Finery and furbelows are wholly out of place The rich and the poor meet together. The democratic spirit, or that which thrusts caste out of sight, ought to be the spirit that is cultivated there. Every girl who appears in school overdressed, as if to go to a party, ought to be quietly admonished touching such an impropriety. If that will not suffice, let there be a public admonition given by the teachers.

Some pupils whose parents are in more than comfortable circumstances insist that their children shall attend school in plain clothing, without any ornaments. That is the right spirit. But there have been instances where these pupils met with an unfavorable discrimination on the part of others who were rigged out in something resembling party dresses. That is the very spirit of caste. It is as clearly in the line of a sound public school education to teach these erring children better ways as it is to teach mathematics and good English composition A failure to correct this wrong tendency, both by precept and example, would be a failure in one of the most important duties of public instruction The schools should never be turned into a dress circle.

The New Feminine Clubs.

It is worthy of mention that nearly all the women's clubs that have been organized within the last two or three years have been devoted to some department of education. None of these organizations have been convivial, nor have they been placed on a merely social basis In this they differ from most of the clubs organized by men. With few exceptions the social feature of the latter is the most important. The members are intent on having good cheer. There is a certain degree of fellowship. They are asylums for men who find them better places than their homes. They tire of domestic life, or perhaps never had any. They must go somewhere, and the club is the best place that is accessible. There a few organizations on a higher basis, where literary tastes are cultivated and scholars meet scholars, caring nothing for the social side, but much for the opportunities to learn what is best in the guilds of letters and philosophy.

Women's clubs have no sensuous features. They are devoted to art, literature, the domestic life and reforms. The congress of women that recently assembled in San Francisco was largely the product of these clubs. They were in touch with schemes of philanthropy, and with all the betterments that affect domestic life. These organizations are rapidly multiplying. In the talk of the day the "new woman" has come to the front in these clubs. Some of them deal with political and social reforms, others with questions of domestic economy, the art of living, systems of public education and the new fields of activity that are opening for women. If any one is inclined to doubt the utility of such organizations, or to rate them below the clubs sustained by men, it only needs a comparison of purpose and influence.

One will search in vain for a women's club that is not organized for some beneficent purpose This power of organization is just beginning to be recognized. All the social clubs that men have formed in the country would not furnish the material for one good congress The buffet, the card table and the good dinner bound the aims of many of these organizations. They are places of refuge to some extent for men who are tired of domestic life, or what is worse, never had any. Let those who are disposed to rail at women's clubs rate the direction of all this activity in comparison with all the barrenness of results that prevails in most of the clubs that are maintained by men.

About Local Fads.

This city has long been distinguished for the hospitable entertainment of all sorts of new and old ideas. This tendency sometimes provokes unfavorable criticism. Every shade of orthodox and heterodox religion is represented, and nearly every theory of public and private education that is new or old in the world finds advocates. This tendency is on the whole far better than a sluggish inactivity and deadness of surface, over which there is never a breeze to make a ripple. The speculative mind is better than no mind at all Tolerance of belief is far better than intolerance.

It does not follow that because people give a hospitable reception to many fads and speculative theories that the majority are inclined to adopt them. It argues rather a degree of independence of open-mindedness If the thing is good, it may be welcomed at the front door. If it is not good, it may be dismissed at the back door The prominence given to the entertainment of fads and all manner of speculations is more apparent at first view than real. The tendency in that direction is probably not stronger than in other cities of equal population and culture. But the city is just large enough to enable one to group all these speculative tendencies as it were, under a single observation. Nothing is concealed. There is a degree of independence that cares little for ordinary criticism. Many of these speculations are finally run to the ground or become obsolete and new ones are taken up

Most independent thinkers do not care one copper whether they are held to be orthodox or heterodox because these standards are continually changing and have now come to mean very little. Some of the most notable educators of the day have been assailed because in thought and teaching they have been quite independent of any arbitrary rules, the reason for which had long since become obsolete. On the whole this intellectual and religious hospitality is not a bad thing for a community There has been a time when there was a great lack of these characteristics Those were not by any means the best days for society. Alertness, openness of mind and earnest inquiry are always better than stagnation

A Question of Assessments.

The section of the city charter as originally drawn provided for a city assessor to assess all property within the limits of the city. At the instance of one member of the charter convention a supplementary section was added providing that the city assessor should obtain a copy of the county assessment, adopting it as the basis of his own The economical consideration finally prevailed. Except as to pieces of property that might have been omitted the city has had no assessments made by its own officer since the charter took effect.

The validity of this method of levying taxes on assessments that had not been made by any municipal officer has never been called in question by the courts. But the legality of this method has been doubted The basis of all taxes is an assessment. If none is made then it is clear that no tax could be laid If the city could commit the work of making an assessment to a county officer, why could it not commit the work of levying municipal taxes to the County Board of Supervisors? These are some of the questions that have recently been raised touching municipal assessments If a taxpayer were to refuse to pay his city taxes on the ground that no valid assessment had ever been made, the issue would squarely be met. Can the city delegate the power of making assessments to any other than its own elected officer? And is his purchase of a copy of the roll of the County Assessor and approval of the same an assessment within the meaning of the law? We do not undertake to decide that there is anything irregular in such a proceeding. The plan was adopted on the score of economy. One assessment would do for the city and county. The question has already been raised as to what are really the duties of the City Assessor.

Refunding City Bonds.

The question of refunding $140,000 of municipal bonds about to fall due, will be submitted to a vote of citizens at an election called for the 31st of August. These bonds can now be replaced to the best advantage. It is simply a matter of business Nothing will be added to the debt of the city by issuing new bonds for old ones. These will become due on October 1st. There is only one way in which the city can take up these bonds without injury to other interests.

When the proposition was before the people on another occasion it met with defeat because it was not fairly understood. It was not a proposition to issue more bonds, but to replace some that were already falling due. If they are not replaced by a vote of citizens, then they must be redeemed out of the taxes accruing this present year. These taxes will not be available until long after the bonds fall due. There is not the least necessity for any default as there would be if they were to be taken up by the tax receipts of the present year. If $140,000 are taken out of the revenues of the present year, every department will be crippled, schools will suffer, streets will go unwatered and general improvements will be suspended.

Business men can hardly fail to look at this proposition in a business light. That is the only one that ought to receive any consideration. What ought to be done in the premises? The bonds must be taken up What is the best way? Shall they be refunded without detriment to any interest of the city, or shall they be redeemed out of the taxes of this present year, to the detriment of nearly every municipal interest? There ought not to be any question as to which of these two plans is the best.

Now here is a substantial victory for the bicycle folks. A Massachusetts judge has decided that a bicycle is a vehicle, and is entitled to the same privileges on the public highways as wagons and carriages. In the case in point, the owner of the bicycle was awarded damages in the sum of $25 against a teamster who ran into the wheelman, who was riding on the extreme right of the road. The court held that the defendant was liable because he was driving on the left side of the highway. The bicycle will be protected as long as it keeps its place, and will be called down whenever it gets gay.

The city of Peoria is not as large as Oakland. But this is said of it by a Western journal: "Peoria, in Illinois, is spending right now $400,000 for parks and boulevards, and proposes to expend $600,000, and secure, among other things, a beautiful park of 700 acres Peoria has profited by the object lesson presented by Chicago, and has manifested a belief in the maxim that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well, with the additional proviso that it is worth doing at once."

Unlike most other boys of his age, the German crown prince is allowed no pocket money.

An ibex was killed in the Superstition Mountains, Maricopa county, Ariz., recently It is said that only two others of these animals have ever been killed in the United States. They were found in Oregon

Jersey's cranberry crop promises to be exceptionally large and good this year. The berries were late in forming, but it looks now as though the yield would equal the enormous crop of 1893, which was the largest ever known.

Detroit has a street-car fender—one fender, not a style of fender—which beats that boasted of by Philadelphia which the other day picked up a bicyclist and his machine and carried them uninjured for half a block. The Detroit car struck a horse on Warren avenue last Sunday. The horse was scooped off its feet and fell into the fender, and was carried along in it for two or three hundred feet until the car was stopped. Then the horse got up, stepped off, and trotted away uninjured.

About 100 years ago it was recorded that when Samuel Johnson visited Scotland he made some sarcastic remarks on the then prevalent lack of trees in that country. Scotsmen were never slow to take a hint, and today, Scotland is perhaps better furnished in the plantation of trees than any other country in the world

That old joke about ex-President Harrison being used at summer resorts to keep the temperature up to a certain point of frigidity is being hauled down and dusted off once more by the enterprising and resourceful country editor.

Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, widow of the famous preacher, does not wear black or any other emblem of mourning. Her demeanor is cheerful.

The Duke de Morny, it is said, has spent $60,000 in fitting up a wandering photograph studio, and proposes to take 1,000,000 photographs in a few weeks.

Having succeeded with "Bessie Costrell," Mrs Humphrey Ward falls readily into the ranks of the serial novelists. She has a long novel pledged for the Century next year.

The orange and lemon are both said to be fatal to the cholera bacillus. Placed in contact with the cut surface of the fruit the bacteria survive but a few hours.

A new society, which has for one of its cardinal principles the belief in the possession by animals of a soul and in the immortality of that soul and its activity in a future state, is being organized in Baltimore for the protection of animals from cruelty and ill treatment. It is to be called the Henry Bergh Society. The organizers are women, but both sexes will be eligible to membership.

Neill, or Cream, the poisoner, who was executed in England three years ago, according to a recent statement of the chaplain of Holloway prison, had murdered beyond a doubt no less than thirty-five women. He was the most proficient Bible student ever admitted to the jail, being able to repeat half the Bible from memory.

Queen Christina of Spain has lost the legacy left to her by Don Alexandro Soler by a strange technicality. The Spanish law requires that all holograph wills shall be written on stamped paper of the curent year; Senor Soler wrote his in 1885, on paper stamped in 1894. The State officials have thrown the will out on this ground, and, as he was a foundling, and had no legal heirs, his fortune goes to the Treasury.

John J. Ingalls has lost a farm. He owned one near Kickapoo, and recently had a chance to dispose of it. He took the buyer down to see it, expatiating upon its desirable qualities, and when he got there he couldn't find the farm. It had been washed into the river five years ago. And all during that five years he had been paying taxes on it.—Kansas City Times.

Stambuloff took exercise in only one form, swimming, and in this he excelled. He was a man of great personal bravery, and yet, for precaution's sake he kept a loaded rifle in his study. The chief ornament of this room was a stuffed owl. Physically he was a short, thick-set man, with a deep chest, broad shoulders, and brilliant black eyes. Three years in a theological seminary, from which he ran away, gave him his only schooling.

The Countess of Munster tells an interesting story in the current number of the Strand Magazine. A person of her own sex and age became infatuated with her for a while and afterwards died. At midnight a short time after her decease, and while the Countess was lying awake in bed, the spirit of her dead friend appeared before her, dressed as in life, and with a smile on her face The Countess carried on an interesting monologue with her, and asked her various questions about her changed conditions of life, but received no answer, though the weird visitor continued to smile at her. As soon as the Countess stopped talking the apparation disappeared.

The little King of Spain is riding a bicycle, a suitable exercise, by the way, for a lad who is expected by and by to hold down a throne.

The greater part of the cast-off uniforms of the British army find their way into the shops of dealers in second-hand clothing. The coats are either then cut up, sold to theatrical managers or advertising agents, or else exported to Africa and elsewhere, for trading purposes with the Kaffirs and other uncivilized people

Cy. Warman, author of "Sweet Marie," is now connected with McClure's Magazine He says that 300,000 copies of his song were sold in the first six months after its publication.

Los Angeles people don't like Beatrice Harradan. She is too brusque in her manner to suit them She is like the late Matthew Arnold, who, while at the table of an American hostess, remarked to his daughter, quite audibly "This tea is nasty, Americans can't make good tea. I wonder why it is?"

Jonah has now been corroborated in part. A basalt stele found by Father Schell in the Archaeological Museum at Constantinople, has on it an Assyrian inscription of King Nabonod of the sixth century before Christ, telling of the destruction of Nineveh, an event hitherto found on no monument. But there is no record of the whale story.

It surprised many of the Western delegates to the Baptist Convention in Baltimore to learn that the crab when alive, is not red. They were also touched with pity for the crustaceans when they beheld them cast into pots of boiling water "That's mighty cruel," said one of the delegates. "Why, don't they kill them first?" Out our way we would not think of being so cruel as to cook anything alive."

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Livermore, San Leandro, Haywards, Alameda, Oakland and San Francisco are all using every means in their power to induce the board of regents to locate the Wilmerding mechanical school in one of those places Berkeley is sitting with folded hands doing nothing, apparently willing to let the plum slip out of its grasp. There is no doubt, but that Mr. Wilmerding intended that the school should be located in Berkeley, and he never thought that it was necessary to insert the clause that "it should be located in Berkeley," or he would have done so. The University has a very large tract of land in Berkeley, and ample room for the erection of the building necessary for the Wilmerding school Thus it will be seen that a large amount of money will be saved in this way Again, it is not customary to scatter a State University all over the State. It may be right to have the medical and law colleges in San Francisco on account of the hospitals and the libraries, but we doubt it, as Berkeley is close enough to San Francisco for students to visit the hospitals, and the law library should be located right in Berkeley. When the State built its first building in Berkeley it was intended that the university for all time to come would be located in Berkeley. The regents, however, who seem to be all powerful have, during the last few years, been inclined to have portions of the University scattered about Oakland or San Francisco. This is unjust to Berkeley, which has to live under the restrictions provided for the University by the State, and the University in part is taken away from it No university will ever prosper or amount to much unless it is one institution under one management. At the present time Professor Kellogg is supposed to be the President of the State University and to have charge and supervision of all its branches. How in the name of common sense, we ask, can he do justice to himself or the students or professors if he has to chase over to the Hastings Law College or the Toland Medical College in San Francisco, and then by way of a little exercise go to Haywards or San Leandro to look after the mechanical school, and then get back to Berkeley to look after the different halls of learning here? President Kellogg is not a young man, and even if he were he could not do it, consequently the efficiency of the University is impaired. The people of Berkeley should urge upon the Regents the necessity of locating the Wilmerding school here, and should also have a bill framed and passed at the next Legislature which in future would compel all buildings or branches to be erected and maintained in Berkeley.—Berkeley Gazette.

An item which appeared in the Mail yesterday stating that Oakland capitalists had bonded 540 feet of water frontage here created a deal of speculation The price, as the item specified, was $27,000, and this fact shows that back of the deal there is a scheme of considerable importance. The water frontage bonded is in two pieces, the one belonging to T. H. Compton and the other to Devendorf & Wilholt The former piece is situated on the north side of Stockton channel west of West street, and the latter on the point of land between Stockton and Mormon channels at their junction. The Corral Hollow Railroad Company has already obtained what property it wants for terminal purposes, and consequently it it is not at all likely that it is back of yesterday's deal There has been talk lately of establishing two new industries—a tannery and a jute mill, the latter to be removed from Oakland Mr. Compton himself is interested in the tannery project, and as he owns a portion of the land bonded, it is not likely that the Oakland investors are interested in the tannery project. One of the owners of the other tract states that the jute mill people are not in the deal as far as he knows, and hence it is supposed that some enterprise not as yet heard of here is in the wind. The secret will not be made public until next week, when the parties who have bonded the property, and who have gone back to Oakland, will return and consummate the purchase.—Stockton Mail.

It is said that the Electric people are behind the refusal of the Paving Company to fulfill their Webster street contract. Perhaps that accounts also for the miserable condition of the roadway to Oakland. Even the Commissioners of the Bureau of Highways pronounced it disgraceful.—Alameda Criterion.

Lawyers are not happy unless they can revel in technicalities, witness a demurrer in an Oakland case on the ground that "it cannot be ascertained from the complaint how much of the alleged services or what part of the alleged value was for work as attorney and what part for work as counselor-at-law." In other words the complaint was not specific enough to note the difference between twiddle-dum and twiddle-dee.—Alameda Telegram.

A conflict of opinion exists as to the advisability of high assessments. The county of Alameda will pay more in proportion of State taxes than other counties. This is not to say that Dalton is wrong. Alameda county ratepayers, however, grumble at the unequal payments.—Alameda Telegram.

Assessor Dalton, it is now said, will file the necessary papers in a mandamus suit today, in which he will demand an overhauling of all the evidence connected with what he claims to have been an illegal extension of time granted to the Board of County Supervisors, sitting as a Board of Equalization. He believes he can show that every act in connection with said extension was illegal, for the reason that the State Board of Equalization held no meeting at which said extension of time was granted. Should the county assessor win, the result would be either that the original assessments will stand or that a long continued legal controversy will be entered into, the end of which no man can foretell. We are sorry to see this issue raised, and yet we cannot blame Assessor Dalton for trying to right what he believes to have been an illegal act.—Alameda Encinal.

Electric Light and Candles.

The Russians will not allow gas or electric lights in their splendid churches, but by the use of thousands of candles produce a most brilliant, yet agreeable light. Prof. Crookes, the scientist, says that "if the electric light were universal today, the candle, if suddenly introduced, would be thought a wonderful invention, as it enables a person to obtain light in its simplest and most portable form, and without the use of cumbrous machinery, or the necessity of attaching a lamp to any fixed point by means of wire before it could be lighted." The desired portable electric light has not yet arrived. An inventor of our acquaintance has long been experimenting upon it, but has not yet reduced its weight below twenty pounds. The tribute to the best sperm candle is deserved. The softness and clearness of the light are delightful to the eye. The candle's dignity, like that of the horse, remains; for as the mightiest steam and electric engines are estimated in "horse-power," so the unit of measurement for gas lights, the powerful Weisbach light, and the electric light is "candle-power."—New Christian Advocate.

Wanted to See the Mayor.

Mayor Strong was out of the city, but the flag was flying at the City Hall masthead, when a big, tall fellow, evidently connected with some sort of a Wild West troupe, stalked into the office and tackled the first clerk in sight.

"I want to see the Mayor of this here town," he said, in a tone indicating that he meant it

"You can't sir," replied the clerk, in a mild, reformatory manner.

"Why can't I? Ain't this a free country?"

"Yes, sir, but you can't see him because he isn't in."

"He ain't? and he seemed surprised.

"No, sir."

"Why ain't he?"

"Because he is out," responded the clerk with a laugh

"None of yer monkey business with me, young chap," warned the caller. "Ain't that flag flyin' from the roof?"

"Yes, sir."

"And don't that mean that he is in?"

"Well-er-er-yes-er-er," hesitated the clerk.

"Stop right where you are," commanded the Wild Wester. "By gravy, I'm goin' to find out about this I ain't objectin' to a man holdin' a government job lyin' some on his own hook, but, by thunder, I'm dead ag'in any man, I don't care a d—— who he is, lettin' the glorious old Star-Spangled banner do his lyin' for him. It's ag'in' the constitution and the by-laws, and you bet, I'm goin' to set right down here and have it out with the Mayor if it takes a leg. You hear me. Jist go ahead calkilatin' up yer figgers. What I'm here for ain't none of your business,' and, with a look of supreme disdain at the insignificant clerk, he bit a horseshoe out of a plug of black navy and sat down.—New York Sun.

When Coal Was a Wicked Innovation.

When coal was first introduced into London as a fuel very serious objection was taken to its use. In the beginning of the fourteenth century the brewers and smiths of the city, finding the high price of wood pressing hardly upon their returns, resolved to experiment with coal; but immediately an outcry was raised against them by persons living near the breweries and forges the king was petitioned, and a law passed prohibiting the burning of coal within the city. Those who tried it, however, found the new fuel so much superior to wood that they persisted in its use But so determined was the government to suppress what was thought to be an intolerable nuisance that a law was passed making the burning of coal a capital offense, and at least one man was executed under that law. The ladies were bitterly opposed to the use of coal for domestic purposes. They considered the smoke to be ruinous to their complexions and would not attend parties at houses at which the objectionable fuel was used. Some persons would not eat food of any kind that had been cooked on a coal fire.—Churchman.

An Up-to-Date Dinner.

Though the artistic spreading of the table has much to do with the esthetic enjoyment of it, the success of the dinner from the guests' point of view will not depend upon that, nor will it entirely depend upon the skill displayed in the cuisine. A dinner, to be successful, must have every item of the menu clearly thought out before hand, for on the selection and arrangement of the dishes—happy or otherwise—will depend not only on the character of the dinner, but the comfort of the guests and the harmonious working of the staff. Occasionally, for instance, one rises from a table apparently perfect in its artistic arrangements, and every dish sent up to which was most excellent of its kind, with only a sense of failure as the result, simply and solely because of the "waits" that occurred all too frequently, making gaps in the continuity of the meal that taxed every effort at conversation to bridge over.—London Queen.

The filling up of the Euphrates valley and consequent depopulation of Babylon and Nineveh, as also the creation of the Theban desert, owing to the filling up of a portion of the Valley of the Nile, were due to identical causes with those so opportunely checked by the planting of trees on the shores of the Baltic.

Reliance Men Are Preparing for the Football Season.

TENNIS BEGINS TO BOOM.

The Y. M. C. A. Intends to Give a Fine Field Day.

The Reliance Club has completed the preparatory organization of this year's football team which will visit the East.

The Acme Club has a long list of wheeling events in prospect.

President Brittan of the Alameda County Good Roads Association discusses some of its features

The Lakeside Tennis Club is preparing for a big invitation tournament to be held in two weeks.

The Y. M. C. A. wheeling annex has an attractive programme of club runs in view. The field day of the Oakland and San Francisco associations will take place on Saturday next.

THE UMPIRE.

Things are beginning to stir in some of our sister cities. Stockton has become aroused again and the very clever athletic association of the valley road city, I am pleased to record, has decided to give baseball some encouragement. At a recent meeting of the directors of the club a proposition to form a triangular football and baseball league was mooted. The proposed organization would include the Stockton club with the Reliance club of this city and the Olympic of San Francisco. The Reliance has a strong football team ready for this season's play, and its old baseball organization was not a back number by any manner of means Communications upon the subject will be made at once among the various clubs.

* * *

Speaking of baseball and the organization of a league that censor of sports, Colonel J. California Ewing, comes to the front again and suggests that the league be formed. "There is nothing like sport,' said Cal. "While I am a wheeling enthusiast just now, my range of vision is broad enough to include all the diversions requiring the exercise of quick muscular and mental effort. Baseball is of course the great American game and I believe it should be fostered and encouraged I shall do all that lays within my power to encourage the idea of a league such as this plan of the Stockton club contemplates It seems to me that there should be a diversification of sports. There is need of more variety. The muscles of the human frame cannot be properly developed if only one or two sets are kept in action That would result in abnormal developments. Baseball as an all-round sport is excellent It allows the whole body to come into play and gives all a chance to improve under the vigorous exercise."

* * *

But to digress. The veterans of the base ball business are slowly taking their seats on the benches. I learn that Roger Connor of St. Louis has quit. He was one of the greatest first basemen who ever covered the initial bag. Anson is still playing, but under difficulties, as a broken rib interferes with his work. Some of the great names are slowly fading away and we look forward with much interest to the coming men I do not think California will be far behind when the new league teams are formed next season.

Our old friend Sammy Dungan is in a peck of trouble. His family physician is after his scalp as a co-respondent in a divorce suit which the doctor is said to be about to institute against his wife. Dunny says it is all nonsense, and denies all knowledge of the affair. The story goes that the doctor found Dungan a very pleasant fellow and introduced him to his wife The doctor now declares that his servants have told stories to him which will go into the divorce bill.

Some of the cranks have been discussing the right of the umpire with regard to fining on the field. The argument is made that the fining system is the best that ever was devised to keep unruly players in check. This is the way one prominent baseball authority speaks on the subject: "There is a marked contrast between the conduct on the field this year to what it was last season. The establishing of new quotations on cuss words, back talk, sulking, etc., etc., has had the effect of sweet music on the players, in that it 'soothes the savage breast' and brings the gentler and sweeter nature of the players to the surface, who give the 'Get thee behind me, Satan' gag to their bitterest expression, adding as they do so, 'If you don't it will cost me twenty-five.' Some of the men whose tough antics last season disgusted spectators and kept many away from the games are the meekest individuals on earth this year, because of the high value placed on their remarks by the umpire. The majority of players, however, continue to pursue the same course as they have always followed. Their nature is not of the tough kind, and no fines, however large or small, in the least interfere with their peace of mind. They play the game, and if they have a kick coming they put it in the shape of a mild protest, which is more effective and less costly than a boisterous intimidation."

* * *

The old Californians, it gives me pleasure to state, are in evidence as usual.

Charlie Irwin has established himself with the St. Paul people in splendid style. "As a short stop," says an Eastern critic, "he is a perfect jewel. You can't make us believe another man ever traveled the bases so fast. He plays a star part in every game. He is also strong with the stick and in fact for an all round player we will always put our little pile on Irwin."

The Sporting News prints a fine photograph reproduction of Henry Spies' manly phiz, and adds a few words of very favorable comment. Here is an extract: "Henry Spies (pronounced Spees), whose release was recently purchased from the Cincinnati club of the National League and American Association, by the officials of the Louisville club, of the same league, is one of those honest plodders who play methodically, and are always ready and willing to go in and do their best to win, no matter what position they are called upon to fill."

Of Spies' California record, it is said: "In 1891 he went to California and became a member of the Sacramento club, of the California League, taking part that year in one hundred and twenty-six championship games in ohne hundered and six of which he filled the position as catcher, and ranked first in the official fielding averages of that league. He also stood high in the official batting averages. He remained on the Pacific slope during the seasons of 1892 and 1893, playing with the California League clubs. In the fall of the latter year he returned to his home in New Orleans and in the spring of 1894 joined the Grand Rapids club, of the Western League, taking part last year in one hundred and thirty-three championship games as a catcher, ranking first in the official fielding averages of that league. He also stood well up as a batsman. At the close of the season he returned to the Golden State, and was married to a charming young lady of Stockton, Cal."

McCauley is playing a fine first base game with Milwaukee, but the experts say he "is shy at the bat."

Parrott will quit the box and go to the out field. He says his pitching days are over

E. Athlete O'Brien, the well known local expert on baseball received the following advices from Omaha yesterday.

'Omaha is minus a ball team and the boys who represented this city are wearing uniforms labeled Denver. The management did its best to stay in Omaha, making all kinds of concessions, but it was no go and the club would pay fine games before rows of empty benches, the box office receipts not being sufficient to settle the guarantee to the visiting team. Of course this couldn't last and President Kent was sent for and told that it was hopeless to think of playing out the season here. He was informed that the management had good offers from Denver and knew it could quit the season without any deficit by going to that city and was given the option of having the team disbanded or moved to the Colorado town. Kent of course, accepted the latter proposition."

THE UMPIRE.

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETES.

Cycling Is the Feature Among the Boys.

The Y. M. C. A. athletes are taking a great deal of interest in wheeling now, while basket ball, too, is beginning to attract attention. Last Thursday evening they held a quarter-mile dash and half-mile handicap bicycle race at the Trotting Park Quite a crowd went to witness the races as it was understood that some good time and close finishes would be made In the quarter dash B H. Elford barely beat E C Brown in 38 seconds. The half-mile was even closer. Owing to the wind fast time was impossible, but the race was quite exciting. O R. Keitz with 60 yards won from E C Brown in 1 09. Brown's time was about 1 10

Last Friday the boys had a great run to Piedmont It was announced that no fast riding was to be allowed Consequently when several men rode ahead of Captain Calhoun they were promptly called back and fined The return was by Lake Merritt. On reaching the club house light refreshments were served before the riders departed for their homes

Friday, Aug. 2nd a moonlight ride to Berkeley will be made. The pace will be very slow, so that the ladies who are to accompany will not be fatigued On returning to the club house a more sumptuous repast than that of last week will be served

Saturday the field day between the Central Y M C A of San Francisco, the Twentieth street branch, and Oakland Y. M C A takes place at the Twentieth street track in San Francisco B. West, Frank Bock, the boy smuggler, and Ed Lynch will represent the Oakland branch and will doubtless make a good showing.

TENNIS TOPICS.

The Lakeside Club Preparing a Big Affair

Thomas Driscoll has been visiting at the Magee ranch and has played some good sets with the Magee boys.

The tournament which was to have come off at San Mateo last Saturday has been postponed indefinitely. The management want to change it to a double tournament and have it on August 31st, but this comes too near the coast championship doubles, and many of the tennis men are not inclined to enter.

The directors of the Lake Side Club will meet to-morrow night to arrange for a tournement to be held at the club courts two weeks from Saturday. They may decide to make it an invitation tourney, and if they do it will be quite an event in tennis circles.

A sign artistically printed by Sam Hardy has been posted over the door of the Lake Side court. It is to the effect that visitors are always welcome, and as a consequence every afternoon sees quite a few spectators of both sexes watching the games with much interest.

THE WINGED ACORN.

Acme Men Very Enthusiastic Over Wheeling.

The ten-mile race is over. As a result the Acme club has the honor of a world's record. It was a great record and the boys can hardly contain themselves for their delight at their success. Nissen is the lion of the hour. He is congratulated on all sides. The world's 10-mile road record was fairly and squarely broken, and it only remains for the record to be acknowledged The time was phenomenal, being 25:45, which is nearly half a minute below the former record for the distance Nor will Nissen stop here. On Sunday afternoon next he is going to try for the road record from Oakland to San Jose. Pickard of the Acme holds the present record of 2 hours 13 minutes unpaced. Nissen will start from the City Hall and finish at St. James' hotel. As he is in the pink of condition, his magnificent performance of Sunday not having tired him at all, he is pretty sure of taking a slice of the record.

The San Jose club have extended a cordial invitation to the Acmes to visit them on Sunday. Of course the Acmes will go. They leave Oakland at 7:30 P. M. and will make a moonlight ride to San Jose, where they will meet Nissen and all have a fine time at the banquet which the San Jose Club will prepare.

Geo. A. Hansen made the century run under the nine-hour limit and received a medal for the feat.

Yesterday Gus Martin J. E. Scott and W A Burke left on a wheeling trip to Yosemite Valley. They took the boat to Stockton and from there they will pedal to the valley. They will be gone two weeks

Jack Kitchen and James Wright returned from Lake Tahoe, and 'Pap" Hardie and C. Hannon got back from Lake County on Sunday last. All had a great time and report no accidents.

August 11th Jack Kitchen's long talked of 'blind run" will come off, and on August 28th a five-mile race on the Fruitvale-Haywards course will be held

The club will have a gentleman's night on August 15th A Pickard, of the Acme Club will meet Code, of the Olympic club, in a four round boxing match.

The annual meeting will be held August 31st for the election of officers for the ensuing year.

RELIANCE FOOTBALLERS.

Steps Towards Organizing This Year's Team.

The first step towards putting a football team in the field has been taken by the Reliance Club Last Thursday night most of last year's team met and elected as captain Mr McMillan, the star left guard of last season. McMillan is an old football player and is popular with the boys. With such a captain and such material as last season's team to work with the Reliance will have a stronger team than ever.

C. Barnes, Dr. Carlton and George Morrow were elected as the football committee.

Jack Wyckoff will train for end this year and Deconey, Stanford's great player, may play on the other end. Clemens will play behind the line, as will also Benson as quarter. McMillan may play tackle if any one can be found in his place. With such men as McMillan, Sullivan and Oliver in the line and Frick, Walton, Clemens and Benson behind the team will be strong.

The boys will soon begin work in the "gym" and later on will go to the training table and "line up" at the old Piedmont grounds in the evening.

The players mean business They are going East and will train hard to make a good showing They will visit Denver, St, Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Michigan and Cornell at New York

Though football is attracting a great deal of attention the Reliance cyclers are not idle. August 4th the club will take a run to the Cliff. They will leave on the 9 o'clock boat. On August 18th a five-mile road race will be held, and also a club run to Haywards The racers will start at San Leandro and finish at Haywards The scratch men will be paced by tandems At Haywards the boys will get dinner and return slowly in the afternoon.

Pop Jerome, who met with an accident last week, was out Monday and it is thought that he will soon be able to ride his wheel again.

P. S. Carleton is quite ill. The boys all miss him on their runs and hope to see him out again soon.

The boys are anxious to have one of the circuit meets in Oakland and will do all in their power to further that end.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

It Touches Wheelmen's Interests in the Boulevard.

The sporting editor received a communication this week from a well-known leader in amateur sports, touching the new boulevard that is being constructed around Lake Merritt. In the course of his comment he alludes to the beautiful drive with reference to cycling. He intimates that by the time the boulevard is completed the wheel will be as ultra-fashionable as the swell barouche or natty victoria for outdoor peringrinations.

He suggests that provision be made now for a bicycle way on the boulevard as well as a drive for other vehicles and a walk for pedestrians

The suggestion seems a timely one, and might be well considered by some of the wheeling organizations. There is no place in this city where a public promenade is provided for either of the classes mentioned. With the ultimate completion of the boulevard around one of the most beautiful water parks in America it is more than likely that the lovers of the cycle will find as much enjoyment along its shore as any of the thousands who will delight in its beauties

The correspondent concludes by inviting discussion of ways and means for furtherance of the project.

RULES OF THE BOARD.

Wheeling Clubs Cautioned to Observe Them.

The following issued by the racing board of the L. A. W. will prove of interest to some of the clubs and prevent them from breaking the association laws:

"The racing board is not permitted to sanction racing on Sundays. A club may contest one or more races open only to members of the club, and if no prize is offered in any event and no admission charged the public the board will not take cognizance of the affair. Of late these events have been arranged with more formality than was ever contemplated. Public attention has been attracted by announcements through the newspapers of the entries and their handicap allowances and by publication of the results. All this is misleading to the board To avoid misunderstanding and suspension of contestants clubs will be required in future to give notice to the board in advance of all such events. Class A men are warned that to compete with class B men in such races is the equivalent of the competition in public which forfeits their class A status.

R. M. WELCH,
Representative Nat'l Racing Board.

AMONG THE YACHTSMEN.

Question Over the California Club Regatta.

The regatta of the California Yacht Club last Sunday was not a glittering success. A stake boat was missing off the Union Iron Works and when the competing boats had worked up to that point it was found that they would have to square away for home on bearings. Whether the race will be declared off or not will depend upon the result of the meeting of the board to be held tomorrow evening at the club house.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS.

The Good Roads Association Is in Evidence.

The Good Roads Association of Alameda county is steadily working, in its endeavor to arouse public sentiment to a realization of the necessity of keeping the public highways in good condition.

At a meeting Thursday night the coupon system was adopted. These coupons for admission into the association will be published in the daily paper of Alameda county and it is hoped that they will prove effectual in inducing a large number to join the association, and lend a helping hand to the good cause.

"What we want to do," said President Brittan, "is to bring the people to a realization of the vast importance of good roads If once made to realize how necessary it is to keep the streets and roads in good condition, I think that we will have little trouble in procuring members. The great trouble is that they cannot see the need of good roads.

"But we will keep steadily at work and if at the end of five years we have accomplished what is expected of us we will be quite satisfied. We cannot do it all in a day, but by keeping at it I think a great deal can be accomplished.

"When in a light spring wagon, a bad road is not so noticeable, but now that the bicycle has ceased to be a toy and has become the business man's means of locomotion, good roads are an absolute necessity to the success of a community.

"We now have about 150 members, which makes our annual income $150. This is a small amount, and only goes a short way, but we hope to soon secure 1,000 or more members. At less than 10 cents a month it seems as though we should be able to find more then 1,000 persons in Oakland with enough patriotism to help in this good cause. In time when we are strong enough, I hope that we can employ a competent engineer at a good salary whose duties shall be to see that the streets are kept in good order. He will see that the street contracts are properly carried out and that no fraudulent work is done. He will also keep in touch with the city officials and see that the ordinances for the preservation of good streets are carried out. We do not need any more laws but we certainly do need what laws we have, enforced. With a competent man in this position, we could accomplish a great deal

"The city should take care of the streets, and not the individual property holders. Our roads are not in a very bad condition. With the exception of Adeline street, Broadway, San Pablo avenue, Telegraph avenue, and those streets that bear the heavy travel, it would cost little to repair them and keep them in good condition.

"Mr Henshaw's plan, regarding the boulevard, is an excellent one and we sincerely hope that it will be carried out. By levying a small tax it would hardly be noticed by the taxpayers.

"Another important duty of our prospective overseer would be to see that the streets were properly relaid after being torn up for gas, water and sewer pipes. The condition that some of the companies leave the streets after tearing them up, is disgraceful. If we can enlist 1,000 members and I believe we can, and hire this engineer, we will accomplish a great deal.'"

Clever Sport for Patrons of the Bay District.

Horse racing as provided the public at the Bay District track in San Francisco is a very enjoyable sport which is only to be seen to be appreciated. The programmes are excellent and the fact that the season has been carried to so successful an outcome speaks volumes for the management of the association. There has been no scandal of any kind attached to the racing at the Bay District and every attempt to "jockey" is met with stern censure and the infliction of severe penalties by the judges.

SEA SERPENT STORIES.

Yarns About Various Visits of the Alleged Marine Monsters.

American and British Naval Officers Have Often Been in Pursuit.

Of course we all laugh at stories of the sea serpent. This marine monster has been reported so often in so many different disguises and shapes, he has appeared at such widely separated places at the same time, that his name is synonymous with exaggeration and invention.

Therefore not much dependence was placed upon the reports spread before the citizens of New York last week by Capt. Geer, of the Sound steamer City of Lowell, who with several of his officers and more than forty passengers saw the sea serpent in the vicinity of Stratford Shoals. At the same time a report came from the crew of the yacht Agnes, of the New York Yacht Club, whose commander, Capt. J. Norton Winslow, reported having encountered the sea serpent some hours previously.

Although these various reports of the appearance of this half-mythical sea monster were corroborated by some forty persons, yet the story was received by the general public with incredulity. It excited smiles more than curiosity, although if the sighting of anything else than a sea serpent had been reported with a like abundance of corroboration, no doubt would have been entertained of its existence.

And why should not there exist a sea monster answering the descriptions of the sea serpent?

Who is to positively affirm that some huge snake, perhaps hundreds of feet in length, does not reside in the bottom of the sea, taking care to keep out of the reach of harm, and only coming to the surface at rare intervals?

Nobody claims that the mysteries of the sea have all been fathomed, and nobody can deny that there are many things about it which are unexplainable.

It is known, for instance, that monsters exactly corresponding with descriptions of the sea serpent by people who claim to have seen it existed in past ages. In the museum of Yale College are the skeletons of many of these creatures dug out of the rocks and from the beds of dried up seas, where they had reposed for ages.

PETRIFIED SPECIMENS.

Geologists all know that certain strata are almost certain to disclose the the skeletons of great sea monsters, hundreds of feet in length, which in far remote ages swam the oceans of the earth and bred numerously.

The vertibrae, the ribs, the skull, the jaws of these sea serpents of a bygone age are as well known to scientists as the bones of the megatharium and the mastodon. Coming upon such bones or traces of them in rock formation the scientist classifies them instantly, knowing that they are the remains of the sea serpent.

One of these antediluvian sea serpents had a neck at least fifty feet long, according to the scientists of the British museum, where the skeleton of such a specimen is to be seen. It had a large head with immense eyes, and it swam through the water something like a great snake.

Is anybody to say that these species are entirely extinct? Who can affirm that somewhere in the dark recesses of ocean a remnant of the ocean may not yet exist, some pterodactyl or labyrinthodon, centuries old, perhaps, and coming to the surface only when disturbed by some earthquake or submarine convulsion, only to return again to the bottom from fright at the sight of ships?

The existence of the sea serpent has never been positively denied by any eminent man of science. Men of science, on the other hand, are the first to give ear to the stories of a sea serpent's appearance. They know the possibility of such an animal surviving, as, perhaps, the sole representative of his race, and many learned bodies have investigated the subject.

In addition to this there is the startling fact that the sea serpent's appearance has been officially recorded on the books of the government of the United States and on the books of the British Admiralty. Naval vessels of the United States have more than once encountered the sea serpent, whose appearance was duly entered in the log, authenticated by the officers of the deck and others called from the ward room.

SEEN BY NAVAL OFFICERS.

Commodore Preble, of the United States Navy, saw such a sea serpent, and lowering a boat gave chase to the monster, which he described as being at least one hundred feet in length. Capt. Little, of the United States Navy, also saw a sea serpent in Penobscot Bay, and, lowering a boat, gave chase, but the snake moved off too rapidly to be overtaken.

On Oct. 11th 1879, H. M. S. Philomelon encountered the sea serpent in the Gulf of Suez and his appearance was duly entered in the log. The captain ordered a shot fired at the snake, but he was too far off for it to take effect. In addition to this another British vessel, no less a craft than the royal yacht Osborne, which is the property of Queen Victoria, encountered the monster in the Mediterranean in 1877, and he was seen by the officers and all of the crew. Would the officers of Queen Victoria's yacht deliberately invent such a story?

Another authentic record of the sea serpent was two years later, when he was seen January 28th, 1879, by the officers and crew of the steamship City of Baltimore, in the Gulf of Aden. Some months later, on April 5th of the same year, the sea serpent was seen by Capt. Davison, of the steamship Kinshinmaru. These are only a few of the recent records.

MADE AFFIDAVITS.

Capt. Lawrence de Ferry made oath before a magistrate in 1746, that he had chased a sea serpent with a crew of sailors in a rowboat, but that the monster escaped. The captain described the creature as a formidable specimen, fully 600 feet long, whose coils above water looked like a row of hogsheads. It had the head of a horse, with a sort of mane, and it was gray or brown in color.

Mr. Eleazer Crabtree, "a man of unimpeachable veracity," who dwelt on Fox Island, in Penobscot Bay, in 1778, said he saw a sea serpent 500 feet long. His description was very much like that of Capt. de Ferry's, and the monster he saw had a large, black mouth. The same Crabtree saw another sea serpent near Mount Desert in 1793.

The adventure of Commodore Preble, U. S. N., when he gave chase to the sea serpent, took place in 1779. He was then a midshipman, and when the sea serpent was sighted from the deck of the sloop of war he was placed in command of a boat manned by twelve seamen and sent in pursuit. The monster is said to have been 100 feet long and possessed of a large head. Its motion was so rapid that it could not be overtaken, but it was observed by the officers and men for over an hour.

Captain Little, U. S. N., swore that while in Penobscot Bay, in 1780, on board of a "public armed ship," he saw a sea serpent at sunrise one morning. He had a boat lowered and took the tiller himself, but before he could get near enough for the marines to shoot the animal sank out of sight.

ON THE AMERICAN COAST.

Abraham Cummings reported a sea serpent in Penobscot Bay in 1802, and another in 1808. In the same year the Rev. Mr. Maclean, a clergyman of Eigg, sent a careful description of a sea serpent, with "a head somewhat broad," that swam "with his head above water for about half a mile." He described the creature as about eighty feet long.

In 1817 Capt. Tappan, of the schooner Laura and his whole crew told of seeing a sea serpent off Gloucester. They said it looked like a string of buoys, with a head like a serpent and a long tongue that stuck out of its mouth like a harpoon. Its motion was more rapid than that of a whale.

Several persons made affidavits in 1818 to having seen a monster off Cape Ann. In 1822 the sea serpent was reported from the fjords of Norway, and in 1831 it was seen off Portsmouth, N. H. In 1848 the British ship Daedalus, Capt. McQuahae, encountered a sea serpent which was distinctly seen by many of the passengers and afterwards described by them with much care. The captain and passengers of the ship Silas Richards reported encountering a monster on June 7th, 1826, in latitude 41 and longitude 67, and described the serpent as of a brownish color and seventy feet long.

Three Maine fishermen, "all reliable and God fearing men," sailed far out to sea one summer's day in 1833 and came across a sea serpent basking near the surface. Two of the fishermen were so badly scared that they went below, leaving the third, a Mr. Gooch, to face the intruder. Mr. Gooch is authority for the statement that the boat passed within fifty feet of the serpent and that he had a good view of it. It raised its head and looked at Mr. Gooch and then dived out of sight. There were many reports of sea serpents in that year. The steamship Connecticut reached port several days overdue, and explained the delay by saying that much time had been consumed in chasing sea serpents. The passengers and crew were unanimous in their description of the monster, which fled across the sea in spirals. The people on land became very much excited, and three days later the Connecticut put to sea with a hundred excursionists who wanted to get a glimpse of the snake.

FIRED AT THE SEA SERPENT.

From Norway in 1845 came a story to the effect that three fishermen had fired at a sea serpent and had been pursued. They pulled for the shore as fast as they could, and when the monster found himself in shallow water he turned about and disappeared.

The crew of the ship Pauline encountered a sea serpent in 1875. It was coiled twice around the carcass of a sperm whale, with its head in the air. When the Pauline's boat approached the snake disappeared but the whale was there to prove it. This story was carefully examined into, and is believed to be authentic.

In the same year the serpent was seen again. It was on August 3d. A party of well-known New England ladies and gentlemen, four in number, besides two sailors, saw from the deck of the yacht Princess near Swampscott an animal resembling a sea serpent. At a distance of 100 or 150 yards from the yacht a huge head like that of a turtle or snake arose from time to time to a height of six or eight feet above the water. It was seen by the entire party during two hours. One of the men on the yacht made a sketch of it.

Capt. Garton, of the steamer Norman and a passenger on the steamship Roman, saw a serpent at different times on the same day, July 17, 1875, in about the same latitude. They described the monster as striped black and white and over 100 feet long. Both reports were made independently, and the two men did not know each other.

On July 15, 1877, Mr. G. S. Wesson and Mr. F. W. Fernald saw a strange animal which they thought must be a sea serpent. They both gave careful descriptions, saying it had a rough and scaly skin of a brownish hue. Its back was covered with protuberances that looked like a row of dirt heaps on the surface of the water. These observers could not discover any mouth or eyes.

CHASED A SEAL.

Six men while rowing near Gloucester on June 7, 1886, suddenly saw a seal at a distance of about sixty rods sharply pursued by a creature that looked like a snake. At one time the seal jumped high out of the water in its frantic endeavors to escape. The serpent was apparently afraid to venture into shallow water and gave up the chase as the seal got nearer to land. These men are said to be of excellent character and could not have all been deceived. They were all closely questioned and agreed in every detail of their stories.

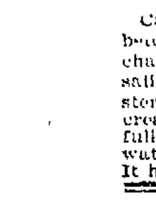

Early on the afternoon of August 12, 1886, Mr. G. B. Putman, of Boston; Mr. C. W. Pool and a large number of Gloucester people said they saw the monster for ten minutes near Rockport. Its color was dark brown and its length apparently eighty feet at least. No eyes could be seen, but the serpent swam with great speed, cutting the water with what looked like a pair of fins. Its back presented that look of humpiness, or a row of humps, recorded by other observers. The animal was also seen by others in the vicinity during the following ten days. These accounts of the serpent's appearance are accepted as reliable by a large number of persons, especially in that part of New England.

Of late years the witnesses to the serpent's appearance agree pretty generally in their descriptions of the monster. The serpent invariably shows itself in the higher latitudes and always in summer or early autumn. As to length, color and general appearance, motion and its curious harmlessness, the different tales are strangely alike.

In view of these facts, it is unreasonable to ask whether or not the sea serpent may or may not be a reality? Here are only a few of the cases in which the monster has been reported by credible witnesses, including officers of the United States and of the British navy, clergymen, merchants and captains of reliability, whose statements have been corroborated by other eyewitnesses often to the number of a whole ship's crew.

These are not the fairy tales of imaginative fishermen, but the sober statements of men of education and position. They all agree about main points, differing from each other to just that extent which would be natural in the case of an animal seen at a distance during a time of excitement, a disagreement which only tends to prove the truth of their main statements. In nearly every case there is reported the strange sinuous motion of the monster, its long neck corresponding with the antediluvian specimens whose skeletons exist in the museums, and his great length and size.

Summer appears to be the sea serpent's favorite time of appearance in these latitudes. Certain it is that there are not many of these sea monsters, but who is to affirm, in view of the facts, that the whole story is a fabrication?

COFFEE—C. E. Bickford's circular says: "Since our last circular there has been a decided change in the tone of the market due to an improvement in the price of coffee. Coffee and future in New York coupled with the moderate revival of demand both for home consumption and shipment overland. Dealers have been loath to ascribe the sudden change abroad to any but speculative influences, and while the tone of the local market is firm, the situation so far has not warranted any advance nor made that action feasible. A further rise or a brisk demand here, however, would likely cause an immediate improvement in certain classes—notably good unwashed Salvador—the reduced stock of which is out of proportion to prospective needs. We continue quotations firm, as follows: 20@20½c per lb for good prime washed Costa Rica; —@19½c for good Costa Rica, 18½@19c for good Costa Rica mixed with black beans, 17½@18½c for fair Costa Rica. 11@16½ for common to ordinary Costa Rica; 19@20c for good to prime washed Salvador; —@18c for good green unwashed Salvador; 21@21½c for prime washed Guatemala; 19¾@20½c for good to strictly good washed Guatemala; 18½@19¼c for fair washed Guatemala; 16@17¾c for medium Guatemala; 14@15¾ for ordinary Guatemala, 9@13½c for very inferior to common Guatemala; 21@22c per lb for good to prime washed Peaberry, 19@19½c for good unwashed Peaberry. SHE IS MRS. GUELPH.

Queen Victoria's Name When Divested of Her Titles.

Family Names of Monarchs Which Are But Rarely Used.

Not one person out of a thousand, if he had a fair day's start and the privilege of rummaging among encyclopedias, could trace out the real family names of the rulers of Europe. As a matter of fact, these are very complicated, and to know them is quite an effort of the memory. In the case of royalty the family name has been in most cases taken from the name of the castle in which the founder of the race lived.

Mistakes are very frequently made through ignorance, and these mistakes are so frequently quoted they become accepted facts. The English royal family are known, for example, as Guelphs, the Russian royal family as Romanoffs and the Portuguese kingly house as Braganzans. All of these, it now seems, are wrong.

Le Figaro, of Paris, has gone into this subject quite extensively, and the facts that it has brought together are well worth setting down. Queen Victoria, according to this authority, was originally Miss Azon, or Miss Azon von Este. She was descended, as were the other members of the houses of Brunswick-Luneburg and Hanover, from Azon, Margrave of Este. The Prince of Wales, the son of Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg, has naturally his father's family name. He is spoken of more correctly than any of the other royal personages of Europe. Descended from the Wettins, which line was founded in the twelfth century, his actual name is Mr. Albert Edward Wettin.

Likewise the King of Portugal, strictly speaking, has the same family name. He was a grandson of another Prince of Coburg, who married the then Queen of Portugal, and thereby became ruler of that country. Ferdinand of Bulgaria comes from exactly the same stock and is Ferdinand Wettin. A cousin of his, and of the same family name, is the present monarch of Belgium, Leopold II, a prince of Saxe-Coburg having ascended the Belgium throne in 1831.

Hohenzollern is not the family name of the German line that is now upon the throne. Their true name is Zollern, Thassilon, the first count of Zollern, having founded the race about 800. In the year 1300 the Zollern family had two male descendants, the Count of Zollern and the Burgrave of Nuremburg. From the latter comes the present royal house of the German Empire. So William II is William Zollern. The King of Roumania is another representative of this line and has precisely the same name.

The Capets are: The Duke of Orleans, the son of old Count of Paris, Don Carlos and Alfonso XIII, the infant King of Spain. Their progenitor was Hugues Capet, the original Count of Paris, who ascended the throne of France in 987.

Of Oldenburgs, founded by the Count of Oldenburg, who died in 1440, there are many. The chief of those today who are entitled to use this family name are Christian IX of Denmark; George I, King of Greece; the Grand Duke of Oldenburg, Ernest, Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, and Nicholas II, Emperor of all the Russias. Emperor Nicholas is a Romanoff only through the female line. Rightly he is an Oldenburg, having descended from Peter III, a member of one of the Holstein branches of that house.

Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria-Hungary, the Queen Regent of Spain and Frederick, Grand Duke of Baden, are Ethichons. The original Ethichon was a Duke of Alsace, who lived about the year 614. Humbert, King of Italy, is Mr. Savoia, and Oscar II, of Sweden, Bernadotte. The original of this name was a French general, who was made King of Sweden in 1818, and was called Charles XIV. Pope Leo XIII's real name is Joachim Pecci. Alexander I, of Servia has the name of Obrenowitch, and Nicholas I, Prince of Montenegro, is Mr. Niegoch.

A MAN OF MANY IDEAS.

Street Superintendent Miller Suggests Many Reforms.

Gardeners Changed at the Meeting of the Public Works Board

When Mayor Davie called the Board of Public Works to order last night if the eye of the casual observer did not impress him with the idea that the entire board was present the roll call of Secretary Kaufman would have had that effect

An ordinance to provide for advertising for sealed bids for street cleaning and sweeping was referred to the committee of the whole.

A communication from the superintendent of streets suggesting the advisability of a corporation yard with the necessary buildings and room for keeping and storing the city's tools, etc., was referred to the same committee. Mr Miller in his communication suggested that the property be located near the City hall and that the size of the lot necessary to accommodate a corporation yard would be about 100 feet square

The superintendent of streets notified the board that there was a $5 discrepancy between the rates charged by the Dingee Water Company and those charged by the Contra Costa Water Company for watering two different parks in the city. He advised a survey of the parks in question to locate the cause of the difference. It was referred to the committe of the whole

The lack of paint on the band stand in Clinton and the City hall parks was noticed by Mr Miller and he advised the painting of them. Referred to finance committee

A further trouble in regard to the parks was that at present there is no place to put the debris which accumulates. It being impossible for the corporation wagons to call oftener than once a week Mr Miller therefore advised the purchasing of boxes large enough to hold it until the wagon could pass. The committee of the whole will investigate

Another communication from the superintendent of streets suggested that he be allowed to engage a foreman of street macadamizing when he thought it necessary at a salary of $4 a day. The board referred this to the finance committee of the council

The way in which certain street railway companies had laid the basalt blocks between their tracks was the cause of another communication from Mr Miller. Some companies had the blocks laid so as to be two or three inches higher than the grade of the street making it unpleasant for vehicles to drive or cross where this existed. He proposed the passage of an amendment to the ordinance which would give the superintendent of streets the power to reject any work of this kind that was not in accordance with good roadways. It was referred to the committee of the whole

The bills owed by the city next came under the observation of the board. Demands to the amount of $106 35 were allowed for the street department $2 001 95 from the school building fund and $155 for the educational department

The petition of John Lewis for a city position was filed

The claims of John Mack for $10 and James Quinlan for $12 were sent to the Board of Education

Up to this time the board had acted in perfect harmony and to the outsider no difference of opinions of the members was perceptible but when President Davie asked the secretary if there was any new business he appeared somewhat surprised to hear him read a resolution deposing D Hocking from his position as keeper of Lincoln park. The mayor made little marks with his pencil on the sheet of paper before him. The city attorney found something of interest in the figures on the carpet and the city engineer was apparently figuring the cost of painting the ceiling in the southwest corner of the board room. Mr Kaufman called the roll and Messrs. Pierson and Wilson voted aye while Davie quietly answered no

The resolution to give the place so made vacant to C N Hitchcock was carried by the same vote

The resolution to depose James Zimmerman from the keepership of Jefferson park met with the approval of all members but the proposition to cast the cloak of the fallen Zimmerman on the shoulders of Al Williams did not coincide with the mayor's views. The other two members seemed to think it the proper thing and consequently the portfolio of parkkeeper was tendered to Mr Williams

No further business being before the board, an adjournment was taken.

IT IS WELL WELCOMED.

Vandercook's New Road Will Build Up the County.

It Will Open Up to Oakland a Very Prosperous District.

The Tribune of yesterday published, as an extract from the San Jose Mercury, the following paragraph:

"When the electric line between Oakland and Haywards was projected there was a general shaking of heads among the sluirians and the know-it-alls. It would never, never pay. But not only has it proved a profitable investment, but it has wonderfully built up the section through which it passes and it has been the means of taking to Oakland hundreds of thousands of dollars in trade that never before had gone to that city."

The truthfulness of this statement cannot be gainsaid and no attempt is made to, even by those who at the inception of the electric line in question, prophesied financial ruin and disaster.

What has been said of the Haywards line may with equal justification be said of the line to Berkeley and the other line to Alameda. These electric systems, in completeness of equipment, the manner in which they are run and the thriving communities which they connect, are the peer of any combination of electric systems in the world.

The roads do not reach all parts of Alameda county, and, until similar lines radiate to all parts of the rich country surrounding this city, Oakland will not enjoy the benefits of this part of the State.

But another road has just been got under way, and within six months in all probability will be pouring into the business district of Oakland the retail trade and the wealth of the country far beyond Livermore, even into the Corral Hollow country.

This last road which is now represented by E. P. Vandercook, has just been granted a franchise by the Supervisors by a unanimous vote. It will connect with the Vandercook or East Oakland system, which now extends from the corner of Eighth street and Broadway to the corner of Twenty-seventh street and Fruit Vale avenue. The announcement that this line is to be built has been received with the greatest evidence of satisfaction. The projectors mean business because at the latest the road must be completed within eighteen months, and must be commenced at the farthest within six months. The fact that no bonus has been asked from the merchants of this city is an evidence that they are able enough to put the line through without assistance.

The line will run through a country which is now scantily supplied with railway service, and before long will be flanked with thriving and populous communities. This fact will be evident from a rough designation of the proposed route as follows: From the present terminus of the Vandercook system on Fruit Vale avenue in a direct line to Seminary avenue in the vicinity of Mills college; thence along the edge of the foothills to the limits of San Leandro, where it takes a turn around Lake Chabot into Castro valley; thence through Haywards pass into Dublin and the Livermore valley. The line will follow the main county road from Dublin to Livermore, and a spur track will be built into Pleasanton.

People who have occasion to travel in the direction outlined know that they accomplish the journey only with a great deal of difficulty. They will therefore see the great advantages to be derived by the building of this line, because they will be afforded an opportunity of reaching any spot along a rich and promising section of country.

Not alone were the property owners willing to grant right-of-way through their lands, but the press in San Leandro, Haywards and Livermore published articles showing that the new road meant to the thriving towns for which they spoke both wealth and population.

AN ENCOURAGING VIEW.

A well-known merchant of this city said today: "Oakland ought to have twice as many manufactories as she has and she would have them if she could only get coal that did not come either from the other side of the United States or the other side of the globe. As I understand it, the Vandercook line is aiming to reach the Corral Hollow coal country, and if it is, that means that coal will be laid down here just as low as coal is placed at factories in the East. With cheap coal comes factories; with factories come employes; with employes come homes, and with homes and an increased population come commercial progress and the eventual advancement of Oakland to the dignity of a metropolis. Every merchant that I know welcome the Vandercook road."

E. P. Vandercook, the projector of this great enterprise, is a young man, yet he has already done a great deal for this city. He has built and is still struggling to build lines into all the centers of population in East Oakland, and his enterprise is appreciated by the people whom he has placed within a few minutes' ride of the heart of this city.

VOL. XXXX. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 31, 1895. NO. 28.

SAY ALL IS STRAIGHT,

Members of the State Board Talk About the Records.

HOW THE EXTENSION WAS MADE

Secretary Coglan Acted on Directions Given to Him.

What the Sacramento Officials Say About Dalton's Charges.

It has been insinuated in various quarters that the records of the State Board of Equalization were not altogether straight in the matter of the extension of time granted to the Alameda County Board and for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the matter a Tribune representative made a trip to Sacramento yesterday. The State Board was in session in the Capitol building, but Secretary Coglan readily consented to an inspection of his books and all matters bearing on the subject. The volume containing the proceedings of the Board is very bulky, and a careful inspection of it failed to reveal any erasures or missing pages.

The first entry which relates indirectly to Alameda county is that bearing date of June 29th, 1895, and which reads as follows: "Board met in San Francisco at call of chairman. All the members present except Mr. Arnold. Applications having been received from several counties for extension of time to assessors under Section 3705 Political Code, the following order was made and certified to the Auditors of the respective counties."

Then follows a recital granting an extension of time in which to complete the assessments of Butte, Fresno, Kern, Mendocino, San Francisco, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Sonoma and Stanislaus counties.

Following comes this entry: "On motion of Mr. Colgan, seconded by Mr. Cheseborough, it was ordered that in case of future applications for extension, the clerk is authorized to issue the order as an act of the Board."

"The members of the Board," explained the Secretary, "were going to visit other counties to examine the assessment rolls and it was not known when they would all be together again to have a meeting of the Board. It was not because the members wanted to go on a vacation trip that the order was made. Any one can readily see that it would have worked a great hardship on various counties if no one had authority to grant extensions while the members of the Board were scattered in various parts of the State. Alameda county was only one of twelve counties granted an extension of time under this act of the Board. It has not been an unusual proceeding and the minutes of the Board for years back will show that just such steps have been taken by the Board under like circumstances. Here for instance, is an entry in the minutes of April 9th, 1891, stating that 'the Board ordered that all applications from assessors for extension of time be granted owing to the lateness of the season. Eight counties were granted an extension of time under that order, which necessarily carried with it an extension of time to every Board of Supervisors that might come under its provisions.

AUTHORITY TO EXTEND TIME.

"I have seen it stated," continued Mr. Coglan, "that the Board has no authority to make such an order, but Section 3705 of the Act governing this body recites that 'the State Board of Equalization may by an order entered upon its minutes and certified to the County Auditor of any county, extend for not exceeding twenty days the time fixed in this title for the performance of any act by the County Assessor, County Auditor or County Boards of Equalization.' Isn't that explicit enough?"

In addition to what has already been quoted the State Board is governed by the following legal provisions:

The State Board of Equalization must meet at the State Capitol on the 3rd Monday in July and continue in session from day to day, Sundays excepted, until the first Monday in August. At such meeting the Board must assess the franchise, roadway, roadbed, rail and rolling stock of all railroads operating in more than one county, etc.

It must also hold regular meetings at the State Capitol on the second Monday of each month and such special meetings as the chairman may direct. The Board of individual members must whenever deemed necessary visit the several counties of the State for the purpose of inspecting the property. It must meet at the State Capitol on the first Monday in August and remain in session from day to day, Sundays excepted, until the first Monday in September and at such meeting to equalize the valuation of the taxable property of the several counties in the State for the purpose of taxation.

The members of the State Board when asked concerning the criticisms that had been passed upon their actions, said they thought it unnecessary to make any reply.

"We are sitting as judges in the matter of equalization," said Chairman Morehouse, "and it would be unbecoming in us to engage in a wrangle with those who it may be necessary to call before us in regard to the various assessments."

"Our actions have been fair and above board," said Mr. Beamer, "and the Board courts the fullest investigation of its proceedings."

WHAT THE STATE BOARD SAYS.

In regard to the Alameda County assessment extension the members of the Board were prefectly willing to tell what they knew about it.

Said Mr. Morehouse: "On Monday the 8th of July I was in Oakland with Mr. Cheseborough. While in front of the court house, Supervisor Church approached and in the conversation which ensued in regard to assessment matters he remarked: 'We will want that time,' referring to an extension of time to the Board of Equalization, which we were discussing at that moment. I replied, 'Write to our secretary then; send up your application.' Mr. Church said, 'I will do it right away,' and walked off. I went on to Santa Cruz, and thinking that Mr. Church would make his application and that perhaps our secretary would not fully understand it I telegraphed to him as follows: 'Alameda county wants time. Let them have it.'

"It appears, however, that Secretary Coglan had not received word from the Alameda county people and not knowing how much time they wanted, ordered an extension of five days."

The entry on the minutes of the secretary's books in reference to this matter reads as follows.

"Wednesday, July 10th, 1895.—On receipt of telegram from the chairman the clerk issued the following order: It is hereby ordered that the time of the County Board of Equalization of Alameda County to equalize the property in the county for 1895 be extended to and including July 29th, 1895. Order certified to auditor this day.

"CHAS. M. COGLAN,
"Clerk."

Mr. Colgan, another member of the Board, told his part in the proceedings as follows: "Friday, July 12th, Mr. Cheseborough and Mr. Beamer were in Oakland, Mr. Cheseborough telephoned to me saying there was some comment on the action of the Board in granting the Alameda County Board of Supervisors an extension of time, it being stated that they had not asked for it. This surprised me a little, and I suggested that he ascertain the true status of affairs and notify the Board of Supervisors that we as a Board of Equalization did not desire to force any extension of time on Alameda or any other county, and that if desired the order granting an extension would be cancelled immediately. I also received a telephonic communication from Mr. Beamer on the subject, and then I understand both gentlemen went before the Board of Supervisors."

Mr. Cheseborough, who was present during the conversation with Supervisor Church, and also appeared before the Board of Supervisors, tells of his part in the proceedings as follows:

"Mr. Morehouse and I were coming out of the Assessor's office in Oakland on the day he mentions when we were met by a gentleman whom I afterwards learned was Supervisor Church. The latter told Mr. Morehouse that the Supervisors as a Board of Equalization would probably want an extension of time, and Mr. Morehouse, turning to me asked me to notify the clerk of the Board, Mr. Coglan who was then in San Francisco. I delivered the message to the Secretary, and nothing more occurred in the matter until this day that Mr. Colgan has told you about.

"At the time Supervisor Church spoke to Mr. Morehouse I did not know his name, but I told Mr. Beamer on the day I telephoned to Mr. Colgan that I would know him again if I saw him. We went into the meeting room of the Board of Supervisors and Mr. Beamer spoke to Supervisor Church, the gentleman I pointed out to him. The Board was in session at the time, but Mr. Beamer was permitted to make a statement. He informed the Board that it was not bound by the assessment, and that as far as the State Board was concerned it did not desire to be placed in the position of thrusting time on them, and, furthermore, that the order granting an extension could be rescinded then and there. Supervisor Church replied that of course the time was wanted, and he offered a resolution asking the State Board for an extension of ten days, and that it be telegraphed to the Secretary of the Board here immediately. The motion was put while we were standing there, and, so far as I know, was carried unanimously."

The telegram referred to reads as follows:

Oakland, Cal., July 12, 3:30 P. M.
Chas. M. Coglan, State Board Equalization:

I have been this day instructed to wire the State Board Equalization and request on behalf of the Board of Equalization of the County of Alameda an extension of ten days' time from and after July 15th, in which to equalize the assessment of Alameda county.

(Signed) HIRAM BAILEY,
Chairman.

FRANK C. JORDAN, Clerk.

Secretary Coglan says he received this telegram at Sacramento about 4 P. M. of the day it was sent. He immediately entered the order, made a copy of it and certified it to the auditor. The minutes on the subject reads as follows:

Friday, July 12th, 1895.—On application of the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County the time was further extended as per following order: "It is hereby ordered that the time of the County Board of Equalization of Alameda County to equalize the property in the county for 1895 be extended to and including Thursday, July 25, 1895.

CHAS. M. COGLAN,
Clerk.

THE EXTENSION RATIFIED.

It has been contended that the extensions granted by the secretary would not be valid on the ground that the Board had not concurred, but it appears that his acts were ratified at a meeting of the Board on Monday, July 15th, 1895, when the Board met, with Messrs. Arnold, Beamer, Cheseborough, Colgan and Chairman Morehouse present. The entries made by the Secretary at various times were read and approved as the act of the Board.

MR. BEAMER'S PLAIN TALK.

Mr. Beamer tells of his experience before the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, sitting as Equalizers, as follows: "I addressed myself to the Board and said, "Now, gentlemen, I don't want any further misunderstanding about this matter. The State Board prefers that local boards complete their work within the time prescribed by law. If this Board desires an extension of time the State Board will no doubt grant it, but we want it distinctly understood it will be at your express request. You will either ask for it now and right here or forever hold your peace.' So far as I remember there was not a dissenting voice against the resolution calling for an extension, and Mr. Cheseborough and I, after having communicated with Mr. Colgan over the wire, felt that in addressing the Supervisors as I did that I expressed the sentiments of a majority of the State Board."

The Board are apparently satisfied as to the legality of their proceedings in the matter and have no doubt that they will be sustained in case Assessor Dalton makes a contest.

PLENTY OF GOOD MEN.

Senator Squire of Washington on the Presidential Outlook.

He Is Working Vigorously to Get San Francisco the Convention.

Special Correspondence to the Tribune.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Senator Squire of Washington is in the city. He was asked in an interview if he had heard any intimation from the West about presidential candidates and whom the West would favor.

He said: "You know as much about that as I do. I could probably talk about western favorites, but it would be idle chatter.

"We have five or six men today whose names are on the tip of everyones tongue as a possibility.

"There is General Harrison. We all know he drove the stage well one time. The question is, do we want him for a driver again?

"Then comes Thomas B. Reed. He will hold the second place in point of power, in the speakership, in the gift of the government. To be the unanimous choice of his colleagues in Congress for the speakership is a great thing. He is perhaps the best parliamentarian in the United States.

"Then there is Morton. He is not a speech maker or a pyrotechnic statesman. He is sure, solid and safe.

"I have been in the Senate with Allison six years and I have studied him carefully. He is a student, accurate, judicious, able and approachable.

"McKinley I admire. He is perhaps a more sympathetic man than any of the other candidates.

"Chauncey Depew, is brilliant and well poised. He has an accurate and judicial mind and is popular.

"In fact, there is not a man prominently named but about whom something nice can be said. The only trouble is we have the embarassment of riches.

"We have excellent timber and yet, as in war times, when a rail splitter comes to the front, a man as yet unknown may be chosen and may prove equal to our monumental president. The West, I do not think, has made a choice.

"There is one thing I want you to put me down as being heartily in favor of and that is the holding of the national convention in San Francisco.

"I want the East through her representatives to come out and see our country.

"The East stays within itself and never gets away from its extreme localisms.

"Someone has said that had Columbus discovered the Pacific Coast there would never have been any New England.

"The West is like a young giant just awakened and stretching out his arms to feel his strength.

"The West wants to enter into better fellowship with the East and this is a chance to accomplish that end.

"If the convention was held there, the railroads could arrange to sell tickets so that in returning tourists could pass through Washington and Oregon. It would be an admirable way of bringing the East and the West together."

An Insurgent Chief Killed.

HAVANA, July 31.—The insurgent chief Roderiguez, formerly associated with Carlos Costillo, has been killed in an engagement with civil guards at the Venidia plantation near Guatanamo.

TO TRY FLAX GROWING.

Government Experiments to be Made in the Sound District.

If Good Fiber Can Be Produced the Industry Will Be Profitable.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Extended investigations of much importance to the commercial interests of the country having in view the determination of the possibility of growing flax here successfully for fibre have been decided upon by the agricultural department.

The work will be begun at once and will cover this season and doubtless will extend to next year.

The experiments will be conducted at East Ferndale, Wash.

Agricultural officials believe that this region is best adapted to flax growing in view of its damp, moist climate, and the best flax raised in this country, practically all of which is for oil purposes and none for use as fibre, is said to be raised in the vicinity of Puget Sound.

The investigations will involve expenditures aggregating at least $900,000 and will be in charge of Dr. A. W. Tronton, the agent of the department there, who will be assisted by an expert Belgian, who has been in this country some time.

The experiments are regarded as of great importance and will be watched with much interest by manufacturers.

The work will be begun at once, and the flax, after being grown and treated, will be sent to factories.

The manufacture of the fibre probably will be done voluntarily by establishments anxious as to the possibility of having flax evolved into fibre, instead of importing it from abroad.

TWO JURORS ARE PASSED

A Good Morning's Work Done in the Durrant Case.

He Rides in the Black Maria Now Instead of a Buggy.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Theodore Durrant was this morning taken from the county jail in the regular prison van instead of driving in the sheriff's buggy, as on the previous day's trial.

This prevented pedestrians from following and avoided the general notice which the sheriff has considered bad for the prisoner.

The new venire of jurors was on hand for examination.

The majority sought to be excused on one pretext or another.

After a hard morning's work, however, two additional jurors were secured and sworn to try the case.

Nathan Crocker, a broker, and M. R. Dempster, a commission merchant, were the two additional jurors.

This was the best morning's work so far.

The four jurors thus far obtained are considered by the prosecution much above the average in criminal cases.

The prosecution does not believe the deposition of Charles H. Clarke, the traveling salesman now in Boston, will aid Durrant much.

Should he return to testify he will be arrested, it is said, at the instance of former employers here for frauds.

The police are considering the advisability of trying to extradite Clark, and bring him back here so that he can be cross-examined.

When Durrant was being taken from the court room a well dressed and handsome woman called out "My darling" and tried to kiss him.

The prisoner is the object of much hero worship.

MEN MANGLED.

Frightful Explosion in a Steel Plant in Ohio.

LORRAINE, O., July 31.—At the Johnson Steel Plant this morning gas accumulated in forging to an impact of cinders, which united with a hot air blast from a blower and caused an explosion that shook the entire plant.

The injured are: George Wilcott, neck and shoulders burned and lacerated; Fred Eichter, nail driven into stomach; S. W. Douglass, burned; Robert Hall, right arm mangled.

HURST FOR GOVERNOR.

Maryland Democrats Endorse the Administration of Cleveland.

Senator Gorman's Friends Appear to Have Controlling Votes.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BALTIMORE, July 31.—Long before the opening of the Democratic State convention today the hall was crowded.

Judge Fisher, the choice of the independents for governor, seemed to be gaining strength and may be a compromise candidate. His friends claims he will have 40 votes at the outset. The total vote is 117.

The platform will endorse the National and State administration and declare for gold.

Hattersly W. Talbot, chairman of the State Central Committee, named Bernard Cater of Baltimore temporary chairman.

The mention of Senator Gorman's name by some one in the crowd was greeted with mingled hisses and cheers.

In addressing the convention Mr. Carter asked Maryland to set the example to all the other Democratic states by rolling up a larger Democratic majority than ever before.

The temporary officers were made permanent.

The resolutions adopted approved of the Democratic platform of 1892, and of the able and patriotic administration of President Cleveland.

They declare against free silver and approve the Wilson tariff bill, which is characterized as the best the country has known in 25 years.

The administration of Governor Brown is highly complimented.

The resolutions demand a fair reassessment.

When nominations for governor were called for, Mr. Grason presented the name of ex-Judge William A. Fisher of Baltimore.

His reference to Maryland's representatives not representing the wishes of their constitutents in Congress was greeted by loud cries of "Gorman! Gorman!"

Barnard Carter presented the name of John E. Hurst, a Baltimore millionaire, who, he said, was unpledged or influenced. Hurst is regared as a Gorman candiate and a scene of wild confusion ensued which was only quieted by a threat to clear the galleries.

Mr. Bledler nominated State Senator Thomas G. Hayes, champion of re-assessment.

The result of the first ballot was: Hurst, 86, Fisher, 31, giving nomination to John E. Hurst.

Hayes received four votes which agreed to change for Hurst when it was seen he would be the nominee.

Hurst's nomination was made unanimous.

Charles S. Carothers was nominated for attorney-general and Marion Dekalb Smith for comptroller. The convention then adjourned.

BADLY BUNGED UP.

It Will Be a Long Time 'Ere Schaeffer Can Play Again.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—As an after effect of the accident Saturday to Jake Schaeffer, in which the wizard fractured his right arm, comes the news that two big billiard tournaments, the plans of which have been under way for some time, have been declared off.

Whether this means that the world's greatest experts are to be seen in competition this winter or not will depend largely upon Schaeffer's condition when his arm has thoroughly mended.

The promoters of the proposed tournaments do not care to go ahead with arrangements unless it is certain that the Wizard can be at the contest.

Schaeffer was in a cheerful frame of mind at his home last evening and in fair physical condition, considering that he has been through a siege of the most excruciating pain.

Not only did the fall off the cable car fracture and splinter a bone in his forearm, but tore all of the tendons in his wrist out of place and as well as to remove the splinters of bone.

The attending physicians do not hold out much hope that he will come out of the trouble as good for billiard playing as he was before, but Jake himself is supremely hopeful.

INDIAN RIGHTS TRAMPLED ON.

The Whites Want to Have a Monopoly of the Hunting.

LOTS OF BIG GAME THERE.

It Is Believed the Settlers Will Attack the Hostiles.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A special to the Record from its correspondent with the troops now on the way to the scene of the Wyoming Indian troubles, says:

The Indians are reported camped on Fall river and the settlers assert that just as soon as the troops get near the settlement they will attack the Indians and rely upon the troops for assistance. The settlers have scouts out in the mountains.

One returned a short time ago and claims that there is a camp of about 200 Indians in a valley about twenty miles from Marysville, but it is hard to get reliable information.

One of the settlers who has returned relates that he saw five Indians, and another, arriving about an hour later, claims that all the Indians on the Fort Hall agency are camped on Fall river.

Most of the settlers rely for their subsistence and revenue on hunting the big game.

They slaughter a large quantity of game and the hunting parties they conduct through Jackson's Hole slaughter more game in one year than the Indians do in five, but the settlers are under cover of a new law which was passed February 22, 1895, which was to prevent the slaughtering of game except during the months of September, October and November, and then only the male animals, except such as were actually needed for the hunters' subsistence.

The settlers were anxious to keep the Indians out of the country as every animal that they killed meant a source of so much revenue less to the white men, and they intended to put a stop to the Indians visiting the country.

The settlers last year declared if the Indians hunted for big game this season they would organize and wipe them out.

The settlers look on the big game as their private property and in fact during my stay in the Jackson's Hole country I was fed on fresh-killed elk meat.

If the Indians were voters of the State of Wyoming their right to kill game would never be questioned.

There are a few good citizens ranching in Jackson's Hole country, but the majority of the settlers are men who have left their country for the country's good.

The Jackson's Hole country is recognized as a place of refuge for outlaws of every description from Wyoming, Idaho and the adjacent country.

TO DEFEND THE GATE.

Improved Armament Is to Be Placed at San Francisco.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The reports received at the office of the Chief Engineers indicate that satisfactory progress is being made in the fortifications and preparations for defense of the harbor at San Francisco.

Among the works which are expected to b completed during the year is the constructions of emplacements for the two 12-inch guns on non-disappearing carriages. This work will cost when completed about $72,000.

The mortar battery, which was begun in 1893, has been completed and four of the 12-inch guns on lifts have been made ready for service and put in place.

The emplacement for one of the three new 10-inch guns on disappearing carriages has also been finished and it is expected that the second of them will be completed during the year.

While naturally averse to discussing the secrets of fortification improvements the engineers about army headquarters express gratification at the progress of the work in the vicinity of San Francisco.

TO MAKE TIRES.

A Big Steel Industry to Be Located at Chicago.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A local paper today has the following:

Another great steel company will soon be located in Chicago, and this city will become the center of the largest output of locomotive and car wheel tires in the country.

Well founded reports are to the effect that a deal is on foot whereby the Chicago Tire and Spring Company's plant at Melrose will pass into the hands of the Latrobe Steel Tire and Iron Company.

This is only the first move toward a consolidation of all the steel tire interests in the United States which will bring Chicago some of the largest steel interests in the East and eventually give employment to an immense number of people.

There are in the country only five companies which manufacture locomotive and car wheel tires and the plan is to merge them into one big concern.

MUST GET A REISSUE.

The Coming Bond Election Should Result in Success.

If It Does Not the City's Progress Will Be Temporarily Crippled.

An election will be held in this city a month from today and on its successful outcome depends to a considerable extent the future welfare of Oakland. The election is called for the purpose of issuing $140,000 in bonds, 120 of which are to be of the value of $1,000 each, and 40 of the value of $500 each. They will bear interest at the rate of four per cent per annum, payable annually. These bonds will be of the character known as "Serials" and one-fortieth will be paid annually. This will result in so light an increase in the tax rate that it will not be felt by the property owner. For instance the sum of $3,500, together with interest is all that is required to be paid the first year.

These bonds will be redeemed at the rate of one-fortieth each year as the State law, under which the bonds are to be issued, provides only for serials running forty years.

The proceeds of these bonds, which if voted, will be sold between September 25th and October 1st, of this year, will be devoted to the payment of $140,000 in bonds, maturing October 1st, and which were issued by the city September 29th, 1892. The original amount was $167,000, of which $27,00 was redeemed in 189. The law providing for the redemption of this issue of 1892 was not as definite as the present law, and councils since 1892 have omitted to levy a tax each year for their redemption. The present law in its provision for redemption, is definite and imperitive and cannot be avoided.

In the first annual report of Auditor Snow and in every report since the attention of the Mayor and Council of the city has been called to the early date when these bonds would mature, but the amount to be raised in any one year was so large that the provision was never made, every Council believing that just before these bonds matured there would be a reissue as is now proposed.

In the report of the Auditor for 1891 the following is found: "No provision has been made for the payment of $140,000 outstanding redemption bonds of 1882 maturing by limitation October 1st, 1895. An election was held in September 29th, 1891, when the question of the issue of refuding bonds was submitted and defeated. The question may be resubmitted during the present fiscal year. If again defeated the whole sum of $140,000 will have to be provided for in the tax levy of 1895-96."

AUDITOR SNOW SPEAKS.

Auditor Snow who is enthusiastically in favor of the bond issue explains what the defeat of the measure means in the following words.

"If a tax sufficient to raise $140,000 be levied this year this would increase the rate of taxation from $1.12 which has been the rate for two years, to nearly $1.50 on the $100 valuation. It is not likely that the present city government would in the face of hard times fix so large a tax levy, but it would endeavor to provide for the $140,000 by eliminating from their annual estimate of expenses every improvement and as this would not suffice, reductions would also become necessary in the equipment of the departments.

"In the event of the defeat of this bond election another serious inconvenience would arise. The outstanding bonds mature October 1st and must then be paid or the City of Oakland will be blasted under the laws of many Eastern states. Banks and insurance corporations under this law will be restrained from purchasing any bonds issued by the City of Oakland. This would result in a high rate of interest on any bonds issued hereafter. This might be avoided, but only by the borrowing of $140,000 by the city. Anticipating the income from taxes which will be paid into the treasury in November, for the re-payment of this borrowed money. Our city charter, however, does not provide for the making of temporary loans which are common with Eastern cities."

The first year's interest on the $140,000 at four per cent will be $5,600. After that it is reduced each year. The levy the first year for this purpose would be less than one and a half mills on the dollar valuation, which, added to the tax of the individual tax payer, would never be discovered during the forty years.

Whatever opposition to the bonds there might have been was supposed to be confined to the Populists or those who wear the "No Bonds" badge on the lapel of their coats This party is largely composed of the working men, men who are seeking work on public improvements. If public improvements cannot be made this year these men will be left without city work. This is now plainly seen by the laboring class and the present city government so far as it is represented by Populists earnestly advocates the issue of the bonds. Under the circumstances it is unreasonable to suppose that a vote will be polled against the measure sufficient to result in its defeat, but on the contrary the outlook is bright for the adoption of the measure.

RED HOT RESOLUTIONS.

A Citizens' Meeting Has Something to Say About the Local Water War.

There was an unusually large gathering at the City Hall Park last evening. The occasion of it being the announcement that the water company war would be under discussion. The following resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the City of Oakland for nearly a quarter of a century has unwillingly submitted to outrageous exactions and extortions of a local monopoly known as the Contra Costa Water Company, which has supplied its inhabitants with a quality of water that has upon more than one occasion been denounced as unhealthy, unwholesome and unfit generally for human consumption, and which has given forth dead fish, and has been actually black from animalism and organic matter, and

Whereas, because of being the city's only source of public water supply its management has been insolent and tyrannical in dealing with the public not only in private matters but in political affairs, it having upon the event of every municipal election dispensed large sums as a corruption fund, that its supremacy over the City Council and the people might be maintained, and

Whereas, The said Contra Costa Water Company annually sends to the municipal authorities and inflated valuation upon which its income is to be fixed and another valuation ridiculously low to the assessor upon which taxes are to be paid to the people for the privilege it enjoys in running its pipes over the bridges and through the streets of the public for which it gives no license or other monies to the public coffers as would an auctioneer or other similar business man, enjoying no special advantages except the right to support his family the best way he can, and

Whereas, Some two years ago, Mr. William J. Dingee and his associates engaged in a lawful and legitimate opposition, bringing as they did, pure, fresh and wholesome water from the artesian wells at Alvarado, and for which in the dullest period the country has ever known, the wages of good times were paid promptly and the hours of work were kept fair, and

Whereas, The presence of the said pure water of the Dingee or Oakland Water Company in the city has caused a reduction of the prices to the consumers of Oakland to within reason, where we no longer hear the cry which was once truthful, to wit: "We pay more for water than for bread!" and

Whereas, The said Oakland Water Company is now daily and nightly being hounded, harassed and hampered by the willful waste of its water by destroying its pipes, mains and admitting salt water, and by running pumps on adjacent land to the reservation of the Oakland Water Company at Alvarado, thus sending wastefully to the sea millions of gallons of pure water daily, which does no one in the world any good, and its calculation only can be to destroy the company which has been a boon and a blessing to the people of Oakland, both the poor and the rich, and which opposition company its managers declare is here to fight and to stay, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, a representative gathering of the laboring and business element of Oakland, in meeting assembled, do hereby offer to the Oakland Water Company our good will and best wishes. We commend it to the general public as a "fair institution," liberal in its charges and superb in the quality of the water it furnishes. We commend the gallant fight President Dingee is making for the people's rights and hope that as a business proposition it will come up to all of his expectations and yield him a fair profit on his investment; and be it further

Resolved, That we denounce in unmeasured terms the waste now in progress at Alavarado under the immediate direction of Superintendent Pierce and Foreman Prindall of the Contra Costa Water Company, who are endeavoring to lessen the source of the supply of the Oakland Water Company by pumping into the bay the water from wells on adjacent land. This method of contesting with opposition surpasses in indecency anything ever heard of in this line for not being able to give the pure artesian water to the people itself it would seek to deny another the right to bestow that blessing upon them, and not only this, but its purpose of forcing its opponents to terms or out of existence is so apparent that anyone who runs may read, the object of course being to restore a profit to an over bonded and then over watered stock institution, and with these corrupt conditions does not even give us pure water; and be it further

Resolved, That we believe the authorities should take some hand in the proceedings to legally prevent a continuance of the high handed outrage now in progress at Alavarado; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing be transmitted to the Enquirer, The Times, and The Tribune, said papers being mendioned in the alphabetical order, with the earnest and respectful request that publication be given to it in their columns; and be it further

Resolved, That Industry, Echoes, West Oakland Press, East Oakland Mail, and the Saturday Press be likewise requested.

GETTING A CROSS FIRE.

He Wants a Mortgage Foreclosed, but the Road Is Blocked.

Frank O'Neal holds a mortgage upon twenty-two lots in the Linden Homestead tract which was given as security for the payment of a note made to him in the sum of $3,500 in July, 1890, by ex-Attorney-General W. H. H. Hart, O'Neal brought suit against Hart to foreclose the mortgage in October of last year. He included Mary E. Burdick and a number of unknown parties as defendants. He claimed that no interest had been paid upon the note for two years. The case has dragged along in the Superior Court and O'Neal has stood between a crossfile of complaints and answers involving Mrs. Burdick, who gave a mortgage on the same property to Hart to cover a note of $500 made by her prior to the time of Hart's mortgage to O'Neal. The latter is getting tired of waiting and he has made an application to have Mrs. Burdick make an answer to Hart's cross complaint. Her demurrer has been overruled.

In affidavits made today O'Neal recites the history of the case and asks for an order compelling immediate action.

He says the property covered by the mortgage is depreciating in value daily and he is fearful that much more delay will render it unproductive, in comparison with the amount of the mortgage which he holds upon the land.

A CHANCE OF CHIEFS.

C. E. Lloyd Will Be Placed in Possession Tomorrow.

Chief of Police Schaffer was preparing today to surrender his office to C. E. Lloyd, who assumes the title of chief tomorrow. Mr. Schaffer had nothing to say on the subject further than to remark: "I hope Mr. Lloyd will come up to the expectations of those who were instrumental in placing him in the position."

Chief Schaffer retires from the office with the reputation of having made one of the best police chiefs Oakland has ever had.

AN OLD RESIDENT GOING.

S. Samuels, the Jeweler, to Soon Leave Oakland.

In the departure of S. Samuels, the well known jeweler, for Australia, Oakland will lose an old-time resident and a merchant of prominence. He has conducted for many years a jewelry business at 1011 Broadway, and has enjoyed a patronage as complimentary to his business integrity and capacity as it was deserved.

Mr. Samuels came here is 1874 with his parents and has lived here ever since.

Ill health alone, coupled with the advice of physicians has compelled Mr. Samuels to give up his profitable enterprise. He leaves in three or four weeks. Meanwhile he is forcing an arbitrary sale of his stock at auction and sales are held daily at 2 P. M. and 7:30 P. M.

FELL FROM A WINDOW.

Serious Accident to a Pupil at the Durant School.

Harry Cahill Drops Thirty Feet and Breaks His Leg.

Harry Cahill, a ten-year-old boy living at 1862 West street, fell from a second story window at the Durant school shortly after noon and sustained a fracture of the right leg.

The accident happened in a very peculiar manner. Harry had been frolicking with a companion in the school room and was being chased by the boy. To escape him the lad jumped upon the sill of the window, which was open. His foot became entangled in a curtain cord, and while endeavoring to extricate himself the boy lost his balance and fell backwards.

He gave a cry as he fell, and his companion rushed horror-stricken for help. The boy struck the ground, a distance of 30 feet from the window, and laid there helpless, moaning with pain and fear.

Assistance was at hand immediately and the unfortunate school boy was lifted tenderly out of the hot sun to await the coming of the police ambulance. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where an examination revealed that he had sustained no more serious injuries than the fracturing of his right leg.

MERCHANTS IN SESSION.

A Number of Matters That Call for Attention Handled.

At their chambers in the Central bank the directors of the Merchant's Exchange held their regular meeting. Considering the number of people who are out of town at the persent time, there was a good attendance.

The license taxing peddlers was the principal topic of discussion. A committee consisting of George W. Arper, G. B. Daniels, C. W. Kinsey, Walter Meese, Herman Gard and George L. Fish, was appointed to interview the city merchants not present for the purpose of obtaining their co-operation and assistance in their endeavors to get the City Council to pass the ordinance. They purpose to have a large delegation of merchants at the Council meeting on Monday night next to work for the taxing of the San Francisco vendors of fruit and vegetables.

The Fourth of July funds, decorations, etc., were turned over to the exchange and they accepted the custody.

A communication from the Manufacturers' and Producers' Exchange of San Francisco enclosing a letter from the California Cotton Mills was read. It asked the opinion of the Oakland Exchange on the matter enclosed from the cotton mills. The letter read: "Your favor of yesterday at hand in due course of mail. In answer to your inquiry: 'What do the mills net per pound for cotton or completed jute bags?' I would say that prices vary. On fine or closely-woven goods from 5 to 6 cents is, we should say, a fair price at present. For the lighter and well-finished class of fabrics, 4½ cents, say, for the more common or heavy class, such as hapeloth or cotton bagging.

"Take a thirteen-ounce grain sack; the price of this at present is 4¼ or 4½ cents, and it weighs never less than thirteen ounces To make this one pound of jute is required

"Again, in reply to the second question would, say that there is no mill at present in operation that we know of in this State other than San Quentin, making grain bags.

"May mention that any of us would most willingly call at your office at any time you might wish to be informed on any other points in connection with this question of prison vs. free labor.

"Trusting the above is satisfactory, we are yours truly,

AGAIN IN COMMISSION.

Taylor & Co's. Hearse Is Released From the Sheriff's Custody.

There was a merry war yesterday afternoon over a hearse in the possession of Taylor & Co., undertakers, which was claimed by Turnbull & Co., of New York.

The hearse was taken into the custody of the sheriff on a writ of replevin and was held in his care until this morning when a settlement in full was effected by Taylor & Co. with Attorney Fred Button who represented the claimants. There was due upon the vehicle and its patent adjustible drapery $249. This amount was paid over to the attorney this morning and the hearse was returned to the owners.

Attorney Button, however, claims that he was misrepresented in the manner in which he acted. He has written the following communication:

Editor Tribune: Sir: In justice to myself, please allow me space to correct a false statement, as reported in a morning paper, made by James Taylor, an undertaker, to the effect that I had attempted by legal proceedings to interfere with a funeral conducted by him. In point of fact, at the only time I met Mr. Taylor, which was shortly after noon yesterday, no funeral was in progress, no hearse was present, no mention was made of suit, attachment, or bondsmen, as I simply presented his note for payment, and served a written demand. When the papers were subsequently filed, I expressly instructed the sheriff not to make service of the papers until the hearse had returned from the cemetery, and he followed my instructions.

PAYING THE PENALTY.

A Variety of Criminal Affairs Before Judge Wood.

All Have Excuses, But the Facts Are Brought Out In Evidence.

The case of Charles Holmes proved to be a first-class minstrel show in the Police Court this morning. Judge Wood was forced into the position of interlocutor, while Mr. Holmes and "Pony" Moore, two colored men, officiated as end men.

Holmes was arrested for driving a horse unfit for work. The case was partially tried yesterday, but owing to the absence of Dr. Pierce it was postponed until today. "Pony" Moore took the stand to assist the defendant in his efforts for freedom.

"Did'en I get hay fo' dat hass ebery day?" asked the defendant.

"Dat's what you dun," said Mr. Moore.

"Enough fo' de horse to eat?" asked the court.

"More en he could eat, sah. More en," replied the witness. 'D'e morning dat hoss was arrested he"—

"The horse wasn't arrested," suggested Mr. Melvin, "it was the driver."

"Yes, sah, dat's right. Well, de morning dat he was 'rested dat hoss was a better hoss dan dey hab in dat fiah engin' house. He was"——

"Why don't you put him on the track?" asked Mr. Melvin.

"Too poah, too poah," said Mr. Moore. "I'd like to, but ain't got de money."

"Haven't you been working that horse every day?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

"What at, I like to know?" asked Mr. Moore.

"Answer my question," said Mr. Melvin.

"I jes like to know what I work him at?" said Moore.

"Answer my question and answer it directly," said Mr. Melvin. "We want no joking here."

Mr. Moore explained that he meant to tell the "truf" and nothing more, and that to the best of his knowledge the horse was worked only every other day.

Holmes asked the witness if he didn't wuk dat hoss easy in his wuk?" a question an ordinary mind might have found slightly ambiguous, but to Mr. Moore it seemed perfectly plain and he unhesitatingly answered "Yas."

Anson Barstow said that Mr. Moore had frequently been to his place of business for hay and Dr. Pierce testified that the horse could do light work.

The court thought there existed a doubt as to defendant's guilt and he was released.

HAND AND ALLMAN.

The troubles between B. Frank Hand and his landlord, John Allman, do not seem to be at an end. Yesterday Allman swore to a second complaint, charging his tenant with maliciously damaging the stable on the premises rented to him. Hand pleaded not guilty today and his trial was set for August 5th.

Appeldorn's Chowder House Gets a Big Patronage.

The Oakland Chowder House, 858 Washington street, immediately north of Seventh street, is one of the greatest successes in the business world of this city. It has been open only a few months, but it is thronged day and night, hundreds of people resorting there for both their daily meals and refreshments The Oakland Chowder House is the result of a novel idea of Charley Appeldorn, who in his way, is a philanthropist of no mean order. About two years ago, when the city was filled with unemployed people, Mr. Appeldorn was running a house at the corner of First and Franklin streets. He knew that many people were suffering for the necessaries of life and issued 100,000 meal tickets free. Within four months, 60,000 of these were presented at his place and that number of meals were given for them. Today, Mr. Appeldorn is feeding more people than any retaurant in Oakland. He is feeding them at the lowest rates, too, because the meals are the concomitants of any drink ordered over the bar. Mr. Appeldorn sells every kind of good, wholesome California wines for five cents a glass, a bottle of steam beer for ten cents. This beer is as sharp as a razor and Appeldorn's is the only place where bottled steam been may be had. The place is kept open from 5 A. M. to midnight and during these hours every body is welcome.

ACCORDEON PLEATING.

A New Industry Introduced Into Oakland.

Miss Alice Gray has opened an accordion pleating establishment at 505 8th street, where she is prepared to do every description of work in her unique line. She is a competent artiste, and her store is the only one of its kind in this city. She does work for the leading stores of Oakland that heretofore sent their orders to the city, and thus the flight of many useful dollars from Oakland is restrained. Miss Gray's prices are reasonable as may be judged from the following partial price list which she has issued:

Ladies' skirts, $2.
Children's skirts, $1.

WAITING FOR THE ROLLS.

Assessor Dalton Resting Before the Big Legal Battle.

County Assessor Dalton is resting on his oars. He took lunch today with County Clerk Jordan and discussed the matter of when the assessment rolls would be turned over to Auditor Myron Whidden upon whom will fall the duty of extending the tax figures.

Until Auditor Whidden gets possession of the books, Dalton will be unable to make a move. The County Clerk has the changes in the rolls ordered by the County Board of Equalization nearly completed. He expects to be able to turn over the books today.

Dalton was questioned regarding the condition. He said: "There is nothing new to say. We are simply awaiting developments. Nothing can be done until the rolls leave Jordan's possession."

ALLEN TO BE PAROLED.

He Is to Be Pardoned if He Can Convict Holmes.

The Police Officials Attach Little Faith to His Story.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Arrangements were completed today for taking the testimony of John C. Allen, the Little Rock, Arkansas, convict, who is expected to convict H. H. Holmes of murder.

Attorney William Capps of Fort Worth, Texas, who represents the heirs of the Williams girls and discovered Allen's alleged connection with Holmes, will leave for Little Rock tonight with a promise of immunity for the convict, providing his story convicts Holmes.

Allen will be released on parole.

Chief of Police Badenoch is not particularly enthusiastic over the Little Rock end of the investigation.

"Allen may be able to convict Holmes," said the chief, "but I do not regard it as certain."

Attorney Capps declared his statements regarding the convict have been exaggerated.

"I am not certain this man can convict Holmes," he said. "I am hopeful, however, and will go to Little Rock to investigate."

Chief Badenoch, Inspector Fitzpatrick, and Attorney Capp today subjected Pat Quinlan and wife to severe examination. After two hours with the prisoners the officials announced nothing new had developed.

It was evident, however, that the consultation resulted in a change of programme, for Attorney Capps said he might defer the Little Rock trip several days.

It is believed Quinlan has given important information regarding the Arkansas convict but its nature was carefully suppressed.

MUST SETTLE THE BILL.

The Judsons Win the Fight With the Giant Powder Company.

Judge Ellsworth's Decision Is Sustained on the Appeal.

The Judsons have finally won their big suit against the Giant Powder Company growing out of the great explosion of dynamite at Fleming's Point on the 9th of July, 1892. This was the biggest disaster of its kind which ever occurred in the county or among the long string of powder works reaching along the shores of the bay from the Point to Pinole. There were several hundred tons of dynamite besides other explosives descharged in that blow up. Many buildings were wrecked and the plants of the Judson and the Giant works were blown to atoms. The loss of life was heavy and great damage was done to property for miles around.

Numerous claims for damages were filed against the Giant Company after the explosion. The Judson Company went further than any, however, and brought suit in the Superior Court to recover $80,000 damages. The case was decided by Judge Ellsyorth in January of last year in favor of the Judsons and a judgment to the amount of $40,-164.75 was given them.

The Giant Company carried the case on appeal to the Supreme Court, which returned a remittitur today affirming the judgment of the lower court in the amount named.

The suit was originally brought by J. L. N. Shepard and Egbert Judson. The latter died during the progress of the case and his executors, Charles C. and Henry C. Judson, were substituted.

The complaint in the suit charged that the Giant Company had been negligent in the manner in which dynamite had been stored in insecure buildings. It was also claimed that the magazines of the Giant Company had been built so closely together that they were hazardous in the event of accidents.

In reciting the amount of damage which was inflicted to their property by reason of the explosion, the Judson Company enumerated among other things destroyed their acid, sulphur and nitrate works, together with 400,000 pounds of dynamite. Their plant was practically wiped out. The decision laid the liability for the damage done upon the Giant Company.

COSTLY AND CUMBERSOME

A New System Needed for Examining Mineral Lands.

At the Present Rate It Will Cost About Three Million Dollars.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The work thus far done under the law passed by the last Congress for the examination and classification of mineral lands in the grant of the Northern Pacific in Montana and Idaho has shown that the method is far from satisfactory and that some other plan will have to be adopted.

The law contemplated that the examinations were to be finished in two years, but it has been figured out that in the small district of Montana, that of Bozeman, that if three commissioners should each mount a horse every morning and ride directly through the lands to be examined at the rate of twenty miles a day it would take them three years merely to ride across the land and they would then be able to see only a little strip on either side of them, leaving a strip unseen on each side nearly a half mile wide.

They could not make the examination with any accuracy whatever and their work would be far from complete.

It has also been shown that the examinations thus far made have cost the government 25 cents an acre.

There are 12,000,000 acres to examine, and the total cost is thus figured at $3,000,000, though this is said to be a low estimate, because the process is much slower where disputes arise and where testimony has to be taken.

Besides the examinations thus far made are in the agricultural regions where there is little question of the quality of the lands.

It is also said that the machinery and methods of procedure is cumbersome and unsatisfactory.

Commissioner Lamoreaux says the method being adopted with lands of other roads seems to be a much better one.

In a mineral country the land office before patenting lands to the railroad companies advertise the intention of such patenting, withholding for sixty days all lands within six miles of a known mineral claim and inviting protests to passing to patent lands which are supposed to be mineral.

If a protest is made the land covered is withheld until an examination is made.

Considerable controversy arose between the department and the Southern Pacific railroad before this regulation was made.

The Southern Pacific controls and owns nearly all the grants in the West which are valuable for minerals, this being the case of the old grants to the California and Oregon and Oregon and California companies.

The people along these roads represented to the department that the Southern Pacific was making efforts to rush its lands to patent, thus closing out all possibility of further effort to secure the mineral lands by prospectors.

The patents which were about to issue were withheld until the regulations were made, not, however, without a protest from the Southern Pacific Company, which insisted that ample opportunity had been given prospectors to locate mineral claims if they desired.

The department issued the order and the settlers and prospectors along the line of road are now given an opportunity to make an examination of the lands and have their attention called to the fact that certain mineral claims have heretofore been located and for sixty days they may prospect within six miles of the claim and any land that is thought by the prospectors to be mineral is exempted when the patent passes for adjoining lands.

The protests have resulted in holding up lands which if once passed to patent might be found to be very valuable in possession of the company and if mineral was discovered after patent was issued it would not affect the title of the company.

The Best Kind of Steed.

Everybody cannot afford to keep a horse because the care the animal requires, the expense of providing it with feed and veterinary attendance is quite a heavy tax upon the average income. But every person can afford to have a bicycle, especially at the rates at which a wheel may be had at the Central Cyclery in Central Bank building, opposite the Macdonough theater on Fourteenth street. B. C. Lund, the manager, has done more than any other man in the business to bring about this change. He has sold hundreds of bicycles of the Cleveland, Ben Hur and Tribune patterns at the lowest rates. He is ready to sell anything and do any kind of work required on the bicycle.

WEDNESDAY..........JULY 31, 1895.

The news that Japan is preparing for war with Russia does not come from the right quarter. It purports to come from the fishing ground of the President through Secretary Lamont by way of Philadelphia. Why the Press of that city should have the news in advance is itself a fishy circumstance. No doubt Japan is strengthening all her military and naval resources. After having fought many battles it is natural that all the reserves should be strengthened. The war spirit may be very much inflamed without making any open issue with Russia. At present the latter is simply demanding that Japan shall strictly observe treaty stipulations, with power enough in reserve to enforce them.

Hawaii wants to unload its Japanese because they are incapable of becoming citizens. It is not in evidence that they have any strong desire to become citizens of that republic. But the question of right has already been raised. Dr. Gedge, who is a supporter of the present government, testified that the Japanese have been more hurtful to the whites in the Islands than the Chinese. "They import everything from Japan, and with the double advantage of cheap goods and knowledge of our ways they manage to supplant the white traders." The Japanese introduced in Hawaii as laborers do what the Chinese have done under similar circumstances. They will seek every avenue of trade as soon as possible. When the business is overdone they will look for chances somewhere else. It is mantained by sugar planters that there are no more Japanese than would be needed in Hawaii, provided they would work on these plantations. Hawaii is constantly searching for foreign laborers, especially Portuguese, to take the place of Chinese and Japanese.

A Little Wholesome Criticism.

The High school of Oakland is housed in one of the best educational buildings in the State. It has a capacity for 800 pupils, probably not less than 700 will be in attendance during the term that has just opened. The structure has a plain, solid exterior, going well with the plain and solid education that is to be given inside. Now the whole spirit of the public school is, or should be, directly away from caste. Of late there has been observed such a strong tendency to overdress on the part of a large number of girls attending the High school as to provoke not a little quiet criticism. The school is not a dress circle, nor a place to wear fine clothes and for the display of jewelry.

The dress of every girl attending school ought to be so plain as to attract no attention. It is not a place to cultivate social pride and a love of fine clothes. Finery and furbelows are wholly out of place. The rich and the poor meet together. The democratic spirit, or that which thrusts caste out of sight, ought to be the spirit that is cultivated there. Every girl who appears in school overdressed, as if to go to a party, ought to be quietly admonished touching such an impropriety. If that will not suffice, let there be a public admonition given by the teachers.

Some pupils whose parents are in more than comfortable circumstances insist that their children shall attend school in plain clothing, without any ornaments. That is the right spirit. But there have been instances where these pupils met with an unfavorable discrimination on the part of others who were rigged out in something resembling party dresses. That is the very spirit of caste. It is as clearly in the line of a sound public school education to teach these erring children better ways as it is to teach mathematics and good English composition. A failure to correct this wrong tendency, both by precept and example, would be a failure in one of the most important duties of public instruction. The schools should never be turned into a dress circle.

The New Feminine Clubs.

It is worthy of mention that nearly all the women's clubs that have been organized within the last two or three years have been devoted to some department of education. None of these organizations have been convivial, nor have they been placed on a merely social basis. In this they differ from most of the clubs organized by men. With few exceptions the social feature of the latter is the most important. The members are intent on having good cheer. There is a certain degree of fellowship. They are asylums for men who find them better places than their homes. They tire of domestic life, or perhaps never had any. They must go somewhere, and the club is the best place that is accessible. There a few organizations on a higher basis, where literary tastes are cultivated and scholars meet scholars, caring nothing for the social side, but much for the opportunities to learn what is best in the guilds of letters and philosophy.

Women's clubs have no sensuous features. They are devoted to art, literature, the domestic life and reforms. The congress of women that recently assembled in San Francisco was largely the product of these clubs. They were in touch with schemes of philanthropy, and with all the betterments that affect domestic life. These organizations are rapidly multiplying. In the talk of the day the "new woman" has come to the front in these clubs. Some of them deal with political and social reforms, others with questions of domestic economy, the art of living, systems of public education and the new fields of activity that are opening for women. If any one is inclined to doubt the utility of such organizations, or to rate them below the clubs sustained by men, it only needs a comparison of purpose and influence.

One will search in vain for a women's club that is not organized for some beneficent purpose. This power of organization is just beginning to be recognized. All the social clubs that men have formed in the country would not furnish the material for one good congress. The buffet, the card table and the good dinner bound the aims of many of these organizations. They are places of refuge to some extent for men who are tired of domestic life, or, what is worse, never had any. Let those who are disposed to rail at women's clubs rate the direction of all this activity in comparison with all the barrenness of results that prevails in most of the clubs that are maintained by men.

About Local Fads.

This city has long been distinguished for the hospitable entertainment of all sorts of new and old ideas. This tendency sometimes provokes unfavorable criticism. Every shade of orthodox and heterodox religion is represented; and nearly every theory of public and private education that is new or old in the world finds advocates This tendency is on the whole far better than a sluggish inactivity and deadness of surface, over which there is never a breeze to make a ripple. The speculative mind is better than no mind at all. Tolerance of belief is far better than intolerance.

It does not follow that because people give a hospitable reception to many fads and speculative theories that the majority are inclined to adopt them. It argues rather a degree of independence, of open-mindedness. If the thing is good, it may be welcomed at the front door. If it is not good, it may be dismissed at the back door. The prominence given to the entertainment of fads and all manner of speculations is more apparent at first view than real. The tendency in that direction is probably not stronger than in other cities of equal population and culture. But the city is just large enough to enable one to group all these speculative tendencies, as it were, under a single observation. Nothing is concealed. There is a degree of independence that cares little for ordinary criticism. Many of these speculations are finally run to the ground or become obsolete, and new ones are taken up.

Most independent thinkers do not care one copper whether they are held to be orthodox or heterodox, because these standards are continually changing and have now come to mean very little. Some of the most notable educators of the day have been assailed because in thought and teaching they have been quite independent of any arbitrary rules, the reason for which had long since become obsolete. On the whole, this intellectual and religious hospitality is not a bad thing for a community. There has been a time when there was a great lack of these characteristics. Those were not by any means the best days for society. Alertness, openness of mind and earnest inquiry are always better than stagnation.

A Question of Assessments.

The section of the city charter as originally drawn provided for a city assessor to assess all property within the limits of the city. At the instance of one member of the charter convention a supplementary section was added providing that the city assessor should obtain a copy of the county assessment, adopting it as the basis of his own. The economical consideration finally prevailed. Except as to pieces of property that might have been omitted the city has had no assessments made by its own officer since the charter took effect.

The validity of this method of levying taxes on assessments that had not been made by any municipal officer has never been called in question by the courts. But the legality of this method has been doubted. The basis of all taxes is an assessment. If none is made then it is clear that no tax could be laid. If the city could commit the work of making an assessment to a county officer, why could it not commit the work of levying municipal taxes to the County Board of Supervisors? These are some of the questions that have recently been raised touching municipal assessments. If a taxpayer were to refuse to pay his city taxes on the ground that no valid assessment had ever been made, the issue would squarely be met. Can the city delegate the power of making assessments to any other than its own elected officer? And is his purchase of a copy of the roll of the County Assessor and approval of the same an assessment within the meaning of the law? We do not undertake to decide that there is anything irregular in such a proceeding. The plan was adopted on the score of economy. One assessment would do for the city and county. The question has already been raised as to what are really the duties of the City Assessor.

Refunding City Bonds.

The question of refunding $140,000 of municipal bonds about to fall due, will be submitted to a vote of citizens at an election called for the 31st of August. These bonds can now be replaced to the best advantage. It is simply a matter of business Nothing will be added to the debt of the city by issuing new bonds for old ones. These will become due on October 1st. There is only one way in which the city can take up these bonds without injury to other interests.

When the proposition was before the people on another occasion it met with defeat because it was not fairly understood. It was not a proposition to issue more bonds, but to replace some that were already falling due. If they are not replaced by a vote of citizens, then they must be redeemed out of the taxes accruing this present year. These taxes will not be available until long after the bonds fall due. There is not the least necessity for any default as there would be if they were to be taken up by the tax receipts of the present year. If $140,000 are taken out of the revenues of the present year, every department will be crippled; schools will suffer, streets will go unwatered and general improvements will be suspended.

Business men can hardly fail to look at this proposition in a business light. That is the only one that ought to receive any consideration. What ought to be done in the premises? The bonds must be taken up. What is the best way? Shall they be refunded without dertiment to any interest of the city, or shall they be redeemed out of the taxes of this present year, to the detriment of nearly every municipal interest? There ought not to be any question as to which of these two plans is the best.

Now here is a substantial victory for the bicycle folks. A Massachusetts judge has decided that a bicycle is a vehicle, and is entitled to the same privileges on the public highways as wagons and carriages. In the case in point, the owner of the bicycle was awarded damages in the sum of $25 against a teamster who ran into the wheelman, who was riding on the extreme right of the road. The court held that the defendant was liable because he was driving on the left side of the highway. The bicycle will be protected as long as it keeps its place, and will be called down whenever it gets gay.

The city of Peoria is not as large as Oakland. But this is said of it by a Western journal: "Peoria, in Illinois, is spending right now $400,000 for parks and boulevards, and proposes to expend $600,000, and secure, among other things, a beautiful park of 700 acres. Peoria has profited by the object lesson presented by Chicago, and has manifested a belief in the maxim that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well, with the additional proviso that it is worth doing at once."

Whenever the government wants the most trustworthy baking powder and the best in quality it prefers the Royal, as this brand was found to be superior to all others in leavening power by the official chemical tests, made at the instance of the government, in the Agricultural Department at Washington.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Unlike most other boys of his age, the German crown prince is allowed no pocket money.

An ibex was killed in the Superstition Mountains, Maricopa county, Ariz., recently. It is said that only two others of these animals have ever been killed in the United States. They were found in Oregon.

Jersey's cranberry crop promises to be exceptionally large and good this year. The berries were late in forming, but it looks now as though the yield would equal the enormous crop of 1893, which was the largest ever known.

Detroit has a street-car fender—one fender, not a style of fender—which beats that boasted of by Philadelphia, which the other day picked up a bicyclist and his machine and carried them uninjured for half a block. The Detroit car struck a horse on Warren avenue last Sunday. The horse was scooped off its feet and fell into the fender, and was carried along in it for two or three hundred feet until the car was stopped. Then the horse got up, stepped off, and trotted away uninjured.

About 100 years ago it was recorded that when Samuel Johnson visited Scotland he made some sarcastic remarks on the then prevalent lack of trees in that country. Scotsmen were never slow to take a hint, and today, Scotland is perhaps better furnished in the plantation of trees than any other country in the world.

That old joke about ex-President Harrison being used at summer resorts to keep the temperature up to a certain point of frigidity is being hauled down and dusted off once more by the enterprising and resourceful country editor.

Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, widow of the famous preacher, does not wear black or any other emblem of mourning. Her demeanor is cheerful.

The Duke de Morny, it is said, has spent $60,000 in fitting up a wandering photograph studio, and proposes to take 1,000,000 photographs in a few weeks.

Having succeeded with "Bessie Costrell," Mrs. Humphrey Ward falls readily into the ranks of the serial novelists. She has a long novel pledged for the Century next year.

The orange and lemon are both said to be fatal to the cholera bacillus. Placed in contact with the cut surface of the fruit the bacteria survive but a few hours.

A new society, which has for one of its cardinal principles the belief in the possession by animals of a soul and in the immortality of that soul and its activity in a future state, is being organized in Baltimore for the protection of animals from cruelty and ill treatment. It is to be called the Henry Bergh Society. The organizers are women, but both sexes will be eligible to membership.

Neill, or Cream, the poisoner, who was executed in England three years ago, according to a recent statement of the chaplain of Holloway prison, had murdered beyond a doubt no less than thirty-five women. He was the most proficient Bible student ever admitted to the jail, being able to repeat half the Bible from memory.

Queen Christina of Spain has lost the legacy left to her by Don Alexandro Soler by a strange technicality. The Spanish law requires that all holograph wills shall be written on stamped paper of the curent year; Senor Soler wrote his in 1895, on paper stamped in 1894. The State officials have thrown the will out on this ground, and, as he was a foundling, and had no legal heirs, his fortune goes to the Treasury.

John J. Ingalls has lost a farm. He owned one near Kickapoo, and recently had a chance to dispose of it. He took the buyer down to see it, expatiating upon its desirable qualities, and when he got there he couldn't find the farm. It had been washed into the river five years ago. And all during that five years he had been paying taxes on it.—Kansas City Times.

Stambuloff took exercise in only one form, swimming, and in this he excelled. He was a man of great personal bravery, and yet, for precaution's sake he kept a loaded rifle in his study. The chief ornament of this room was a stuffed owl. Physically he was a short, thick-set man, with a deep chest, broad shoulders, and brilliant black eyes. Three years in a theological seminary, from which he ran away, gave him his only schooling.

The Countess of Munster tells an interesting story in the current number of the Strand Magazine. A person of her own sex and age became infatuated with her for a while and afterwards died. At midnight a short time after her decease, and while the Countess was lying awake in bed, the spirit of her dead friend appeared before her, dressed as in life, and with a smile on her face. The Countess carried on an interesting monologue with her, and asked her various questions about her changed conditions of life, but received no answer, though the weird visitor continued to smile at her. As soon as the Countess stopped talking the apparation disappeared.

The little King of Spain is riding a bicycle, a suitable exercise, by the way, for a lad who is expected by and by to hold down a throne.

The greater part of the cast-off uniforms of the British army find their way into the shops of dealers in second-hand clothing. The coats are either then cut up, sold to theatrical managers or advertising agents, or else exported to Africa and elsewhere, for trading purposes with the Kaffirs and other uncivilized people.

Cy. Warman, author of "Sweet Marie," is now connected with McClure's Magazine. He says that 300,000 copies of his song were sold in the first six months after its publication.

Los Angeles people don't like Beatrice Harradan. She is too brusque in her manner to suit them. She is like the late Matthew Arnold, who, while at the table of an American hostess, remarked to his daughter, quite audibly: "This tea is nasty; Americans can't make good tea. I wonder why it is?"

Jonah has now been corroborated in part. A basalt stele found by Father Schell in the Archaeological Museum at Constantinople, has on it an Assyrian inscription of King Nabonod of the sixth century before Christ, telling of the destruction of Nineveh, an event hitherto found on no monument. But there is no record of the whale story.

It surprised many of the Western delegates to the Baptist Convention in Baltimore to learn that the crab, when alive, is not red. They were also touched with pity for the crustaceans when they beheld them cast into pots of boiling water. "That's mighty cruel," said one of the delegates. "Why don't they kill them first?" Out our way we would not think of being so cruel as to cook anything alive."

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Livermore, San Leandro, Haywards, Alameda, Oakland and San Francisco are all using every means in their power to induce the board of regents to locate the Wilmerding mechanical school in one of those places. Berkeley is sitting with folded hands doing nothing, apparently willing to let the plum slip out of its grasp. There is no doubt but that Mr. Wilmerding intended that the school should be located in Berkeley, and he never thought that it was necessary to insert the clause that "it should be located in Berkeley," or he would have done so. The University has a very large tract of land in Berkeley, and ample room for the erection of the building necessary for the Wilmerding school. Thus it will be seen that a large amount of money will be saved in this way. Again, it is not customary to scatter a State University all over the State. It may be right to have the medical and law colleges in San Francisco on account of the hospitals and the libraries, but we doubt it, as Berkeley is close enough to San Francisco for students to visit the hospitals, and the law library should be located right in Berkeley. When the State built its first building in Berkeley it was intended that the university for all time to come would be located in Berkeley. The regents, however, who seem to be all powerful, have, during the last few years, been inclined to have portions of the University scattered about Oakland or San Francisco. This is unjust to Berkeley, which has to live under the restrictions provided for the University by the State, and the University in part is taken away from it. No university will ever prosper or amount to much unless it is one institution under one management. At the present time Professor Kellogg is supposed to be the President of the State University and to have charge and supervision of all its branches. How in the name of common sense, we ask, can he do justice to himself or the students or professors if he has to chase over to the Hastings Law College or the Toland Medical College in San Francisco, and then by way of a little exercise go to Haywards or San Leandro to look after the mechanical school, and then get back to Berkeley to look after the different halls of learning here? President Kellogg is not a young man, and even if he were he could not do it, consequently the efficiency of the University is impaired. The people of Berkeley should urge upon the Regents the necessity of locating the Wilmerding school here, and should also have a bill framed and passed at the next Legislature which in future would compel all buildings or branches to be erected and maintained in Berkeley.—Berkeley Gazette.

An item which appeared in the Mail yesterday stating that Oakland capitalists had bonded 540 feet of water frontage here created a deal of speculation The price, as the item specified, was $27,000, and this fact shows that back of the deal there is a scheme of considerable importance. The water frontage bonded is in two pieces, the one belonging to T. H. Compton and the other to Devendorf & Wilholt. The former piece is situated on the north side of Stockton channel west of West street, and the latter on the point of land between Stockton and Mormon channels at their junction. The Corral Hollow Railroad Company has already obtained what property it wants for terminal purposes, and consequently it it is not at all likely that it is back of yesterday's deal. There has been talk lately of establishing two new industries—a tannery and a jute mill, the latter to be removed from Oakland. Mr. Compton himself is interested in the tannery project, and as he owns a portion of the land bonded, it is not likely that the Oakland investors are interested in the tannery project. One of the owners of the other tract states that the jute mill people are not in the deal as far as he knows, and hence it is supposed that some enterprise not as yet heard of here is in the wind. The secret will not be made public until next week, when the parties who have bonded the property, and who have gone back to Oakland, will return and consummate the purchase.—Stockton Mail.

It is said that the Electric people are behind the refusal of the Paving Company to fulfill their Webster street contract. Perhaps that accounts also for the miserable condition of the roadway to Oakland. Even the Commissioners of the Bureau of Highways pronounced it disgraceful.—Alameda Criterion.

Lawyers are not happy unless they can revel in technicalities, witness a demurrer in an Oakland case on the ground that "it cannot be ascertained from the complaint how much of the alleged services or what part of the alleged value was for work as attorney and what part for work as counselor-at-law." In other words the complaint was not specific enough to note the difference between twiddle-dum and twiddle-dee.—Alameda Telegram.

A conflict of opinion exists as to the advisability of high assessments. The county of Alameda will pay more in proportion of State taxes than other counties. This is not to say that Dalton is wrong. Alameda county ratepayers, however, grumble at the unequal payments.—Alameda Telegram.

Assessor Dalton, it is now said, will file the necessary papers in a mandamus suit today, in which he will demand an overhauling of all the evidence connected with what he claims to have been an illegal extension of time granted to the Board of County Supervisors, sitting as a Board of Equalization. He believes he can show that every act in connection with said extension was illegal, for the reason that the State Board of Equalization held no meeting at which said extension of time was granted. Should the county assessor win, the result would be either that the original assessments will stand or that a long continued legal controversy will be entered into, the end of which no man can foretell. We are sorry to see this issue raised, and yet we cannot blame Assessor Dalton for trying to right what he believes to have been an illegal act.—Alameda Encinal.

Electric Light and Candles.

The Russians will not allow gas or electric lights in their splendid churches, but by the use of thousands of candles produce a most brilliant, yet agreeable light. Prof. Crookes, the scientist, says that "if the electric light were universal today, the candle, if suddenly introduced, would be thought a wonderful invention, as it enables a person to obtain light in its simplest and most portable form, and without the use of cumbrous machinery, or the necessity of attaching a lamp to any fixed point by means of wire before it could be lighted." The desired portable electric light has not yet arrived. An inventor of our acquaintance has long been experimenting upon it, but has not yet reduced its weight below twenty pounds. The tribute to the best sperm candle is deserved. The softness and clearness of the light are delightful to the eye. The candle's dignity, like that of the horse, remains; for as the mightiest steam and electric engines are estimated in "horse-power," so the unit of measurement for gas lights, the powerful Welsbach light, and the electric light is "candle-power."—New Christian Advocate.

Wanted to See the Mayor.

Mayor Strong was out of the city, but the flag was flying at the City Hall masthead, when a big, tall fellow, evidently connected with some sort of a Wild West troupe, stalked into the office and tackled the first clerk in sight.

"I want to see the Mayor of this here town," he said, in a tone indicating that he meant it

"You can't sir," replied the clerk, in a mild, reformatory manner.

"Why can't I" Ain't this a free country?"

"Yes, sir; but you can't see him because he isn't in."

"He ain't? and he seemed surprised.

"No, sir."

"Why ain't he?"

"Because he is out," responded the clerk with a laugh.

"None of yer monkey business with me, young chap," warned the caller, "Ain't that flag flyin' from the roof?"

"Yes, sir."

"And don't that mean that he is in?"

"Well-er-er-yes-er-er," hesitated the clerk.

"Stop right where you are," commanded the Wild Wester. "By gravy, I'm goin' to find out about this. I ain't objectin' to a man holdin' a government job lyin' some on his own hook, but, by thunder, I'm dead ag'in any man, I don't care a d—— who he is, lettin' the glorious old Star-Spangled banner do his lyin' fer him. It's ag'in the constitution and the by-laws, and, you bet, I'm goin' to set right down here and have it out with the Mayor if it takes a leg. You hear me. Jist go ahead calkilatin' up yer figgers What I'm here fer ain't none of your business," and, with a look of supreme disdain at the insignificant clerk, he bit a horseshoe out of a plug of black navy and sat down.—New York Sun.

When Coal Was a Wicked Innovation.

When coal was first introduced into London as a fuel very serious objection was taken to its use. In the beginning of the fourteenth century the brewers and smiths of the city, finding the high price of wood pressing hardly upon their returns, resolved to experiment with coal; but immediately an outcry was raised against them by persons living near the breweries and forges, the king was petitioned, and a law passed prohibiting the burning of coal within the city. Those who tried it, however, found the new fuel so much superior to wood that they persisted in its use But so determined was the government to suppress what was thought to be an intolerable nuisance that a law was passed making the burning of coal a capital offense, and at least one man was executed under that law. The ladies were bitterly opposed to the use of coal for domestic purposes. They considered the smoke to be ruinous to their complexions and would not attend parties at houses at which the objectionable fuel was used. Some persons would not eat food of any kind that had been cooked on a coal fire.—Churchman.

An Up-to-Date Dinner.

Though the artistic spreading of the table has much to do with the esthetic enjoyment of it, the success of the dinner from the guests' point of view will not depend upon that, nor will it entirely depend upon the skill displayed in the cuisine. A dinner, to be successful, must have every item of the menu clearly thought out before hand, for on the selection and arrangement of the dishes—happy or otherwise—will depend not only on the character of the dinner but the comfort of the guests and the harmonious working of the staff. Occasionally, for instance, one rises from a table apparently perfect in its artistic arrangements, and every dish sent up to which was most excellent or its kind, with only a sense of failure as the result, simply and solely because of the "waits" that occurred all too frequently, making gaps in the continuity of the meal that taxed every effort at conversation to bridge over.—London Queen.

The filling up of the Euphrates valley and consequent depopulation of Babylon and Nineveh, as also the creation of the Theban desert, owing to the filling up of a portion of the Valley of the Nile, were due to identical causes with those so opportunely checked by the planting of trees on the shores of the Baltic.

Cycling Continues to Hold the Tophand Among the Athletes.

THE WHOLE WORLD'S AWHEEL.

Reliance Men Are Preparing for the Football Season.

TENNIS BEGINS TO BOOM.

The Y. M. C. A. Intends to Give a Fine Field Day.

The Reliance Club has completed the preparatory organization of this year's football team which will visit the East.

The Acme Club has a long list of wheeling events in prospect.

President Brittan of the Alameda County Good Roads Association discusses some of its features

The Lakeside Tennis Club is preparing for a big invitation tournament to be held in two weeks

The Y. M. C. A. wheeling annex has an attractive programme of club runs in view. The field day of the Oakland and San Francisco associations will take place on Saturday next.

THE UMPIRE.

Things are beginning to stir in some of our sister cities. Stockton has become aroused again and the very clever athletic association of the valley road city, I am pleased to record, has decidede to give baseball some encouragement. At a recent meeting of the directors of the club a proposition to form a triangular football and baseball league was mooted. The proposed organization would include the Stockton club with the Reliance club of this city and the Olympic of San Francisco The Reliance has a strong football team ready for this season's play, and its old baseball organization was not a back number by any manner of means Communications upon the subject will be made at once among the various clubs.

* * *

Speaking of baseball and the organization of a league, that censor of sports, Colonel J. California Ewing, comes to the front again and suggests that the league be formed "There is nothing like sport," said Cal "While I am a wheeling enthusiast just now my range of vision is broad enough to include all the diversions requiring the exercise of quick muscular and mental effort. Baseball is of course the great American game and I believe it should be fostered and encouraged I shall do all that lays within my power to encourage the idea of a league such as this plan of the Stockton club contemplates. It seems to me that there should be a diversification of sports There is need of more variety. The muscles of the human frame cannot be properly developed if only one or two sets are kept in action That would result in abnormal developments Baseball as an all-round sport is excellent. It allows the whole body to come into play and gives all a chance to improve under the vigorous exercise"

* * *

But to digress. The veterans of the base ball business are slowly taking their seats on the benches. I learn that Roger Connor of St Louis has quit. He was one of the greatest first basemen who ever covered the initial bag Anson is still playing, but under difficulties, as a broken rib interferes with his work. Some of the great names are slowly fading away and we look forward with much interest to the coming men. I do not think California will be far behind when the new league teams are formed next season.

Our old friend Sammy Dungan is in a peck of trouble. His family physician is after his scalp as a co-respondent in a divorce suit which the doctor is said to be about to institute against his wife Dunny says it is all nonsense, and denies all knowledge of the affair. The story goes that the doctor found Dungan a very pleasant fellow and introduced him to his wife. The doctor now declares that his servants have told stories to him which will go into the divorce bill.

Some of the cranks have been discussing the right of the umpire with regard to fining on the field. The argument is made that the fining system is the best that ever was devised to keep unruly players in check. This is the way one prominent baseball authority speaks on the subject: "There is a marked contrast between the conduct on the field this year to what it was last season. The establishing of new quotations on cuss words, back talk, sulking, etc., etc., has had the effect of sweet music on the players, in that it 'soothes the savage breast' and brings the gentler and sweeter nature of the players to the surface, who give the 'Get thee behind me, Satan' gag to their bitterest expression, adding as they do so, 'If you don't it will cost me twenty-five.' Some of the men whose tough antics last season disgusted spectators and kept many away from the games are the meekest individuals on earth this year, because of the high value placed on their remarks by the umpire. The majority of players, however, continue to pursue the same course as they have always followed. Their nature is not of the tough kind, and no fines, however large or small, in the least interfere with their peace of mind. They play the game, and if they have a kick coming they put it in the shape of a mild protest, which is more effective and less costly than a boisterous intimidation."

* * *

The old Californians, it gives me pleasure to state, are in evidence as usual.

Charlie Irwin has established himself with the St. Paul people in splendid style. "As a short stop," says an Eastern critic, "he is a perfect jewel. You can't make us believe another man ever traveled the bases so fast. He plays a star part in every game." He is also strong with the stick and in fact for an all round player we will always put our little pile on Irwin."

The Sporting News prints a fine photograph reproduction of Henry Spies' manly phiz, and adds a few words of very favorable comment. Here is an extract: "Henry Spies (pronounced Spees), whose release was recently purchased from the Cincinnati club, of the National League and American Association, by the officials of the Louisville club, of the same league, is one of those honest plodders who play methodically, and are always ready and willing to go in and do their best to win, no matter what position they are called upon to fill."

Of Spies' California record, it is said: "In 1891 he went to California and became a member of the Sacramento club, of the California League, taking part that year in one hundred and twenty-six championship games in ohne hundered and six of which he filled the position as catcher, and ranked first in the official fielding averages of that league. He also stood high in the official batting averages. He remained on the Pacific slope during the seasons of 1892 and 1893, playing with the California League clubs. In the fall of the latter year he returned to his home in New Orleans and in the spring of 1894 joined the Grand Rapids club, of the Western League, taking part last year in one hundred and thirty-three championship games as a catcher, ranking first in the official fielding averages of that league He also stood well up as a batsman At the close of the season he returned to the Golden State, and was married to a charming young lady of Stockton, Cal."

McCauley is playing a fine first base game with Milwaukee, but the experts say he "is shy at the bat"

Parrott will quit the box and go to the out field. He says his pitching days are over

E. Athlete O'Brien, the well known local expert on baseball received the following advices from Omaha yesterday

"Omaha is minus a ball team and the boys who represented this city are wearing uniforms labeled Denver The management did its best to stay in Omaha, making all kinds of concessions, but it was no go and the club would pay fine games before rows of empty benches, the box office receipts not being sufficient to settle the guarantee to the visiting team Of course this couldn't last and President Kent was sent for and told that it was hopeless to think of playing out the season here. He was informed that the management had good offers from Denver and knew it could quit the season without any deficit by going to that city and was given the option of having the team disbanded or moved to the Colorado town Kent, of course, accepted the latter proposition."

THE UMPIRE.

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETES.

Cycling Is the Feature Among the Boys.

The Y. M. C A athletes are taking a great deal of interest in wheeling now, while basket ball too, is beginning to attract attention. Last Thursday evening they held a quarter-mile dash and half-mile handicap bicycle race at the Trotting Park Quite a crowd went to witness the races, as it was understood that some good time and close finishes would be made In the quarter dash B H. Elford barely beat E. C Brown in 38 seconds The half-mile was even closer Owing to the wind fast time was impossible, but the race was quite exciting O R. Kertz with 60 yards won from E C Brown in 1 09. Brown's time was about 1 10

Last Friday the boys had a great run to Piedmont It was announced that no fast riding was to be allowed Consequently when several men rode ahead of Captain Calhoun they were promptly called back and fined. The return was by Lake Merritt. On reaching the club house light refreshments were served before the riders departed for their homes.

Friday, Aug. 2nd a moonlight ride to Berkeley will be made The pace will be very slow, so that the ladies who are to accompany will not be fatigued. On returning to the club house a more sumptuous repast than that of last week will be served

Saturday the field day between the Central Y M C A of San Francisco, the Twentieth street branch, and Oakland Y. M C. A. takes place at the Twentieth street track in San Francisco E. West, Frank Boek, the boy smuggler, and Ed Lynch will represent the Oakland branch and will doubtless make a good showing.

TENNIS TOPICS.

The Lakeside Club Preparing a Big Affair.

Thomas Driscoll has been visiting at the Magee ranch and has played some good sets with the Magee boys.

The tournament which was to have come off at San Mateo last Saturday has been postponed indefinitely. The management want to change it to a double tournament and have it on August 31st, but this comes too near the coast championship doubles, and many of the tennis men are not inclined to enter.

The directors of the Lake Side Club will meet to-morrow night to arrange for a tournement to be held at the club courts two weeks from Saturday. They may decide to make it an invitation tourney, and if they do it will be quite an event in tennis circles.

A sign artistically printed by Sam Hardy has been posted over the door of the Lake Side court. It is to the effect that visitors are always welcome, and as a consequence every afternoon sees quite a few spectators of both sexes watching the games with much interest.

THE WINGED ACORN.

Acme Men Very Enthusiastic Over Wheeling.

The ten-mile race is over. As a result the Acme club has the honor of a world's record. It was a great record and the boys can hardly contain themselves for their delight at their success. Nissen is the lion of the hour. He is congratulated on all sides. The world's 10-mile road record was fairly and squarely broken, and it only remains for the record to be acknowledged. The time was phenomenal, being 25.45, which is nearly half a minute below the former record for the distance Nor will Nissen stop here. On Sunday afternoon next he is going to try for the road record from Oakland to San Jose. Pickard of the Acme holds the present record of 2 hours 13 minutes unpaced. Nissen will start from the City Hall and finish at St. James' hotel. As he is in the pink of condition, his magnificent performance of Sunday not having tired him at all, he is pretty sure of taking a slice of the record.

The San Jose club have extended a cordial invitation to the Acmes to visit them on Sunday Of course the Acmes will go. They leave Oakland at 7.30 P. M. and will make a moonlight ride to San Jose, where they will meet Nissen and all have a fine time at the banquet which the San Jose Club will prepare

Geo. A. Hansen made the century run under the nine-hour limit and received a medal for the feat.

Yesterday Gus Martin, J. E. Scott and W. A Burke left on a wheeling trip to Yosemite Valley. They took the boat to Stockton and from there they will pedal to the valley. They will be gone two weeks.

Jack Kitchen and James Wright returned from Lake Tahoe, and "Pap" Hardie and C. Hannon got back from Lake County on Sunday last. All had a great time and report no accidents

August 11th Jack Kitchen's long talked of "blind run" will come off, and on August 28th a five-mile race on the Fruitvale-Haywards course will be held

The club will have a gentleman's night on August 15th. A. Pickard, of the Acme Club, will meet Code, of the Olympic club, in a four round boxing match.

The annual meeting will be held August 31st for the election of officers for the ensuing year.

RELIANCE FOOTBALLERS.

Steps Towards Organizing This Year's Team.

The first step towards putting a football team in the field has been taken by the Reliance Club. Last Thursday night most of last year's team met and elected as captain Mr. McMillan, the star left guard of last season McMillan is an old football player and is popular with the boys. With such a captain and such material as last season's team to work with the Reliance will have a stronger team than ever.

C. Barnes, Dr Carlton and George Morrow were elected as the football committee

Jack Wyckoff will train for end this year and Doconey, Stanford's great player, may play on the other end Clemens will play behind the line, as will also Benson as quarter. McMillan may play tackle, if any one can be found in his place. With such men as McMillan Sullivan and Oliver in the line and Frick, Walton, Clemens and Benson behind the team will be strong.

The boys will soon begin work in the "gym" and later on will go to the training table and "line up" at the old Piedmont grounds in the evening.

The players mean business They are going East and will train hard to make a good showing. They will visit Denver, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Michigan and Cornell at New York.

Though football is attracting a great deal of attention the Reliance cyclers are not idle August 4th the club will take a run to the Cliff They will leave on the 9 o'clock boat. On August 18th a five-mile road race will be held, and also a club run to Haywards The racers will start at San Leandro and finish at Haywards The scratch men will be paced by tandems At Haywards the boys will get dinner and return slowly in the afternoon.

Pop Jerome, who met with an accident last week, was out Monday and it is thought that he will soon be able to ride his wheel again

P. S. Carleton is quite ill. The boys all miss him on their runs and hope to see him out again soon

The boys are anxious to have one of the circuit meets in Oakland and will do all in their power to further that end.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

It Touches Wheelmen's Interests in the Boulevard.

The sporting editor received a communication this week from a well-known leader in amateur sports, touching the new boulevard that is being constructed around Lake Merritt. In the course of his comment he alludes to the beautiful drive with reference to cycling. He intimates that by the time the boulevard is completed the wheel will be as ultra-fashionable as the swell barouche or natty victoria for outdoor peringrinations.

He suggests that provision be made now for a bicycle way on the boulevard as well as a drive for other vehicles and a walk for pedestrians

The suggestion seems a timely one, and might be well considered by some of the wheeling organizations There is no place in this city where a public promenade is provided for either of the classes mentioned. With the ultimate completion of the boulevard around one of the most beautiful water parks in America it is more than likely that the lovers of the cycle will find as much enjoyment along its shore as any of the thousands who will delight in its beauties

The correspondent concludes by inviting discussion of ways and means for furtherance of the project.

RULES OF THE BOARD.

Wheeling Clubs Cautioned to Observe Them.

The following issued by the racing board of the L. A. W. will prove of interest to some of the clubs and prevent them from breaking the association laws:

"The racing board is not permitted to sanction racing on Sundays. A club may contest one or more races open only to members of the club, and if no prize is offered in any event and no admission charged the public the board will not take cognizance of the affair. Of late these events have been arranged with more formality than was ever contemplated. Public attention has been attracted by announcements through the newspapers of the entries and their handicap allowances and by publication of the results. All this is misleading to the board. To avoid misunderstanding and suspension of contestants clubs will be required in future to give notice to the board in advance of all such events Class A men are warned that to compete with class B men in such races is the equivalent of the competition in public which forfeits their class A status

R. M. WELCH,
Representative Nat'l Racing Board.

AMONG THE YACHTSMEN.

Question Over the California Club Regatta.

The regatta of the California Yacht Club last Sunday was not a glittering success. A stake boat was missing off the Union Iron Works and when the competing boats had worked up to that point it was found that they would have to square away for home on bearings. Whether the race will be declared off or not will depend upon the result of the meeting of the board to be held tomorrow evening at the club house.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS.

The Good Roads Association Is in Evidence.

The Good Roads Association of Alameda county is steadily working, in its endeavor to arouse public sentiment to a realization of the necessity of keeping the public highways in good condition.

At a meeting Thursday night the coupon system was adopted. These coupons for admission into the association will be published in the daily paper of Alameda county and it is hoped that they will prove effectual in inducing a large number to join the association, and lend a helping hand to the good cause.

"What we want to do," said President Brittan, "is to bring the people to a realization of the vast importance of good roads If once made to realize how necessary it is to keep the streets and roads in good condition, I think that we will have little trouble in procuring members. The great trouble is that they cannot see the need of good roads

"But we will keep steadily at work and if at the end of five years we have accomplished what is expected of us we will be quite satisfied. We cannot do it all in a day, but by keeping at it I think a great deal can be accomplished.

"When in a light spring wagon, a bad road is not so noticeable, but now that the bicycle has ceased to be a toy and has become the business man's means of locomotion, good roads are an absolute necessity to the success of a community.

"We now have about 150 members, which makes our annual income $150. This is a small amount, and only goes a short way, but we hope to soon secure 1,000 or more members. At less than 10 cents a month it seems as though we should be able to find more then 1,000 persons in Oakland with enough patriotism to help in this good cause. In time when we are strong enough, I hope that we can employ a competent engineer at a good salary whose duties shall be to see that the streets are kept in good order. He will see that the street contracts are properly carried out and that no fraudulent work is done He will also keep in touch with the city officials and see that the ordinances for the preservation of good streets are carried out. We do not need any more laws but we certainly do need what laws we have, enforced With a competent man in this position, we could accomplish a great deal

"The city should take care of the streets, and not the individual property holders Our roads are not in a very bad condition. With the exception of Adeline street, Broadway, San Pablo avenue, Telegraph avenue, and those streets that bear the heavy travel, it would cost little to repair them and keep them in good condition.

'Mr. Henshaw's plan, regarding the boulevard, is an excellent one and we sincerely hope that it will be carried out By levying a small tax it would hardly be noticed by the taxpayers.

'Another important duty of our prospective overseer would be to see that the streets were properly relaid after being torn up for gas, water and sewer pipes The condition that some of the companies leave the streets after tearing them up, is disgraceful. If we can enlist 1,000 members and I believe we can, and hire this engineer, we will accomplish a great deal.'"

Clever Sport for Patrons of the Bay District.

Horse racing as provided the public at the Bay District track in San Francisco is a very enjoyable sport which is only to be seen to be appreciated. The programmes are excellent and the fact that the season has been carried to so successful an outcome speaks volumes for the management of the association. There has been no scandal of any kind attached to the racing at the Bay District and every attempt to "jockey" is met with stern censure and the infliction of severe penalties by the judges.

SEA SERPENT STORIES.

Yarns About Various Visits of the Alleged Marine Monsters.

American and British Naval Officers Have Often Been in Pursuit.

Of course we all laugh at stories of the sea serpent. This marine monster has been reported so often in so many different disguises and shapes, he has appeared at such widely separated places at the same time, that his name is synonymous with exaggeration and invention.

Therefore not much dependence was placed upon the reports spread before the citizens of New York last week by Capt. Geer, of the Sound steamer City of Lowell, who with several of his officers and more than forty passengers saw the sea serpent in the vicinity of Stratford Shoals. At the same time a report came from the crew of the yacht Agnes, of the New York Yacht Club, whose commander, Capt. J. Norton Winslow, reported having encountered the sea serpent some hours previously.

Although these various reports of the appearance of this half-mythical sea monster were corroborated by some forty persons, yet the story was received by the general public with incredulity. It excited smiles more than curiosity, although if the sighting of anything else than a sea serpent had been reported with a like abundance of corroboration, no doubt would have been entertained of its existence.

And why should not there exist a sea monster answering the descriptions of the sea serpent?

Who is to positively affirm that some huge snake, perhaps hundreds of feet in length, does not reside in the bottom of the sea, taking care to keep out of the reach of harm, and only coming to the surface at rare intervals?

Nobody claims that the mysteries of the sea have all been fathomed, and nobody can deny that there are many things about it which are unexplainable.

It is known, for instance, that monsters exactly corresponding with descriptions of the sea serpent by people who claim to have seen it existed in past ages. In the museum of Yale College are the skeletons of many of these creatures dug out of the rocks and from the beds of dried-up seas, where they had reposed for ages.

PETRIFIED SPECIMENS.

Geologists all know that certain strata are almost certain to disclose the the skeletons of great sea monsters, hundreds of feet in length, which in far remote ages swam the oceans of the earth and bred numerously.

The vertibrae, the ribs, the skull, the jaws of these sea serpents of a bygone age are as well known to scientists as the bones of the megatharium and the mastodon. Coming upon such bones or traces of them in rock formation the scientist classifies them instantly, knowing that they are the remains of the sea serpent.

One of these antediluvian sea serpents had a neck at least fifty feet long, according to the scientists of the British museum, where the skeleton of such a specimen is to be seen. It had a large head, with immense eyes, and it swam through the water something like a great snake.

Is anybody to say that these species are entirely extinct? Who can affirm that somewhere in the dark recesses of ocean a remnant of the ocean may not yet exist, some pterodactyl or labyrinthodon, centuries old, perhaps, and coming to the surface only when disturbed by some earthquake or submarine convulsion, only to return again to the bottom from fright at the sight of ships?

The existence of the sea serpent has never been positively denied by any eminent man of science. Men of science, on the other hand, are the first to give ear to the stories of a sea serpent's appearance. They know the possibility of such an animal surviving, as, perhaps, the sole representative of his race, and many learned bodies have investigated the subject.

In addition to this there is the startling fact that the sea serpent's appearance has been officially recorded on the books of the government of the United States and on the books of the British Admiralty. Naval vessels of the United States have more than once encountered the sea serpent, whose appearance was duly entered in the log, authenticated by the officers of the deck and others called from the ward room

SEEN BY NAVAL OFFICERS.

Commodore Preble, of the United States Navy, saw such a sea serpent, and lowering a boat gave chase to the monster, which he described as being at least one hundred feet in length. Capt. Little, of the United States Navy, also saw a sea serpent in Penobscot Bay, and, lowering a boat, gave chase, but the snake moved off too rapidly to be overtaken.

On Oct. 11th, 1879, H. M. S. Philomelen encountered the sea serpent in the Gulf of Suez and his appearance was duly entered in the log. The captain ordered a shot fired at the snake, but he was too far off for it to take effect. In addition to this another British vessel, no less a craft than the royal yacht Osborne, which is the property of Queen Victoria, encountered the monster in the Mediterranean in 1877, and he was seen by the officers and all of the crew. Would the officers of Queen Victoria's yacht deliberately invent such a story?

Another authentic record of the sea serpent was two years later, when he was seen January 28th, 1879, by the officers and crew of the steamship City of Baltimore, in the Gulf of Aden. Some months later, on April 5th of the same year, the sea serpent was seen by Capt. Davison, of the steamship Kinshinmaru. These are only a few of the recent records.

MADE AFFIDAVITS.

Capt. Laurence de Ferry made oath before a magistrate in 1746, that he had chased a sea serpent with a crew of sailors in a rowboat, but that the monster escaped. The captain described the creature as a formidable specimen, fully 600 feet long, whose coils above water looked like a row of hogsheads. It had the head of a horse, with a sort of mane, and it was gray or brown in color.

Mr. Eleazer Crabtree, "a man of unimpeachable veracity," who dwelt on Fox Island, in Penobscot Bay, in 1778, said he saw a sea serpent 500 feet long. His description was very much like that of Capt. de Ferry's, and the monster he saw had a large, black mouth. The same Crabtree saw another sea serpent near Mount Desert in 1793.

The adventure of Commodore Preble, U. S. N., when he gave chase to the sea serpent, took place in 1779. He was then a midshipman, and when the sea serpent was sighted from the deck of the sloop of war he was placed in command of a boat manned by twelve seamen and sent in pursuit. The monster is said to have been 100 feet long and possessed of a large head. Its motion was so rapid that it could not be overtaken, but it was observed by the officers and men for over an hour.

Captain Little, U. S. N., swore that while in Penobscot Bay, in 1789, on board of a "public armed ship," he saw a sea serpent at sunrise one morning. He had a boat lowered and took the tiller himself, but before he could get near enough for the marines to shoot the animal sank out of sight.

ON THE AMERICAN COAST.

Abraham Cummings reported a sea serpent in Penobscot Bay in 1802, and another in 1808. In the same year the Rev. Mr. Maclean, a clergyman of Eigg, sent a careful description of a sea serpent, with "a head somewhat broad," that swam "with his head above water for about half a mile." He described the creature as about eighty feet long.

In 1817 Capt. Tappan, of the schooner Laura and his whole crew told of seeing a sea serpent off Gloucester. They said it looked like a string of buoys, with a head like a serpent and a long tongue that stuck out of its mouth like a harpoon. Its motion was more rapid than that of a whale.

Several persons made affidavits in 1818 to having seen a monster off Cape Ann. In 1822 the sea serpent was reported from the fjords of Norway, and in 1831 it was seen off Portsmouth, N. H. In 1848 the British ship Daedalus, Capt. McQuahae, encountered a sea serpent which was distinctly seen by many of the passengers and afterwards described by them with much care. The captain and passengers of the ship Silas Richards reported encountering a monster on June 7th, 1826, in latitude 41 and longitude 67, and described the serpent as of a brownish color and seventy feet long.

Three Maine fishermen, "all reliable and God fearing men," sailed far out to sea one summer's day in 1833 and came across a sea serpent basking near the surface. Two of the fishermen were so badly scared that they went below, leaving the third, a Mr. Gooch, to face the intruder. Mr. Gooch is authority for the statement that the boat passed within fifty feet of the serpent and that he had a good view of it. It raised its head and looked at Mr. Gooch and then dived out of sight. There were many reports of sea serpents in that year. The steamship Connecticut reached port several days overdue, and explained the delay by saying that much time had been consumed in chasing sea serpents. The passengers and crew were unanimous in their description of the monster, which fled across the sea in spirals. The people on land became very much excited, and three days later the Connecticut put to sea with a hundred excursionists who wanted to get a glimpse of the snake.

FIRED AT THE SEA SERPENT.

From Norway in 1815 came a story to the effect that three fishermen had fired at a sea serpent and had been pursued. They pulled for the shore as fast as they could, and when the monster found himself in shallow water he turned about and disappeared.

The crew of the ship Pauline encountered a sea serpent in 1875. It was coiled twice around the carcess of a sperm whale, with its head in the air. When the Pauline's boat approached the snake disappeared but the whale was there to prove it. This story was carefully examined into, and is believed to be authentic.

In the same year the serpent was seen again. It was on August 3d. A party of well-known New England ladies and gentlemen, four in number, besides two sailors, saw from the deck of the yacht Princess near Swampscott an animal resembling a sea serpent. At a distance of 100 or 150 yards from the yacht a huge head like that of a turtle or snake arose from time to time to a height of six or eight feet above the water. It was seen by the entire party during two hours. One of the men on the yacht made a sketch of it.

Capt. Garton, of the steamer Norman and a passenger on the steamship Roman, saw a serpent at different times on the same day, July 17, 1875, in about the same latitude. They described the monster as striped black and white and over 100 feet long. Both reports were made independently, and the two men did not know each other.

On July 15, 1877, Mr. G. S. Wesson and Mr. F. W. Fernald saw a strange animal which they thought must be a sea serpent. They both gave careful descriptions, saying it had a rough and scaly skin of a brownish hue. Its back was covered with protuberances that looked like a row of dirt heaps on the surface of the water. These observers could not discover any mouth or eyes.

CHASED A SEAL.

Six men while rowing near Gloucester on June 7, 1886, suddenly saw a seal at a distance of about sixty rods sharply pursued by a creature that looked like a snake. At one time the seal jumped high out of the water in its frantic endeavors to escape. The serpent was apparently afraid to venture into shallow water and gave up the chase as the seal got nearer to land. These men are said to be of excellent character and could not have all been deceived. They were all closely questioned and agreed in every detail of their stories.

Early on the afternoon of August 12, 1886, Mr. G. B. Putman, of Boston; Mr. C. W. Pool and a large number of Gloucester people said they saw the monster for ten minutes near Rockport. Its color was dark brown and its length apparently eighty feet at least. No eyes could be seen, but the serpent swam with great speed, cutting the water with what looked like a pair of fins. Its back presented that look of humpiness, or a row of humps, recorded by other observers. The animal was also seen by others in the vicinity during the following ten days. These accounts of the serpent's appearance are accepted as reliable by a large number of persons, especially in that part of New England.

Of late years the witnesses to the serpent's appearance agree pretty generally in their descriptions of the monster. The serpent invariably shows itself in the higher latitudes and always in summer or early autumn. As to length, color and general appearance, motion and its curious harmlessness, the different tales are strangely alike.

In view of these facts, it is unreasonable to ask whether or not the sea serpent may or may not be a reality? Here are only a few of the cases in which the monster has been reported by credible witnesses, including officers of the United States and of the British navy, clergymen, merchants and captains of reliability, whose statements have been corroborated by other eyewitnesses often to the number of a whole ship's crew.

These are not the fairy tales of imaginative fishermen, but the sober statements of men of education and position. They all agree about main points, differing from each other to just that extent which would be natural in the case of an animal seen at a distance during a time of excitement, a disagreement which only tends to prove the truth of their main statements. In nearly every case there is reported the strange sinuous motion of the monster, its long neck corresponding with the antediluvian specimens whose skeletons exist in the museums, and his great length and size.

Summer appears to be the sea serpent's favorite time of appearance in these latitudes. Certain it is that there are not many of these sea monsters, but who is to affirm, in view of the facts, that the whole story is a fabrication?

COFFEE—C. E. Bickford's circular says: "Since our last circular there has been a decided change in the tone of the market due to an improvement in the price of coffee. Coffee and future in New York coupled with the moderate revival of demand both for home consumption and shipment overland. Dealers have been loath to ascribe the sudden change abroad to any but speculative influences, and while the tone of the local market is firm, the situation so far has not warranted any advance nor made that action feasible. A further rise or a brisk demand here, however, would likely cause an immediate improvement in certain classes—notably good unwashed Salvador—the reduced stock of which is out of proportion to prospective needs. We continue quotations firm, as follows: 20@20½c per lb for good prime washed Costa Rica; —@19½c for good Costa Rica; 18½@19c for good Costa Rica mixed with black beans; 17½@18½c for fair Costa Rica; 14@16½ for common to ordinary Costa Rica; 19@20c for good to prime washed Salvador; —@18c for good green unwashed Salvador; 21@21½c for prime washed Guatemala; 19¾@20½c for good to strictly good washed Gautemala; 18½@19½c for fair washed Guatemala; 16@17¾c for medium Guatemala; 14@15¾ for ordinary Guatemala; 9@13½c for very inferior to common Guatemala; 21@22c per lb for good to prime washed Peaberry; 19@19½c for good unwashed Peaberry. SHE IS MRS. GUELPH.

Queen Victoria's Name When Divested of Her Titles.

Family Names of Monarchs Which Are But Rarely Used.

Not one person out of a thousand, if he had a fair day's start and the privilege of rummaging among encyclopedias, could trace out the real family names of the rulers of Europe. As a matter of fact, these are very complicated, and to know them is quite an effort of the memory. In the case of royalty the family name has been in most cases taken from the name of the castle in which the founder of the race lived.

Mistakes are very frequently made through ignorance, and these mistakes are so frequently quoted they become accepted facts. The English royal family are known, for example, as Guelphs, the Russian royal family as Romanoffs and the Portuguese kingly house as Braganzans. All of these, it now seems, are wrong.

Le Figaro, of Paris, has gone into this subject quite extensively, and the facts that it has brought together are well worth setting down. Queen Victoria, according to this authority, was originally Miss Azon, or Miss Azon von Este. She was descended, as were the other members of the houses of Brunswick-Luneburg and Hanover, from Azon, Margrave of Este. The Prince of Wales, the son of Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg, has naturally his father's family name. He is spoken of more correctly than any of the other royal personages of Europe. Descended from the Wettins, which line was founded in the twelfth century, his actual name is Mr. Albert Edward Wettin.

Likewise the King of Portugal, strictly speaking, has the same family name. He was a grandson of another Prince of Coburg, who married the then Queen of Portugal, and thereby became ruler of that country. Ferdinand of Bulgaria comes from exactly the same stock and is Ferdinand Wettin. A cousin of his, and of the same family name, is the present monarch of Belgium, Leopold II, a prince of Saxe-Coburg having ascended the Belgium throne in 1831.

Hohenzollern is not the family name of the German line that is now upon the throne. Their true name is Zollern, Thassilon, the first count of Zollern, having founded the race about 800. In the year 1300 the Zollern family had two male descendants, the Count of Zollern and the Burgrave of Nuremburg. From the latter comes the present royal house of the German Empire. So William II is William Zollern. The King of Roumania is another representative of this line and has precisely the same name.

The Capets are: The Duke of Orleans, the son of old Count of Paris, Don Carlos and Alfonso XIII, the infant King of Spain. Their progenitor was Hugues Capet, the original Count of Paris, who ascended the throne of France in 987.

Of Oldenburgs, founded by the Count of Oldenburg, who died in 1440, there are many. The chief of those today who are entitled to use this family name are Christian IX of Denmark; George I, King of Greece; the Grand Duke of Oldenburg, Ernest, Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, and Nicholas II, Emperor of all the Russias. Emperor Nicholas is a Romanoff only through the female line. Rightly he is an Oldenburg, having descended from Peter III, a member of one of the Holstein branches of that house.

Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria-Hungary, the Queen Regent of Spain and Frederick, Grand Duke of Baden, are Ethichons. The original Ethichon was a Duke of Alsace, who lived about the year 614. Humbert, King of Italy, is Mr. Savoia, and Oscar II, of Sweden, Bernadotte. The original of this name was a French general, who was made King of Sweden in 1818, and was called Charles XIV. Pope Leo XIII's real name is Joachim Pecci. Alexander I, of Servia has the name of Obrenowitch, and Nicholas I, Prince of Montenegro, is Mr. Niegoch.

A MAN OF MANY IDEAS.

Street Superintendent Miller Suggests Many Reforms.

Gardeners Changed at the Meeting of the Public Works Board.

When Mayor Davie called the Board of Public Works to order last night it the eye of the casual observer did not impress him with the idea that the entire board was present the roll call of Secretary Kaufman would have had that effect.

An ordinance to provide for advertising for sealed bids for street cleaning and sweeping was referred to the committee of the whole.

A communication from the superintendent of streets suggesting the advisability of a corporation yard with the necessary buildings therein for keeping and storing the city's tools, etc., was referred to the same committee. Mr. Miller, in his communication, suggested that the property be located near the City hall, and that the size of the lot necessary to accommodate a corporation yard would be about 100 feet square.

The superintendent of streets notified the board that there was a $5 discrepancy between the rates charged by the Dingee Water Company and those charged by the Contra Costa Water Company for watering two different parks in the city. He advised a survey of the parks in question to locate the cause of the difference. It was referred to the committe of the whole.

The lack of paint on the band stand in Clinton and the City hall parks was noticed by Mr. Miller, and he advised the painting of them. Referred to finance committee.

A further trouble in regard to the parks was that at present there is no place to put the debris which accumulates, it being impossible for the corporation wagons to call oftener than once a week. Mr. Miller therefore advised the purchasing of boxes large enough to hold it until the wagon could pass. The committee of the whole will investigate.

Another communication from the superintendent of streets suggested that he be allowed to engage a foreman of street macadamizing when he thought it necessary, at a salary of $4 a day. The board referred this to the finance committee of the council.

The way in which certain street railway companies had laid the basalt blocks between their tracks was the cause of another communication from Mr. Miller. Some companies had the blocks laid so as to be two or three inches higher than the grade of the street, making it unpleasant for vehicles to drive or cross where this existed. He proposed the passage of an amendment to the ordinance which would give the superintendent of streets the power to reject any work of this kind that was not in accordance with good roadways. It was referred to the committee of the whole.

The bills owed by the city next came under the observation of the board. Demands to the amount of $106.35 were allowed for the street department; $2,004.95 from the school building fund, and $155 for the educational department.

The petition of John Lewis for a city position was filed.

The claims of John Mack for $10 and James Quinlan for $12 were sent to the Board of Education.

Up to this time the board had acted in perfect harmony and to the outsider no difference of opinions of the members was perceptible, but when President Davie asked the secretary if there was any new business he appeared somewhat surprised to hear him read a resolution deposing E. Hocking from his position as keeper of Lincoln park. The mayor made little marks with his pencil on the sheet of paper before him. The city attorney found something of interest in the figures on the carpet and the city engineer was apparently figuring the cost of repairing the ceiling in the southwest corner of the board room. Mr. Kaufman called the roll and Messrs. Piersol and Wilson voted aye, while Davie quietly answered no.

The resolution to give the place so made vacant to C. N. Hitchcock was carried by the same vote.

The resolution to depose James Zimmerman from the keepership of Jefferson park met with the approval of all members, but the proposition to cast the cloak of the fallen Zimmerman on the shoulders of Al Williams did not coincide with the mayor's views. The other two members seemed to think it the proper thing and consequently the portfolio of parkkeeper was tendered to Mr. Williams.

No further business being before the board, an adjournment was taken.

IT IS WELL WELCOMED.

Vandercook's New Road Will Build Up the County.

It Will Open Up to Oakland a Very Prosperous District.

The Tribune of yesterday published, as an extract from the San Jose Mercury, the following paragraph:

"When the electric line between Oakland and Haywards was projected there was a general shaking of heads among the silurians and the know-it-alls. It would never, never pay. But not only has it proved a profitable investment, but it has wonderfully built up the section through which it passes and it has been the means of taking to Oakland hundreds of thousands of dollars in trade that never before had gone to that city."

The truthfulness of this statement cannot be gainsaid and no attempt is made to, even by those who at the inception of the electric line in question, prophesied financial ruin and disaster.

What has been said of the Haywards line may with equal justification be said of the line to Berkeley and the other line to Alameda. These electric systems, in completeness of equipment, the manner in which they are run and the thriving communities which they connect, are the peer of any combination of electric systems in the world.

The roads do not reach all parts of Alameda county, and, until similar lines radiate to all parts of the rich country surrounding this city, Oakland will not enjoy the benefits of this part of the State.

But another road has just been got under way, and within six months in all probability will be pouring into the business district of Oakland the retail trade and the wealth of the country far beyond Livermore, even into the Corral Hollow country.

This last road which is now represented by E. P. Vandercook, has just been granted a franchise by the Supervisors by a unanimous vote. It will connect with the Vandercook or East Oakland system, which now extends from the corner of Eighth street and Broadway to the corner of Twenty-seventh street and Fruit Vale avenue. The announcement that this line is to be built has been received with the greatest evidence of satisfaction. The projectors mean business because at the latest the road must be completed within eighteen months, and must be commenced at the farthest within six months. The fact that no bonus has been asked from the merchants of this city is an evidence that they are able enough to put the line through without assistance.

The line will run through a country which is now scantily supplied with railway service, and before long will be flanked with thriving and populous communities. This fact will be evident from a rough designation of the proposed route as follows: From the present terminus of the Vandercook system on Fruit Vale avenue in a direct line to Seminary avenue in the vicinity of Mills college; thence along the edge of the foothills to the limits of San Leandro, where it takes a turn around Lake Chabot into Castro valley; thence through Haywards pass into Dublin and the Livermore valley. The line will follow the main county road from Dublin to Livermore, and a spur track will be built into Pleasanton.

People who have occasion to travel in the direction outlined know that they accomplish the journey only with a great deal of difficulty. They will therefore see the great advantages to be derived by the building of this line, because they will be afforded an opportunity of reaching any spot along a rich and promising section of country.

Not alone were the property owners willing to grant right-of-way through their lands, but the press in San Leandro, Haywards and Livermore published articles showing that the new road meant to the thriving towns for which they spoke both wealth and population.

AN ENCOURAGING VIEW.

A well-known merchant of this city said today: "Oakland ought to have twice as many manufactories as she has and she would have them if she could only get coal that did not come either from the other side of the United States or the other side of the globe. As I understand it, the Vandercook line is aiming to reach the Corral Hollow coal country, and if it is, that means that coal will be laid down here just as low as coal is placed at factories in the East. With cheap coal comes factories; with factories come employes; with employes come homes, and with homes and an increased population come commercial progress and the eventual advancement of Oakland to the dignity of a metropolis. Every merchant that I know welcome the Vandercook road."

E. P. Vandercook, the projector of this great enterprise, is a young man, yet he has already done a great deal for this city. He has built and is still struggling to build lines into all the centers of population in East Oakland, and his enterprise is appreciated by the people whom he has has placed within a few minutes' ride of the heart of this city.
